AACHEN AFIRE; WIPE OUT FOE

Relief Troops Slaughtered Under Crossfire of Yanks

POWER, WATER CUT OFF; FLAMES RAGE UNCHECKED

City Hammered for Hours by 200 Guns and 300 Planes.

LONDON, Oct. 12 [Thursday] (AP).—Enormous fires raged uncontrolled in the heart of Aachen early today as the doomed German city died the flaming death decreed by the American 1st army, whose surrender ultimatum was spurned.

A defiant German attempt to reinforce the city in daylight resulted in a slaughter from American cross fire and for five hours before dusk last night 300 American fighter-bombers and 200 heavy artillery pieces punished the city with an avalanche of fire and steel.

Field dispatches said there was no power and no water to fight the flames burning in the 1,100 year old city—also known as Aix-la-Chapelle—where Charlemagne was born, built his palaces, died, and was buried.

Some Try to Escape.

Civilians and some Nazi troops tried to flee to the safety of American lines. Some got thru. Others were shot in the back by a sprinkling of Himmler's storm troopers.

This was the death trap the Germans earlier in the day tried to pry loose with a rescue division, sent in from Merzbruck and Hastenrath to the east with orders to squeeze thru the narrow, bullet raked corridor between Wurselen and Haaren.

There was no attempt to conceal the desperate, ill fated maneuver. The exposed columns, estimated to number about 10,000 men, instantly came under fire from dive bombing, machine gunning Lightnings and Thunderbolts. American gun crews turned their fire into the Germans.

Major Battle Develops.

A major battle developed northeast of the blazing city as Yank infantry and armor smashed into the suicidal relief troops. Artillery and mortars plowed steel thru their ranks at almost pointblank range.

Rain and low clouds spared Aachen for the time being from feeling the full might of allied air power, keeping hundreds of Fortresses and Liberators and medium bombers confined to their hangars in Britain and France.

The German command risked moving troops in daylight and under direct observation. The troops appeared to number about one division [possibly 10,000 men].

[The American broadcasting station in Europe quoted British dispatches last night as saying that German troops have begun evacuating Aachen and were moving out of the city to the northeast. The broadcast was heard by the Blue network.]

Get Extra Hour of Grace.

At noon, an hour and 10 minutes after expiration of the allied ultimatum to the German commander of Aachen to surrender, hundreds of American big guns began throwing shells into the historic city and dive bombers began shattering and burning its ancient buildings.

"Altho I am looking right down into the heart of the city I can see no real details of the immense damage that is being inflicted," said an Associated Press correspondent. "Down in the main part of the city

BULGARS ACCEPT TERMS OF TRUCE, RUSSIA REVEALS

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP).—Bulgaria tonight accepted preliminary armistice conditions from the allies, agreeing to evacuate within two weeks territories seized from Greece and Yugoslavia, it was announced in a Moscow broadcast.

A tripartite military commission under the chairmanship of a Russian representative will supervise the evacuation of Bulgarian troops and officials from the occupied territories, the announcement said.

Start Immediately.

Evacuation of the Greek and Yugoslav territories—which Bulgaria obtained from Germany—must start immediately. A Cairo broadcast said Bulgarian troops in Greece already had orders to withdraw.

Allied governments, thru the European advisory commission, have been considering the armistice conditions since Sept. 9 when the Russians ended hostilities against the Bulgarian army after a one day war.

Disagreement Reported.

There were a number of points on which the soviet and Anglo-American conferees were reported to have disagreed and the Bulgarian situation—as well as other Balkan problems—was on the agenda Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden took to Moscow for discussion with Marshal Stalin and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov.

Bulgaria has been dickering for peace for two months.

Army's Paper Hits G.I.s Who Love Only U.S.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The United States is "married to the rest of the world—for better or for worse," the Paris edition of the United States army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, told American soldiers in an editorial today.

The editorial is headed "Are You a Parochial Xenophobe?" and says that means a "guy who hates foreign people."

It mentions that Life magazine "expressed the fear that the American soldier may return from the war a parochial xenophobe" and admits that a "lot of 'Joes' sound off about the British, the French, and the Belgians, and other folks."

Admits Many Like U. S. Best.

These "guys," according to the editorial, "see no good in anybody, no beauty anywhere, and hate the British for being British and the French for being French, the Dutch for being clean—and the Arabs for being dirty. They just don't give a damn about anybody or anything except the good old U. S. A."

The Stars and Stripes says that "those guys don't talk the language of the average G. I.," adding, "we think they talk the loudest but we do not think they talk for the most."

Asserts We're All Neighbors.

Then the American soldier is oriented in foreign policy as follows:

"Most of us realize for the first time what a small world this is. That is, all of us are neighbors. That something rotten in Denmark stinks like hell in the United States. Lots of us sense for the first time that our big, strong, young country is married to the rest of the world—for better or worse."

With the exception of the privately owned London Daily Mail, which publishes a Paris edition, the Stars and Stripes is the only newspaper printed in English in the European theater.

100 Chicago Yanks Attend London Party

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—One hundred Chicago service men were entertained here tonight by Lady Burney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. High of Chicago. Lady Burney is the wife of Charles Dennistoun Burney, designer of the airship R-101 and also the inventor of the protector and explosive paravane.

Lady Burney turned up with 50 of London's fairest girls to provide dancing partners for the boys from her home town and did everything possible to give a Chicago atmosphere to the clubrooms in Cadogan square.

Bartle Bull Speaks.

The G. I.'s milled about, getting acquainted, drinking light refreshments, and generally having a good time.

British Vice Adm. D. W. Boyd, 5th sea lord and former commander of the aircraft carrier Illustrious, described some of his adventures in the Mediterranean. A member of parliament, Bartle Bull, whose wife is the former Miss Rosemary Baur of Chicago, spoke.

Godfrey Haggard, formerly British consul in Chicago, was one of the guests as was Mrs. Roxana Wentworth Bowen Van Rensselaer, granddaughter of "Long John" Wentworth, first mayor of Chicago.

Gordon Dewar, who left Chicago in 1935, gave the service men a few tunes on a bagpipe.

ILLEGITIMACY OF ONE OF EVERY 14 BABIES STARTLES BRITISHERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—A report that one in every 14 children born in England and Wales during 1943 was illegitimate has given rise to concern among authorities, it was learned tonight.

In 1938 babies born to unmarried mothers in these areas, according to available statistics, numbered 26,739, while in 1943 no less than 43,105 babies were illegitimate.

In addition to the moral principles involved, authorities are said to be worried over the fate in store for many of these babies.

Charge Holy Land 'Terror' Helps Enemy

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP).—"Terrorists" in Palestine today were accused of "assisting the enemy" and of "directly impeding the war effort of Great Britain which is playing such a vital part in the struggle against Hitler."

The charge was made by J. V. W. Shaw, officer administering the government of Palestine, and Gen. Bernard Paget, British commander in chief of the middle east forces. It came as Colonial Secretary Oliver Stanley told the house of commons recent Jewish terrorist outbreaks in Palestine "seriously impeded" the allies and harmed the Jewish cause.

Cites Slaying of Britons.

The Shaw statement said officers and men of the British security service had been "murdered in cold blood."

"Innocent passersby," it said, "have been killed, government buildings to the value of thousands of pounds have been destroyed by explosives and fire.

"An attempt, providentially unsuccessful, was made to assassinate his majesty's representative in ambush."

Asks Jewish Aid.

Condemning "the criminals in Palestine" for aiding the enemy, Shaw and Paget called upon the Jewish community as a whole "to assist the forces of law and order in eradicating this evil thing within our midst."

Earl Witherton, Conservative member of commons, said he had been informed that both sides in Palestine, where the population is largely Arab, were preparing for civil war when the World war ends.

RDX REPLACES TNT, PULLS NAZI 'DRAGONS' TEETH'

Boston, Mass., Oct. 11 (AP).—Known only by the cryptic symbol "RDX" a super-explosive was built by army ordnance for engineers to blast a way thru miles of concrete anti-tank defenses on the approaches to Aachen.

Col. H. B. Sheets, commander of the Boston ordnance district, explained that these obstacles, "known as 'dragons' teeth' and looking like Martian molars," had to be leveled to permit passage of tanks and other combat vehicles. Aerial reconnaissance disclosed the "teeth" and army ordnance was put on the job. The result is "RDX" which takes up much less space than TNT and, said the colonel, is much more effective.

The engineers, said the colonel, placed the plastic explosive around the bases of the obstacles, embedded a detonator cap, withdrew to a safe distance and then blasted the obstacles.

POLISH RIVALS GO TO MOSCOW FOR SHOWDOWN

Churchill and Stalin Arrange Parley.

LONDON, Oct. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill have arranged to bring together leaders of two rival Polish factions for a showdown conference.

The Moscow radio announced early today that leaders of the Polish national liberation committee were already in the soviet capital and Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk of the exiled London government was ready to fly there.

[Another dispatch said the Polish premier had left Britain by plane for Moscow.]

STALIN HAILS U. S. ROLE

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP).—Premier Stalin, addressing a dinner party given in his honor by Prime Minister Churchill, said tonight that without American aid the whole trend of the war might have been different. He said that while Britain and Russia had played important roles, the stupendous production and organizing ability of America had turned the scales.

Stalin broke all precedent by attending the dinner in the British embassy—his first such visit to any foreign embassy in Moscow.

DAY OF RECEPTIONS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 11.—Society reporters took precedence today in the Churchill-Stalin parleys, reporting a series of official soviet and British receptions at which great warmth and cordiality were publicly exhibited.

The most important event disclosed was a formal afternoon reception for Churchill by Foreign Commissar Molotov at Spiridonovka, foreign office guest house. Churchill, dressed in the khaki summer uniform of a colonel of the Wiltshire regiment, attended about an hour, chatting with Russians and foreigners. Molotov stood at his side.

Cigaret to Cigar.

Molotov offered the habitual cigar smoking British prime minister a Russian cigaret of one inch of tobacco and a two inch cardboard filter, which Churchill accepted, only to be confronted by Dr. Raoul Herrara-Arango, the Cuban charge d'affaires.

"This is the first time in 20 years," exclaimed Churchill, "that I have been seen publicly without a cigar, and the first man I meet is a man from Havana!"

Senor Herrara responded with a perfecto which Churchill smoked as he walked thru the crowd around tables of food and drink.

Up to 9 p. m. Premier Stalin and Churchill had not conferred since the three hour conference which ended at 1 a. m. Tuesday.

F. D. R. DODGES ISSUE

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—President Roosevelt, while advocating the reconstruction of Poland as "a strong nation," today dodged the ticklish question of restoring the nation's pre-war boundaries in the face of Russian demands for a large slice of eastern Poland.

The President's statement, which avoided all mention of Poland's boundaries and territorial rights, was made to a group of Polish-American leaders who urged Mr. Roosevelt to insist upon the post-war maintenance of Poland's independence and territorial integrity.

Poles Are Apprehensive.

The Polish representatives, headed by Charles Rozmarek of Chicago, president of the Polish American congress, conferred with Mr. Roosevelt in his office, after which the White House made public the texts of the President's and Rozmarek's statements.

Rozmarek, speaking for the group,

CIO Members Defy PAC and Its Collectors

A militant group of CIO members proclaimed their political independence of Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee last night by formally condemning the committee, and vowing to oppose its financial collections and purposes.

The action was taken by 50 members of local 998 of the United Automobile Workers' union employed at the Studebaker aircraft plant, at a meeting in the 6th ward Republican headquarters, 6611 Cottage Grove av. Employes from several other war plants also were present, but none from local 274 of the UAW at the Dodge-Chicago plant.

Resolution Condemns Policy.

After a long session, in which speakers charged that attempts had been made to intimidate them for their anti-PAC stand, the meeting adopted this resolution:

"We condemn the efforts of the CIO-PAC in dealing in power politics and urge every member of our local to wholeheartedly refuse to support the CIO-PAC by refusing to contribute any sum of money to it."

Clarence Dye, a CIO steward at the Studebaker plant, charged that he was summoned Tuesday night before his union's executive board and told that his action tended to "bring reproach on the union." For that, he was warned, he was liable to trial.

"No doubt, I'll be brought to trial," Dye said, "but here I am tonight. I'll fight. No union has the right to meddle in religion or politics."

Term Leaders Communists.

Dye asserted the executive committee is headed by Carl Swanson, whom he described as a Communist. Another speaker, Al Wood, an expediter, added the name of Gertrude Selig as a Communist also and charged that Swanson and Miss Selig run the union. Wood said he had heard that some members had been warned to stay away from the meeting. Several other workers jumped up to say they also had been warned.

Don Kellogg, who presided at the meeting, said that "quite a few of us at Studebaker's have banded together because we don't believe we should be told how to vote or what church to go to."

The anti-PAC workers agreed that another meeting will be held soon in a hall nearer the Studebaker plant and that each of those present would try to bring at least 10 fellow workers to that meeting.

Legislators Among Speakers.

Among other speakers were State Sen. Walker Butler, Thomas J. Downs, Republican candidate for congress from the 2d district, William J. Grace, and State Rep. Noble W. Lee.

Earlier in the day two CIO-PAC workers charged that thousands of war plant workers had been taken from their vital jobs by CIO bosses to stump for the PAC and were being paid from local union funds. This, they said, violates the Smith-Connally act.

U. S. TROOPS LAND ON 11TH ISLE IN PALAU CAMPAIGN

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Oct. 11 (AP).—Troops of the 81st infantry landed unopposed Tuesday on Ngaur, seven miles northwest of recently occupied Garakayo, strengthening the American grip on the southern Palaus, the navy announced in a bulletin tonight. This was the 11th island invaded by American forces during the Palau campaign.

Meanwhile marines, fighting on Peleliu Island, exploded a sizable Japanese ammunition dump in one of the cave positions still held by enemy remnants. Peleliu is largely in American hands.

Hen Flies to Truck Seat, Lays Egg and Flies Off

Moultrie, Ga., Oct. 11 (AP).—Returning to his ice truck after delivering a 50 pound block of ice, John Wilkes found a hen on the truck seat. He shooed her away, backed into the driveway to turn around. The hen flew back onto the seat beside him. Wilkes waved his hand again. The hen flew out. On the seat was a fresh egg.

Mrs. Bricker Introduced as Husband's Next Wife

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11 (AP).—Mrs. John W. Bricker laughingly told a breakfast meeting today of being introduced in Pennsylvania recently as "the next wife of the Vice President." "That, after celebration of our 24th wedding anniversary, was a shock to hear," she said.

MEET HILLMAN, AMERICA'S BOSS IF F. D. R. WINS

Here's a Record of His Rise to Power.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—Four weeks before the Presidential election, a stocky, bespectacled labor strategist, born in a Russian czarist ghetto 57 years ago, stands revealed before American voters as the prospective political boss of the nation in the event of a fourth term victory.

The story of Sidney Hillman's rise to that commanding position is an almost incredible one and acclaimed as a triumph for the devious tactics of Karl Marx in which Hillman has been schooled since he spent a term in a Russian prison for revolutionary activities in 1905.

In fifteen months Hillman has built a vast, tightly knit organization which has tapped union treasuries at a $100,000 a month rate to finance its far flung operations.

Pay or Lose Jobs.

He has organized the greatest propaganda drive in the history of American politics. Fifty-two million pamphlets, mainly of a malignant nature, are being printed and distributed to the accompaniment of a nation-wide doorbell ringing campaign.

Members of unions who have

dared to resist political pressure in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt have been threatened with the loss of their jobs. Untold thousands have been forced to make "voluntary" contributions under pain of loss of their livelihood.

Unionizing methods have been adapted to the political field. The Democratic national committee has been shoved into the background, virtually supplanted in the campaign by the Hillman machine, under the personal orders of the President.

They Know Who's Boss.

Hillman's greatest feat has been to coördinate the activities of a weird combination of Earl Browder's communistic forces, New Deal payrollers, and CIO union members.

The high point of his authority came when he vetoed the Vice Presidential aspirations of James F. Byrnes, one of the most popular figures in the old line Democratic party, at the Democratic national convention in Chicago. This achievement was the more startling because it was recorded after Mr. Roosevelt himself had indorsed Byrnes as his running mate. It left the Democratic party chieftains in no doubt concerning who was the boss of the fourth term campaign.

The millions who go to the polls Nov. 7 may not later, in dismay over the consequences, plead the excuse of ignorance if their ballots spell victory for Sidney Hillman's ambition to control their future destinies thru Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Citizens Repeatedly Warned.

On the basis of cold facts unearthed by congressional committees, publicized far and wide in the press, broadcast repeatedly from the floor of congress and campaign platforms, the citizenry has been informed of the nature and purpose of Hillman and his associates in their drive to take over the Democratic party.

The objective here is to review and summarize those facts, sticking closely to the printed record and sworn testimony. Whatever the truth of sensational statements freely circulated in Washington about the underworld connections of Hillman in his long labor career, nothing will be carried herein which is not borne out by the official record.

Here are the principal findings disclosed by a study of that record:

1. Hillman's CIO political action committee and its companion organization, the national citizens political action committee, are almost completely under the control of communist leaders whose demonstrated aim is the establishment of a totalitarian government.

2. President Roosevelt has given wholehearted indorsement to the political program of these two groups, extending his blessing by personal message to notorious Communists, permitting his White House staff and high ranking government officials to coöperate openly with the PAC, conferring frequently with Hillman.

Election Laws Violated.

3. At least three federal laws, put upon the statute books to protect the sanctity of elections from the corruption of slush funds and the influence of government pay rollers, have been openly violated, with United States Atty. Gen. Biddle refusing to heed frequent appeals from congress to initiate prosecutions.

4. An entire government agency, the farm security administration, has been taken over as a political weapon by the Hillmanites and scores of government officials have been loaned to the PAC for the fourth term drive.

5. Earl Browder's Communist Political association is aligned with the PAC and its leaders have publicly boasted that no candidate, including Mr. Roosevelt, has been indorsed except with the "full agreement" of the office seeker. The President's mild disclaimer of communistic support has been ignored by these Red followers who, in fact, admire it as an example of Marxist maneuvering.

Ex-Saboteurs in Machine.

6. The Hillman political machine numbers among its leaders a large group which was actively engaged in obstructing the national defense program during the Stalin-Hitler pact, encouraging sabotage and strikes, assailing Mr. Roosevelt as a warmonger, comparing him to Hitler, asserting that there was no difference between a British and a Nazi victory.

7. Hillman reported political collections aggregating $606,715 as of Aug. 15 and announced the aim of collecting an additional $1,500,000 in "voluntary" contributions from CIO union members. On Sept. 28 a house committee heard evidence that Hillman was using pressure tactics on unions in the solicitation of funds by assessments. A report to the house under the corrupt practices act showed an $80,000 contribution from the most openly communistic of all CIO unions.

8. Hillman's denial under oath before a congressional committee that his machine indorsed local candidates and had a "purge list" was shown to be untrue in evidence produced before the house committee on un-American activities. Rep. Church [R., Ill.] has urged that the CIO boss be prosecuted for perjury.

Dealed with Lenin.

9. Hillman's history is replete with instances of close association with communist leaders; varied by periods when he fought them. His pro-soviet activities overshadow his anti-communism lapses, dating back to a deal in 1922 arranged personally with Nicolai Lenin himself in which Hillman organized and became president of a corporation designated to monopolize the Russian textile business which sent a large amount of American investors' money to Russia before its failure.

Because Hillman personifies the CIO-PAC just as President Roosevelt personifies the New Deal, the story of his machine's advent upon the American political scene necessarily includes a brief personal sketch of its leader.

Hillman was born in Zagare, Lithuania [then, as now a part of Russia], on March 23, 1887. His father was a small wheat trader, his grandfather a rabbi. When he was 16 he joined the Bund, the great Jewish social democratic organization, which was bitterly opposed to the orthodox rabbinate.

Sent to Jail at 18.

At this tender age, the young Sidney was first exposed to the revolutionary movement. He served a jail sentence at the age of 18 for his activities, according to his biographer, George Soule, and during his incarceration studied the teachings of Marx. He learned the Russian language.

When he was 20, Hillman went to Manchester, England, where he clerked in a store for a few months, then sailed for America, landing at Ellis Island on Aug. 10, 1907. He went directly to Chicago and worked for a year and a half as a stock clerk with Sears, Roebuck & Co. He gained a working knowledge of English, but a heavy accent remains with him to this day.

In 1909 Hillman became an apprentice in the cutting department of Hart, Schaffner & Marx. Shortly afterward he was to desert manual labor for the remainder of his career. In the words of Benjamin Stolberg, labor historian, he is "the only really outstanding labor leader who never was a worker."

Pet of Jane Addams.

In the big clothing worker strike in Chicago in 1910, Hillman, the apprentice, did not play a leading part but he became the pet of social workers, such as Jane Addams, who interested themselves in behalf of the strikers. He also at this time became acquainted with Bessie Abramowitz, representative of the vest makers, who later became Mrs. Hillman.

In 1913, Hillman made his first apperance in New York, now the headquarters of his machine, where, under the sponsorship of Miss Addams and Louis Brandeis, later a Supreme court justice, he became an official of the New York Cloak Makers, the most important union of women's tailors in the country.

His next job was the presidency of the newly formed Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, a position which he has held to the present. The preamble to the constitution of this new union stressed the class struggle and its socialist objectives. Strikes and lockouts shook the industry under Hillman's leadership.

Helped by Frankfurter.

Thru Brandeis, Hillman met Felix Frankfurter, now Supreme court justice, and has prospered under the New Deal, like so many others, thru the influence of the Harvard law school professor.

In 1921 and 1922 Hillman visited his homeland, Russia, and made a big hit with the revolutionary leaders. He particularly impressed Lenin to whom he sold the idea of the Russian-American industrial corporation, which was to raise $1,000,000 for the establishment of nine clothing factories in the soviet union in partnership with the soviet government.

The project was a miserable failure but is was significant of Hillman's attitude towards communism at that early period. Hillman presided over the 1924 amalgamated convention which received a message from the Freiheit, Communist daily, stamped subversive by the justice department in 1942, which stated: "We hope the amalgamated will place itself in the advanced ranks of the revolutionary proletarian vanguard of America." Hillman apparently approved this expression because he donated $3,000 to the Freiheit in the name of his wife.

Director of Garland Fund.

Hillman also became a member of the board of directors of the notorious Garland fund, established by Charles Garland in 1922 with $900,000 inherited from his father. Other directors included William Z. Foster, Communist candidate for President on several occasions; Scott Nearing, for a long time one of the leading writers for the Communist party, and Harry F. Ward, national chairman of the American League for Peace and Democracy, ranked by the justice department as one of the leading subversive organizations in this country.

The Garland fund contributed $37,000 to the Daily Worker, official organ of the Communist party, and $64,500 to New Masses, Communist weekly, with the approval of these directors.

[Charles Garland attracted public notice in the early 1920s by establishing a free love colony on his Pennsylvania farm and served a jail term for adultery in 1926. He inherited $900,000 from his father, a Wall st. financier, but refused to accept it for his personal use because he disapproved of the manner in which it was acquired. The fund, which increased to more than $1,600,000 due to rising security values, was distributed by the board over a five year period to labor organizations and publications and educational groups featuring labor research.]

For a period dating from 1926 on, Hillman was officially on record as anti-Communist. But in 1937 he and John L. Lewis were collaborating closely with the Communists in setting up the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Communist trade union leaders, thanks to Hillman and Lewis, found themselves in strategic positions which for the first time in American history made Communism a real menace to American industry.

Called Prisoners of Reds.

On Feb. 29, 1944, Lewis publicly stated that Philip Murray and Hillman were "the prisoners" of the Communists in the CIO and that "both of them have got to play ball with the Communists now, or die." And when Hillman took over the American Labor party, David Dubinsky, head of the International Ladies Garment workers, announcing his resignation, made this statement:

"I regard the American Labor party as a Communist labor party. Mr. Hillman can act as a front for the Communists; I never did and never will."

The CIO political action committee, according to an undenied story, was conceived at a meeting in a New York hotel Dec. 29, 1943, between Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Hillman, and two others. It was born officially July 7, 1943, and ratified by the CIO convention in Philadelphia the following November.

Scared by 1942 Elections.

Organized labor had been scared stiff by the congressional elections of 1942 and what was deemed the apathy of the voters. Hillman canvassed the situation, discussing the formation of a national citizens' committee with many persons in and out of politics. He felt out sentiment at two meetings, one in Chicago and another in Philadelphia.

Murray, president of the CIO, and other labor leaders were consulted. The situation was gone over at White House conferences. The idea of a citizens' association was discarded in favor of a labor group. It was hoped at that time to have American Federation of Labor support, a hope which proved futile, the AFL eventually instructing all its units to refrain from participation in PAC operations.

In its investigation of the formation of Hillman's machine, the house committee on un-American activities noted that the leaders of the Communist party were agitating for the establishment of just such an agency.

"Whether or not," the committee reported, "Philip Murray and Sidney Hillman knowingly adopted a program of action for the 1944 elections which had been set forth by prominent Communist party leaders and individuals, the record shows beyond the possibility of any dispute that well known Communists immediately assumed important roles in the regional, state, and local activities of the CIO-PAC.

"Complete Surrender."

"Murray and Hillman may allege that it was a mere coincidence that their organization so completely conformed to the one whose pattern had been drawn by the Communists. They cannot deny the presence of well known Communists in the ranks of the PAC as it has been functioning from coast to coast."

On Jan. 14, 1944, when the CIO-PAC convened its national conference in New York, a group of American Labor party leaders published a large advertisment in the New York Times in which they accused Hillman of "complete surrender to the New York Communists."

On March 29, 1944, the house committee on un-American activities released a 215 page report based upon an exhaustive examination of the subversive records of the organizers of the Hillman group. It found the CIO-PAC was controled by Communists who seek "to subvert the congress of the United States to their totalitarian program."

Aided Hitler's Cause.

The allegiance of 18 members of the CIO executive board to the Communist party line was detailed at length with the observation that "these are the men who not so long ago supported the wave of sabotage strikes which gravely interfered with the production of defense materials. Prior to Hitler's invasion of Russia, they were deliberately aiding Hitler and declaring, while they did so, that there was no difference between a Nazi victory and a British victory."

On Sept. 27 the house committee on un-American activities renewed its investigation of the CIO-PAC with particular reference to its alignment with the White House and government officials and the National Citizens Political Action committee, set up by Hillman in July as a companion organization to evade the legal restrictions upon the use of union money in elections.

More than 80 per cent of the 141 members of the new group were listed as having had affiliations with the Communist party or its front organization during the last decade.

The Hillman organization in the Chicago area, particularly, was shown to be under the leadership of notorious Communists, including Ernest De Maio, who assailed President Roosevelt as being "as nutty as Hitler" during the life of the Stalin-Hitler nonaggression pact.

Such New Deal notables as Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] and Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas of Hollywood, the party's glamor candidate, were revealed as Hillman pawns, the former being shoved about on speaking assignments wherever the PAC willed it.

Telephones in the White House were constantly jangling, the evidence showed, as Hillman and his associates in New York and Chicago headquarters kept in constant communication with five Presidential assistants—Samuel Rosenman, Jonathan Daniels, Lowell Mellett, Benjamin Cohen, and David K. Niles.

The same evidence also showed that 77 different officials and employes of the government in 26 different agencies had been in frequent telephonic touch with PAC officials during the heat of the campaign.

FSA Taken Over.

The farm security administration, established in 1937 for "rural rehabilitation," had for all practical purposes been converted into a branch of the PAC, the hearings revealed. C. B. [Beany] Baldwin, the administrator, resigned to become Hillman's chief assistant, continuing to draw his $10,000 government salary on "accrued leave" for five months after he became employed at $12,500 a year by the Hillman machine. Other top FSA officials were shown to have joined the PAC and to have kept their former subordinates, who remained on the government pay roll, busy with PAC assignments.

The committee called attention to the fact that the government employes named were apparently violating the Hatch "clean politics" act which specifically forbids political activity by federal pay rollers. When the attention of Atty. Gen. Biddle was called to this fact, he replied that the responsibility for enforcement of the law was not his because the penalty was only dismissal from office, not a fine or imprisonment. Biddle passed the buck to the civil service commission which took no action.

Evidence Ignored.

Similarly, Biddle on several occasions refused to heed the suggestions of senators and representatives that the evidence uncovered by several Capitol hill committees indicated violations by Hillman's group of the corrupt practices act and the Smith-Connally act forbidding labor unions to lend financial support to candidates in elections.

Biddle's last notice of such reports came in a letter to Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] on Sept. 26. He expressed the belief that "both the spirit and letter of the law" were being obeyed by Hillman.

On the same day a report to the clerk of the house showed an $80,000 donation by the CIO United Electrical, Radio, and Machine Workers of America, to the PAC, paid in three instalments of $40,000, $20,000 and $20,000. This union was characterized by the house committee on un-American activities as the most openly communistic of all labor groups, having "scores of well-known Communists in important strategic positions."

The same report listed the names of 48 heavy contributors to the Hillman machine by individuals. Gifts and loans up to the legal limit of $5,000 were reported. In his appearance before the house committee investigating campaign expenditures, Hillman decried "large contributions" to political parties and stressed that the PAC merely wanted a dollar from each union member. [The CIO claims 5,000,000 members].

The record meanwhile was disclosing Mr. Roosevelt's warm espousal of the communistic support which was linked up with the PAC program. The Daily Worker, official communist organ, ecstactically reported on Sept. 4 the official seal of approval put by the President on the "helpful" efforts of the CIO United Office and Professional Workers of America which, according to official findings in congress, "has consistently followed the line of the Communist party thru all its twists and turns over a period of years." The union had assailed Mr. Roosevelt as a war monger during the Stalin-Hitler pact.

F. D. R. Acceptance Told.

Perhaps the most significant development of this campaign phase was the publication by the Daily Worker of the Communist manual for the fourth term campaign, delivered as a speech July 27 in Chicago by Eugene Dennis, vice president of the Communist Political association, Mr. Roosevelt, by Dennis' account, not only had been tendered the support of Communists but had actively accepted it.

"We Communists," said Dennis, "must refrain from taking such unilateral action as that of indorsing candidates unless this is done in full agreement with a given candidate and with our collaborators."

Alarm Brings Attack.

Seventy days after this instruction to the Communist party workers had been issued, Mr. Roosevelt took to the radio to assail those spreading fear of "the Red specter of communism" as following the propaganda methods of "Hitler's Brown Shirts."

As for the President's disavowal of communistic support, in which he avoided use of the word "repudiate," the Daily Worker took it good naturedly, praising Mr. Roosevelt's "following up of his first speech in which he charged Dewey with using the Hitler technique."

The speech, in fact, as noted by a member of the house committee on un-American activities, was of a piece with Earl Browder's address early this year dissolving the Communist party. That speech was lauded by the New Masses as "a brilliant example of Marxist thinking" which, according to Lenin, deems it highly advisable to denounce or embrace anything or anybody if an advantage is to be obtained thereby.

"Voluntary" Contributions.

The house committee uncovered numerous instances discrediting Hillman's claim that only "voluntary" contributions would be accepted from CIO union members. A telegram sent by Hillman was put into the record to show the pressure being put upon the unions. Dated Aug. 24, it was sent to John Green, president of the CIO International Union of Marine Ship Workers, Camden, N. J., and read:

"Local 9 is committed for $1 a member which amounts to $16,000. To date the administrator has paid only $1,000. He also has not put on a full time man from the national office. Imperative this be done immediately and commitments fulfilled."

Witnesses testified that they resigned from CIO unions in resentment against these shakedown methods. They said hundreds of others known to them would have taken similar action if they had not feared they would lose their jobs in factories operating under closed shop agreements.

The nature of the "voluntary" campaign was indicated in this notice posted in the Fleetwing airplane factory at Bristol, Pa., and made public in the house on Sept. 11 by Rep. Hoffman [R. Mich.].

"Acting under instructions from the international union, I have been ordered to collect the sum of $1, an assement, which has been levied on every member of our local union. Your steward will collect the money and give you a receipt for same."

HILLMAN BELITTLES G. O. P. AS SEEKER OF RETURN TO NORMALCY

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP).—Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, said tonight that the Republican party stood for a "return to normalcy—to do nothing Hooverism at home and narrow, stupid nationalism abroad."

Addressing the CIO Shop Stewards' convention, Hillman said:

"It was clear to us last June that the choice before us was not merely a choice between men or parties but a choice between two fundamentally different attitudes toward government—a choice between government by the few for the few or government by the people for the people."

Hillman said the Republican "old guard," in an attempt to regain power, nominated Gov. Dewey for President "because of his lack of convictions and his ability to confuse the issues."

EX-NAZI SPENDS RIOTOUS DAY AT SEDITION TRIAL

189 Objections Made in Four Hour Testimony.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Hermann Rauschning, one time president of the senate of the free city of Danzig and a confidant of Adolf Hitler both before and after the Nazi blood purge, was the government witness in the mass sedition trial today. His presence gave the affair a renewal of the noise and confusion that marked its start last April.

In the four hours Dr. Rauschning was on the stand there were 189 defense objections, 29 miscellaneous motions, five arguments between opposing counsel, and four incidents which Chief Justice Edward C. Eicher characterized as speeches and not motions.

12 Mistrial Motions.

Lawrence Dennis, one of the 26 defendants, who is representing himself, and Ethelbert Frey, a defense attorney, ended in a dead heat in offering motions for a mistrial, with six each. William Powers, Chicago, another attorney, was excused for the duration of Dr. Rauschning's testimony. He said he couldn't understand him. Dr. Rauschning speaks with a thick German accent.

Previously, Powers had objected frequently to the testimony, presumably going along with the theory later expressed by Maximillian St. George, another Chicago lawyer, who told the court he didn't know what the witness had said but that he objected anyway.

During these proceedings Justice Eicher gave his gavel a vigorous workout and displayed a fine technique in drowning out the words of attorneys by beating a constant tattoo on his desk as long as they insisted on talking after he had denied their motion. He didn't fine any one, but he reprimanded Dennis and told him that if he continued his outbursts he would appoint counsel to represent him.

Revolt Plans Told.

While all this went on, Dr. Rauschning, now a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., and author of four books on Hitler and the dangers of naziism, managed to tell the jury about Hitler's plans for creating revolution in the United States and thruout the world. He told of secret Nazi sessions, both before and after Hitler came to power, and the names of Hermann Goering, Paul Joseph Goebbels, Heinrich Himmler, Julius Streicher, and other Nazi bigwigs frequently figured in his testimony.

At a meeting in Munich in 1933 Hitler said the United States was not a well established nation but one still in the making and asserted it would be easy for him to disunite us and paralyze our national will because there were so many racial cleavages for him to play upon, Dr. Rauschning said.

Depends on Propaganda.

Dr. Rauschning said Hitler told him that the old accepted form of revolt and the putsch no longer would work and that propaganda was the new weapon—the modern artillery—to use in disuniting a country and preparing it for an internal revolution. Hitler stressed, however, that it was always necessary to secure at least the neutrality of the military forces of those countries that might become enemies, the witness said.

"Hitler said that in preparing a country for Nazi occupation he must weaken the discipline of the armed forces," Dr. Rauschning said.

America Called Weak.

The witness said Hitler told him in 1933 that the United States was on the threshold of a bloody revolution and that he would be able to bring thru propaganda playing on the treatment of Negroes and Mexicans and stressing anti-Semitic angles. Hitler also told him, he said, that America was weak because democracy is a real poison that disintegrates society in the long run.

Albert W. Dilling, representing his former wife, Elizabeth Dilling, Chicago, filed a motion asking Justice Eicher not to consider any further motions for a mistrial and to reassign the issue to an "impartial judge." The mistrial had been asked on the ground that jurors would be prejudiced by President Roosevelt's broadcast last week when he bracketed the Silver Shirts, organized and headed by William Dudley Pelley, a defendant, with Hitler's Brown Shirts and Mussolini's Black Shirts. Dilling charged Eicher is prejudiced and believes President Roosevelt and his administration are inspired.

NURSE ADMITS KIDNAPING BABY AS 'ACT OF LOVE'

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 11 (AP).—Prosecutor William C. Dowling announced tonight that Mrs. Eleanor Smith, 33 year old housemaid, had confessed the kidnaping of Bobby King, 4 month old white child left in her care and attributed the act to a "mother urge" and "love of the child."

Dowling would not disclose the text of the woman's statement, but described it as a "complete, full, and detailed" confession. He declared that Mrs. Smith, "in making her admission, has imposed such conditions as to preclude my giving you any of the details."

The announcement came after an hour and a half of questioning and less than 24 hours after Bobby King, his skin heavily coated with sun tan oil and an artificial birthmark traced on his face with cosmetics, was returned unharmed to his parents today, 11 days after he had been abducted by a Negro nursemaid.

Mrs. Smith, in whose home the child was found, was held without charge. Altho identified by Bobby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence F. King, as the nursemaid they employed a week before the abduction, Mrs. Smith persisted thruout hours of questioning that the child was her own.

She denied an assertion by Paul H. Wencel, chief of Detroit detectives, that she had abducted the baby and altered his appearance in an attempt to delude her husband, Eugene, 34, into the belief it was their child.

Husband Freed After Quiz.

The woman's husband was released after Wencel said he was convinced Smith knew nothing of the abduction. Smith, who owns a drug store, told Dowling he was suspicious of the baby and had begun his own investigation.

Wencel said Smith told him his wife was born in Metropolis, Ill. They had no children, but Smith told police his wife said last June she was expecting a baby.

Wencel quoted Smith as saying that later in June his wife left to visit her mother in Metropolis and a few days later wrote to him saying she had given birth to a son. She returned to Detroit July 4 and told him the child had been born prematurely, was in an incubator in Wesley Memorial hospital in Chicago, and could not be moved.

Finds Baby in Home.

When Smith arrived home from his drug store the night of Sept. 30 the child was there, and his wife explained that a relative had brought him from Chicago, Wencel said. Smith said he called the Chicago hospital and found that his wife never had been a patient there.

Tears coursed down Mrs. King's cheeks when she saw Bobby at police headquarters this morning.

She picked Mrs. Smith out of a police showup as the "Helen Rosman" she had engaged as a nursemaid. Her husband and a son, Emory, also identified Mrs. Smith as the maid who had been left in charge of Bobby while his parents went to a movie the night of Sept. 30.

Insists Boy Is Hers.

This brought from Mrs. Smith a screamed denial that she ever had seen Mrs. King, knew where the King home was, or ever had been in it.

"I don't know anything about the King baby," she told Dowling. "The child they have taken is mine. Some day they will find the real kidnaper and my baby will be returned."

Wencel said identification of the child, even before his mother saw him this morning, was established by footprints made in a Detroit hospital at the time of his birth.

POLICE SEEK TO LINK KIDNAPING OF BABY WITH 1943 ABDUCTOR

Dayton, O., Oct. 11 [Special].—Police working on the kidnaping of Ronald Thompson, 20 months old, expressed belief today the newly hired nurse with whom he vanished Saturday may be the woman who abducted Paul Jevahirian Jr., 11 months old, in Detroit in June, 1943. The Jevahirian boy has not been found.

After conferring with a Detroit private detective who came here with information about the Detroit case, Police Inspector Frank G. Krug said the description of the kidnaper and the method used in the two cases were similar. He said that in each case the abductor was about the same age, talked with a southern accent, and telegraphed the mother not to worry because the child would be returned.

A number of clubs and military service organizations contributed to a fund to finance distribution of circulars about the kidnaping of Ronald, who is the son of an army private overseas. The Navy Mothers' club announced it would post a reward for "written information" leading to the child's return and conviction of his kidnaper. Ronald's mother is a night supervisor in the maternity ward of St. Elizabeth's hospital.

TRIBUNE WRITER TO TELL CLUB OF WAR IN FRANCE

John Thompson, Tribune war correspondent, who covered the invasion of Normandy and subsequently accompanied the 1st army thru France and Belgium and into Germany, will tell of his experiences at a special events luncheon in the main dining room of the Union League club next Tuesday.

Thompson has just returned from Europe, after watching the 1st army punch two holes in the Siegfried line.

His talk also will deal with the supply problems presented by the lightning advance of an army and their solution, and how American generals outguessed and outmaneuvered German strategists to pinch off and virtually destroy German forces being withdrawn thru Belgium to man the Siegfried line defenses.

Frank J. Rathje, vice president of the Union League club, will preside at the luncheon.

HAWAII JUDGE WHO OVERRULED ARMY IS VISITOR

Judge D. E. Metzger.

Federal Judge Delbert E. Metzger of Honolulu, T. H., who last spring ruled martial law in Hawaii invalid and upset the army's suspension of the right of habeas corpus, was a visitor in Chicago yesterday. He is on a leisurely journey to Honolulu after attending the annual conference of United States Circuit judges in Washington, D. C.

Judge Metzger declined to discuss the military government in Hawaii because the case of Lloyd C. Duncan, which led to the decision that army rule there is invalid, still is before the appeals court and may be taken by the military to the United States Supreme court. Duncan, a civilian, was sentenced by a provost court to six months imprisonment for fighting two marines. Judge Metzger freed him and declared martial law in Hawaii is "without lawful authority over civilians" and is "without lawful creation."

During his stay here yesterday, Judge Metzger called on Federal Judge Michael Igoe and Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli. He also saw Dr. Hans Zimmerman, Honolulu physician, who was seized the day after the attack on Pearl Harbor and kept in concentration camps there and in Wisconsin 15 months.

"I have been able to detect no slightest movement in all the city, nor have I seen one living person. It is, in nearly every real respect, already a city of the dead."

Officers Stand Guard.

Of approximately 200 German prisoners who slipped out of Aachen and surrendered before the ultimatum expired, nine said that two Nazi officers had been standing guard at railroad tracks at the eastern edge of the city and shooting every soldier who attempted to get thru to the allied lines.

They said the Nazi garrison, estimated at 1,500 men, had been issued whisky and wine to brace them for the allied bombardment.

North of Aachen in the Bardenberg-Wurselen area there was heavy fighting with the enemy bringing in tanks to support his infantry, trying to shatter the northern pincer arm closing in on the city.

Cathedral Still Stands.

A field dispatch said the great Aachen cathedral still stood unharmed amid the bursting explosives which were turning the rest of the city into rubble.

Aachen, developed by the Romans, became the seat of Charlemagne's empire in the ninth century. The cathedral, built in 796, a town hall on the site of Charlemagne's palace, and the ruins of Roman baths long were tourists' landmarks. The cathedral contained a throne of Charlemagne.

In the years of peace its famous hot and cold mineral springs drew as many as 20,000 visitors annually.

To the west, Canadian forces steadily closed a strangle hold on Nazis who from two sides of the Scheide estuary have prevented allied exploitation of the great Belgian port of Antwerp.

Cut Land Escape Routes.

Driving northward from Antwerp, the Canadians occupied the spit of land which connects the Dutch islands of South Beveland and Walcheren on the north side of the Scheide with the Dutch mainland, cutting the only land escape routes for thousands of Nazis on the islands and opening the way for a drive by allied infantry and armor against the isolated enemy garrisons.

Other Canadians clearing the south bank of the prized waterway widened their beachhead near Hoofdplatt and Breskens to more than four miles and forged inland nearly three miles. These troops working their way along dikes in flat and partly flooded country were under fire from German guns across the four mile wide estuary near Vlissingen [Flushing] on Walcheren Island.

A dispatch from the front said the Germans were evacuating this section and concentrating their forces on Walcheren Island.

Fight in Curving Tunnel.

Lt. Gen. Patton's 3d army troops continued their week long effort to root Nazi defenders out of Fort Driant across the Moselle river from the French city of Metz. The opposing forces were so close together in the winding underground passages they could hear each other's orders.

The fighting centered in a curving tunnel which runs from the Yank-held south end of the fort underneath one of three main big gun batteries to the southeast corner. The opposing troops were trying to nail each other with carom shots off the tunnel walls.

Other Nazi forts supporting Driant still laid down a steady fire on Americans attacking the stronghold, blanketing near-by roads with such a rain of steel that it was necessary to evacuate Yank wounded in tanks.

Farther south Americans captured Parroy, 20 miles east of Nancy, cleared the enemy from Parroy forest, and scored gains east of Luneville and Epinal. House to house fighting raged inside Maizieres, six miles north of Metz.

BRUSSELS PUT OUT OF BOUNDS FOR U. S. TROOPS

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 11 (AP).—This city of ice cream, beer, movies, and gay cafes was put out of bounds tonight to all American troops.

"Despite the abundance of luxury goods," said a new provost marshal, "many people here lack food and there is not much bed space for troops.

"Only officers and enlisted men on duty will be permitted here. The city is full of American stragglers, and men from other sectors have been wandering in."

U. S. Flyers Strike to Halt Jap Gain in South China

CHUNGKING, Oct. 11 (AP).—The 14th air force struck to check a Japanese advance toward the southern China highway junction of Kweiping, a bulletin from the headquarters of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell said today. The Japanese on Monday pushed to points six miles northeast and 12 miles southeast of the junction. Fighting still is in progress.

3 ROBOT RAIDS IN A FEW HOURS BLAST ENGLAND

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP).—Southern England suffered one of its steadiest poundings from flying bombs in months tonight when the Germans made three attacks within a few hours. The first attack occurred before dusk and the others followed at about 90 minute intervals. Each raid encountered terrific anti-aircraft fire, but some missiles exploded inland.

Tonight German radio stations reported formations of allied bombers were over the reich.

Earlier, a small force of Fortresses escorted by fighters flew thru heavy clouds in an attack on railway yards at Coblenz and Cologne. R. A. F. Lancasters smashed gun positions in Holland and bombed the dike near Veere on Walcheren Island.

Award Col. Sarnoff, Chief of RCA, Legion of Merit

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Oct. 11 [Reuter].—Col. David Sarnoff, on military leave of absence from duties as president of the Radio Corporation of America and chairman of the board of NBC, today was awarded the legion of merit "for exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding service." Sarnoff is attached to SHAEF as special consultant on communications to Gen. Eisenhower.

NAZI NIGHT FIGHTER ACE SLAIN.

LONDON, Oct. 11 [AP].—The death in action of Germany's "most successful night fighter," Lt. Col. Helmut Lent, credited with 102 aerial victories, was announced by Berlin today. Hitler ordered a state funeral.

FRANCE GROOMS FFI FOR DUTY IN REGULAR RANKS

Some Officers of Maquis Must Take Demotion.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE FRENCH 1ST ARMY, Oct. 11.—Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, commanding the French 1st army, today paid tribute to the achievements of the French Forces of the Interior [F. F. I.] and said their eventual incorporation into his regular ranks poses a most delicate and important problem.

Tassigny, who wears the five stars of a French general d'armée, is a well built man, balding, and sharp-eyed, with a prominent nose.

"The F. F. I. are the heroes of their country," the general said. "Their page will appear as one of the most shining in our history. They have regarded themselves, and not without cause, as the real army of France for they rose thruout France voluntarily in our difficult days."

He described the F. F. I. movement as a "sacred insurrection".

Seek a Strong Voice.

Now the F. F. I. feel they have the right to continue fighting and to have a strong voice in French military affairs. Gen. De Gaulle realizes it and is in accord with this sentiment, De Tassigny asserted.

"The F. F. I. hadn't heard much of our regular army, which fought so valiantly at Bir Hacheim in the African desert and in Italy," De Tassigny said. "And the F. F. I. wasn't certain of the ability of that army. 'After all you are the same army that was defeated in the collapse of France in 1940,' was the reaction of some of the F. F. I. to us who came from overseas.

"Some F. F. I. units now are fighting beside the 1st army and later all will become regular French troops. As much as possible F. F. I. groups will retain their individuality, their colorful names and their officers. On the latter point a delicate question arises when, for instance, a man who was a captain in the F. F. I. has the ability commensurate only with that of a lower rank in modernized warfare and may be asked to accept a demotion.

Training Centers Established.

"Training centers have been established for the F. F. I. and they go there for combat instructions before taking their place beside army forces. We try to put them in comparatively quiet sectors for a week or 10 days after their training.

"In all dealings between the regular army and the F. F. I. we must employ humanity and good sense to solve problems. And France is the country of good sense."

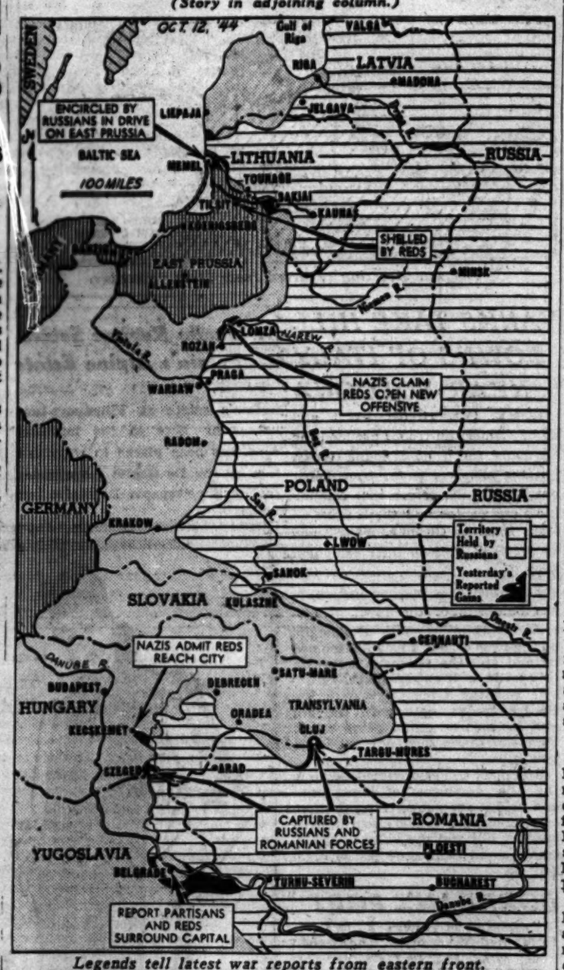
Red Armies Surround Memel

(Story in adjoining column.)



Legends tell latest war reports from eastern front.

REDS SMASH TO EAST PRUSSIA IN LITHUANIA DRIVE

LONDON, Oct. 12 [Thursday] (AP).—The Red army smashed to the East Prussian border west of Kaunas yesterday and isolated the Baltic port of Memel. On the southern front Szeged, second largest city in Hungary, and Cluj, capital of Transylvania, were captured.

In Yugoslavia, Marshal Tito announced that the Russians and his Partisan troops had surrounded Belgrade, the capital city, but this was not confirmed by the Russian war bulletin, which was not broadcast until well after midnight. A Russian column reached the northeastern approaches to Belgrade a week ago. Tito also announced that Field Marshal Siegmund von List and his staff had fled from Belgrade.

The German radio acknowledged that Memel was encircled. The Russians did not confirm that they had reached the Baltic sea on both sides of Memel, but said they edged closer on the southeast and extended northward toward Liepaja [Libau] the corridor they had fashioned on Tuesday, isolating 100,000 to 150,000 Germans remaining in Lithuania and Latvia.

Moscow announced that the Germans had hurled in four divisions of reenforcements southeast of Memel and had made more than 30 counter-attacks in which 2,000 Nazis were slain.

Capture 50 Towns.

The drive thru Lithuania to the East Prussian border swept up more than 50 populated places, including Priorisl, less than a mile from the border, and Ponowi, on the Lithuanian side of the frontier stream, Ost Fluss [Sesupe]. The Russians said this wa an advance of 10 miles.

The Germans said the battle for East Prussia had begun with soviet assults from three sides—from the north against Memell and from the east against Tilsit, and from the south around Rozan, in Poland. Tilsit was reported under Russian shell fire.

Rozan is 47 miles northeast of Warsaw and 40 miles southeast of East Prussia. The Germans described the Russian attack from this area as proceeding along a 35 mile front roughly between Rozan and Lomza.

With the drives from Sakiai and Taurage already announced by the Russians, three of the five fronts built up in Lithuania and Poland against East Prussia thus were in action. The one northwest of Bialystok and that in the Suwalki triangle remained quiet.

Salute Hungary Successes.

The twin successes in Hungary were heralded by an order of the day from Premier Stalin and salutes from Moscow's cannon. In the drive that took Cluj, 70 other populated places fell.

Szeged, a city of 132,000, is 95 miles southeast of Budapest, and Cluj, with a population of 100,000, is deep in the Transylvanian mountains, 220 miles southeast from the capital. Other Russian troops, farther north, were only 47 miles from Budapest, reaching Kecskemet after crossing the Tisza river.

The enemy had not admitted the loss of Szeged or Cluj and the Hungarian high command claimed the Russians later were driven back from Kecskemet, a city of 84,000. It said a battle was raging to eliminate the soviet bridgehead in the vicinity of Csongrad.

Farther north, the Hungarian command said, German armored forces surrounded a major force of Russian armor and cavalry advancing toward Debrecen. The soviet war bulletin on Tuesday announced street fighting in Debrecen's suburbs.

On the arctic front in Finland the German radio said the Russians had started a major attack in the Petsamo area but details were few.

BRITISH IN ALBANIA CUT OFF NAZI FLIGHT FROM CORFU ISLAND

ROME, Oct. 11 (AP).—British troops in southern Albania, after a hard battle, have captured Sarande [Porto Edda], supply port for the German garrison on Corfu Island, it was announced today. Five hundred prisoners were taken in the action, and the Germans on Corfu, last reported to total a regiment, were isolated with little possibility of escaping to the mainland.

There was no fresh news of the British column which surged thru Corinth, Greece, Monday without firing a shot. This secured an operational spring board only 40 miles from Athens.

[A dispatch from Ankara said allied flags were hoisted for the first time in Greek Thrace Tuesday when the Greek administration took over. A Cairo broadcast early today said the Germans had abandoned Thrace and were concentrating in northern Macedonia and the area of Salonika. Another broadcast from Rome said Greek Patriots and German S. S. Troops were fighting inside Athens.]

NAZIS LOSE LAST WEATHER UNIT IN GREENLAND

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 [Special].—A three year search for a secret German weather station in the icy mountains of Greenland ended last week with capture of the equipment and 12 Nazis, the war department revealed today. The Germans established weather outposts in Greenland at the outbreak of the war in 1939.

When the United States went into Greenland on June 30, 1941, these stations were working overtime at charting aerial conditions. Gradually they were cut down, except for this last baffling station which eluded all searchers. It sent communications to Germany at odd hours, and would halt its messages when the wily operators feared detection.

MADHOUSE, THEY CALL THIS B-24; THERE'S REASON

Shot Up at Balikpapan; Flies 1,300 Miles.

Strike at Balikpapan

ALLIED HDQ., NEW GUINEA, Oct. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Balikpapan, source of 15 per cent of Japan's aviation gasoline and lubricating oil, was bombed for four hours Sunday by night raiding American Liberators, Gen. MacArthur announced today. They attacked refineries and airdromes at the Borneo base. Gen. MacArthur's bulletin also reported an air raid on oil stores at Boela in the Halmaheras. Six barges the Japanese were trying to sneak into Morotai in the Halmaheras, 300 miles south of the Philippines, were sunk.

[A Tokyo broadcast said 100 Liberator bombers escorted by 30 Lightning fighters attacked Balikpapan again Tuesday.]

BY JACK TURCOTT.

[New York News Staff Correspondent.]

SOMEWHERE IN DUTCH NEW GUINEA, Oct. 11.—The B-24 Liberator "Hannagan's Madhouse" returned to its base today after flying 1,300 miles from Balikpapan, Borneo, with its interior full of shattered hydraulic lines and its entire electrical system smashed.

Encountering 30 Jap Zeros 10 minutes before reaching the Pandan Sari refinery at Balikpapan, the Liberator's gunners used up all their ammunition and the Japs 'last two passes were unopposed.

"Those devils came in so close I saw the pilots wearing oxygen masks," said Bombardier Lt. Joseph Feke of Yonkers, N. Y.

Plummets Toward Ground.

Just as they reached the target and Feke released his bombs, a Jap plane executed a fancy roll to within 50 feet of the Liberator and let loose a burst of 20 mm. shells. The salvo sent the Liberator lurching toward the ground.

With a fire ax, Sgt. Carroll Cobb, the bomber's engineer, chopped off the ball turret to lighten the load, then went down thru the bomb bay and thru the plane's waist, from tail turret to nose, snapping off bits of shattered tubing. While Cobb searched for extra tubing, Feke raced from one end of the ship to the other, slipping and sliding on the oily floor, trying to stem the leaks.

Fly Nine Hours.

With the automatic pilot smashed, Capt. Robert Hannagan of Bakersfield, Cal., the pilot, and Co-Pilot Lt. John MacFarland of Brereton, Wash., battled for nine hours to keep the big plane on an even keel.

"MacFarland and I alternated piloting the ship, each working 30 minute shifts," Hannagan said. "After seven hours we were so punchy we didn't know whether we were coming or going. Once Gunner Sgt. George Zeihr of Glenside, Pa., came up to the cabin. I was so tired I didn't recognize him and turned over the controls to him. He flew the ship for a full hour."

Hannagan, who has made 40 missions, said the Balikpapan raid was the worst of them all.

BONG BAGS NOS. 29 AND 30; LESSON FOR HIS PUPILS

ALLIED HDQ., NEW GUINEA, Oct. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Maj. Richard Ira Bong, leading American ace, has run his string to 30 Japanese planes shot down. Recently returned to action as a gunnery instructor of the far eastern air force, the Poplar, Wis., flyer was credited officially with downing two more enemy aircraft.

It had been understood that Bong, on his second tour, would make no combat missions. But he accompanied his "class" of fighter pilots on a recent mission and they were jumped by more than a score of Zeros. Their teacher went to work. In rapid succession, he sent two down in flames.

When Bong left the Pacific after his first tour he was credited with 27 planes. However, he was sure he had downed a plane over Hollandia Harbor altho no one else saw it fall, and it was listed as a probable. He pinpointed the position.

Salvage crews were sent out by Maj. Gen. Ennis Whitehead, commander of the 5th air force and located the wreckage at the indicated point. That gave him his 28th.

Mexican Chamber Beats Bill to Restrict Press

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11 (AP).—A bill to prohibit the press and theaters from "ridiculing congressmen" was defeated today by the chamber of deputies, lower house. Congressman Jose Maria Suarez Tellez of Guerrero, who introduced the measure, contended that "the dignity of the representatives of the people must be upheld." Other speakers replied that it was more important to uphold the freedom of the press.

ISLE OF MAN GETS SCARE.

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Oct. 11. [AP].—This island town in the Irish sea had a brief air raid scare tonight when a 20 ton fly wheel in a powerhouse suddenly disintegrated, hurling chunks of steel over the landscape within a half mile radius. No casualties were reported.

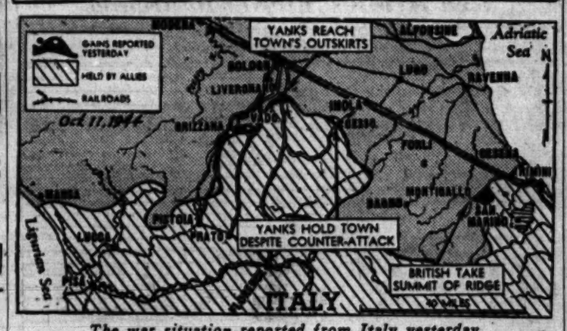
Allied Gains in Italy Told



The war situation reported from Italy yesterday.

YANKS TAKE HILL TOWNS OF ITALY NEAR BOLOGNA

ROME, Oct. 11 (AP).—Wet and muddy American troops prodded the Germans south of Bologna today, but the enemy was far from being out of the hills before that communications center and there were no signs that the Germans were ready to write off Italy in their campaign book.

The Americans reached the southern outskirts of the town of Livergnano, 11 miles south of Bologna on highway 65, but a new hill loomed beyond and the Germans were sitting on it, well entrenched.

It was the same story with the British troops, both with the 5th and 8th armies: small gains scored here and there, then new mud and new hills.

American troops occupied Gesso in the hills northwest of Fontanence and held it against a strong German counter-attack. They also captured another hill and the villages of Maceratoio and Campagne east of highway 65.

BORDEAUX PORT REPORTED HELD BY FFI FORCES

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—The British information service said tonight that it had established that Bordeaux, one of France's most important Atlantic ports, is in the hands of the French Forces of the Interior [F. F. I.].

"Until now," the agency said, "no authoritative word had been received as to the fate of this port, which has not yet been reached by British or American forces. "No important attack has yet been launched by the allies on La Rochelle, another vital Atlantic harbor, which, it is announced, is still in the hands of the German garrison."

The two ports are on the Bay of Biscay in southwestern France.

Otto Bruck and Sons, wholesale meat dealers, 466 N. Chicago av., Joliet, paid $1,229.03 to the government yesterday in settlement of an office of price administration damage suit charging sale of hogs and beef above ceiling prices from Oct. 8, 1943, to Feb. 1, 1944.

De Gaulle Regime Seizes Petain's Alpine Estate

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP).—Marshal Petain's estate at Villeneuve-Loubet, near Nice in the maritime Alps, has been placed in sequestration by the De Gaulle government, the Paris newspaper Populaire said today.

ROUT CONFUSION AND FEAR, ASKS JUSTICE ARNOLD

The confusion and fear which has ridden America the last 12 years will not disappear until free enterprise again has been established, Thurman W. Arnold, once a New Deal figure and now a justice of the United States Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, said yesterday in a lecture at the University of Chicago.

"The pattern of successful national economy must follow the pattern ingrained in the people," he said. "If a nation succumbs to an alien pattern, it loses its leadership of its people. We cannot accept government regulations necessary today for a price control system because they are incompatible with the American way of living. The democracy we want is one where every enterpriser has a chance to win or lose in competition with other enterprisers."

Arnold said the United States "faces a struggle" to recreate free markets after the war.

"If we become committed to the British cartel system," he said, "we shall become a commercial appendage of Britain."

HOUSE OF LORDS SPLIT ON NEW WORLD LEAGUE

Debate Dumbarton Oaks Security Proposal.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The world security council envisaged at Dumbarton Oaks was criticized in the house of lords today by Reginald Fletcher [Lord Winster] as an "organization for keeping small boys in order by prefects who would themselves be exempt from the rules they would administer."

It was defended by Robert Cecil [Viscount Cranborne] for the government as an organization "with a real, serviceable set of teeth," an armed force which could not only restore peace but avert war.

In the debate which followed, opinion seemed equally divided whether the proposed security body would prove an effective peace mechanism or a delusion. Unless nations were prepared to surrender their sovereignty and agree not to be judges in their own cause, said Fletcher, the old causes which had drenched the world in blood would continue to produce wars.

Geography, valor, and neutrality would not avail the small nations against the air weapon available to the wealthy states, and unless the nations were prepared to proceed against a great power which refused to sacrifice self-interest to peace, the new body would go the way of its defunct predecessor, he said.

Herbert L. Samuel [Lord Samuel] thought that for the first time peace-loving nations would now have at their command sufficient force to be a security for peace.

REDS CRITICIZE SYMPATHY FOR REICH INDUSTRY

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP).—The army newspaper Red Star criticized certain unnamed American interests today for expressing sentiments in behalf of German industries and demanded economic disarmament of the reich after victory. "The German kings of industry expect to protect themselves by international cartels to which they belong," the newspaper said.

The article added that unless the allies agreed on the liquidation of German monopolies, the reich again would become the center of international cartels spreading over Europe and Latin America.

Red Star said some German industries such as Krupp and I. G. Farbenindustrie already had established branches in Latin America, Sweden, Spain, Switzerland, and Portugal in fear of allied control.

2 FROM CHICAGO AREA KEY MEN IN OPENING MARSEILLES TO SHIPS

Maj. T. S. Lowry.

Two men from the Chicago area, Maj. Thomas S. Lowry, 40, 2233 Marston lane, Flossmoor, and Lt. Joseph J. Ossowski of 5407 S. Hoyne st., were termed key men in establishing an all-time record for rehabilitating an important military port in an army press release issued yesterday from European headquarters.

The two men were praised by Maj. Gen. Arthur R. Wilson, commanding general of the continental base, who identified the port as Marseille. The record was the docking of Liberty ships 16 days after allied troops entered the city.

Maj. Lowry was harbor master at the port of Naples, where he was decorated by Gen. Eisenhower with the Legion of Merit. Prior to entering the army he was general western agent for the shipping brokerage firm of D. C. Andrews.

FRANKENSTEEN CHARGES DEWEY DISTORTED TALK

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—Richard T. Frankensteen, vice president of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], said today that Gov. Dewey in quoting him on reconversion planning "isolated one sentence in an attempt to prove the exact opposite of my real meaning."

The union leader referred to the Republican Presidential candidate's Oct. 7 speech at Charleston, W. Va., in which Dewey quoted Frankensteen as saying:

"The trouble is that no adequate overall planning is being done to insure adequate reconversion which will lead into a post-war period of full employment."

Frankensteen declared in a statement that he made this assertion before the senate military affairs committee last June while testifying in behalf of the Kilgore-Murray-Truman reconversion bill.

CHARGES FLYNN ROBS THOUSANDS IN G.O.P. OF VOTE

Chairman Asserts Cards Were Withheld.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Republican County Chairman George M. Fisher charged yesterday that County Clerk Flynn "deliberately and ruthlessly" disfranchised thousands of citizens by withholding sufficient registration cards from G. O. P. territory in the suburbs in Tuesday's polling place registration.

George M. Fisher.

Fisher asserted he had received angry reports from several Republican township committeemen that they were driven out of their wits by inability to remedy the condition created by Flynn.

Sees Attorney General.

Fisher talked about "misfeasance in office" and conferred with Atty. Gen. Barrett. The attorney general said what happened seemed to be more than accidental and he is investigating.

Flynn, beside denying the charges in toto, issued an invitation to any one who did not register because of the lack of cards to sign up downtown within five days. County Judge Jarecki has the authority to register them under such circumstances, it was said.

"This outrage fits into the pattern of Boss Henry Sonnenschein of the 22d ward being placed in command of the country townships of Cook county by Mayor Kelly," Fisher said. "It happened in Republican territory, but where there still are many Democratic votes there was not one report of a shortage of registration cards."

In Chicago Heights the 10 precincts under Flynn's jurisdiction got only 400 cards, Fisher said. The Republican workers got 400 additional from the village clerk and from Blue Island, but still lacked cards, he said.

Replenish Supply Twice.

In River Forest the allotment also was only 40 per precinct, he said, and supplies ran out. Oak Park also lost potential voters when supplies of 40 cards per precinct were exhausted, Fisher said. He said the G. O. P. workers had to go downtown twice to get more.

Proviso township had 30 to 40 cards per precinct, which had been used by early afternoon, Fisher said.

"The registration averaged over 75 per precinct, but an estimated 500 citizens had to give up because of the delays," Fisher said. "It was universal in Republican territory."

Storm Office for Cards.

Riverside turned away many would-be registrants until Republican workers went to Flynn's office and stormed for more cards, Fisher said.

In New Trier township there were only 25 cards per precinct against a registration of 60 per precinct, Fisher said. Calls to Flynn's office at 11 a. m. that supplies were exhausted produced no more until 7 p. m., he said.

Norwood Park, with six precincts under Flynn, was supplied a maximum of 40 cards per precinct. A registration of 578 finally was recorded, he said, but how many potential voters got away is not known.

In charging a plot, Fisher emphasized that the Chicago election board under County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki was not involved. When city precincts ran short of cards the board speedily sent more, he said. The Chicago board supplied 150 to each precinct to start with.

Canada Appoints Three to Speed Demobilization

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 11.—To speed demobilization of Canadian troops who may be released upon conclusion of the war in Europe, Pensions Minister Ian A. Mackenzie today announced appointment of three special assistants for his department. They are Maj. Gen. Guy R. Turner, who has returned to Canada after service with the Canadian 1st army; J. G. Clark, vice president of Robert Simpson company, department store, Toronto, and Group Capt. S. N. F. Chant, formerly a professor at the University of Toronto.

Estimates 67,000 Voters Register in Kane County

Charles Lowry, Kane county clerk, estimated yesterday that 67,000 persons, an all-time high, had registered there for the Nov. 7 election. Registration was particularly heavy in both city and country precincts in the final days before the Tuesday deadline. Lowry said Aurora will have approximately 27,000 eligible voters, of whom 3,500 are in service. Elgin is expected to have in the neighborhood of 20,000.

URGES POST-WAR USE OF DOUGLAS PLANT'S AIRPORT

G.O.P. Nominee Cites Its Advantages.

Post-war civilian use of the airport of the Douglas Aircraft company near Park Ridge and Des Plaines was advocated strongly yesterday by Charles H. Garland, Republican nominee for congress from the huge 7th Illinois district.

Charles H. Garland.

Garland said in making the statement that he was mindful of the welfare of Chicago as well as of the people of the district, which includes almost the entire northwest side and nine country townships and has a population of about a million.

Engineers Indorse Site.

"Engineers who have looked into the matter are unanimous in the belief that the Douglas site, with four runways already constructed, makes the finest prospect in the suburban area for a modern commercial airport," he asserted. "It would be a tragedy to lose the investment already made.

"The engineers think adequate expansion of the present city airport on the southwest side would cost 50 million dollars, while Douglas could be made a far better port, with runways of 10,000 feet or more, for less than half that much money.

Can Be Ready Quickly.

"It is one of my fond hopes that the Douglas plant will be a permanent fixture in northwest Cook county. If it does then the logic of having the port here is strengthened. And it can be ready even before the present airport of the city can become outmoded.

"As I see it, only vision is needed to guarantee that we have the airport of our dreams and I pledge my utmost effort to get it."

Garland mentioned the manifest advantages of the site. He said it lay in a farmland region and could be expanded to 3,000 acres at relatively small cost [it already has more than 1,000]; that it could be of maximum use to the government if war ever threatened again, and that the projected northwest highway would cut greatly the loop-airport traveling time.

The congressional candidate, who is mayor of Des Plaines, said means undoubtedly would be found to finance the Douglas airport.

Must Prepare for Role.

"We all agree Chicago should be the air center of the world. To attain that end we must be prepared. Right here at home is where I want to start. There is no sense in waiting until the city airport is outmoded, or in spending the money to make it bigger in a built up section."

At present the Douglas airport, owned by the army, has no commercial traffic and is used primarily to send off the big cargo planes made by Douglas Aircraft company.

CHINA REQUESTS HALF OF UNRRA'S BIG RELIEF FUND

Asks 945 Millions; Figure Excludes Salaries.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11. — A Chinese official whose home town has just been overrun by the Japs asked the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration today for supplies he estimated would cost 945 million dollars—half or more of UNRRA's expected capital.

In addition he asked UNRRA to send his country 885 doctors and nurses, 1,080 industrial experts, 230 welfare workers and other workers who would swell UNRRA's personnel in China to 1,856. Their salaries were not included in the 945 million dollar cost.

Huge U. S. Task Revealed.

Thus the magnitude of the war relief task in which the United States has asked 43 other nations to help spend American funds began to be apparent, with the first complete outline of any nation's total needs.

The United States has pledged itself to pay 1 billion 350 million dollars of the war relief bill. It was originally estimated that contributions from other member nations would raise the fund to 2½ billion dollars. But the estimates have now dropped as low as 1 billion 800 million dollars, and even this figure is based upon the yet unrealized assumption that most of the nations sharing in the spending will contribute to the capital.

The official who asked UNRRA for approximately a billion dollars is Tingfu F. Tsiang, Chinese member of the UNRRA council or governing board. He said at a press conference that there is little chance of getting relief to China before 1946.

Europe Is Immediate Problem.

Because UNRRA Director General Lehman already has announced a 1945 budget of 1 billion dollars for purchasing locomotives, tobacco, coffee, clothing, food, and supplies of all kinds, and paying UNRRA salaries that range as high as $12,000 and $14,000 a year, Tsiang was asked by a reporter where the money will be found when China's turn for relief comes. The immediate task is feeding, clothing, and rehabilitating Europe.

Tsiang expressed the hope that some of the first billion dollar annual budget would be earmarked for supplies to be delivered later to China.

His hope recalled, however, the fear expressed by many members of congress that UNRRA's humanitarian task cannot be stopped when its money is gone, and that American taxpayers will be called upon for more billions.

Want U. S. to Control Fund.

It was for this reason, members of congress have explained, that they sought in vain to have the American spending kept in American hands, altho they had little objection to America's assumption of the relief task as it accepted it after the last war.

Tsiang reported China's request was considered large in UNRAA circles—large but justified by the plight of China's millions of war victims.

He made it plain China does not expect UNRAA to finance the entire cost of Chinese relief. That cost, he said, will be 3 billion 439 million, and China intends to pay the rest of it.

Tsiang painted a black picture of Japanese destruction and cruelty in China. Rice must be supplied, he said, to feed the starving population. Clothing must be provided. Transportation must be restored, and agriculture and industry must be rehabilitated. Millions who have been driven from their homes must be sent back to their native soil.

Wants No Divorce

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Mary Tweed, former wife of George Ray Tweed, who eluded the Japs for 31 months on Guam, as she appeared in San Diego, Cal., court after plea to have Tweed's divorce decree set aside. She hopes to share in estimated $250,000 profits from film and book rights on his exploits.

SMALL NATIONS URGED TO FIGHT SECURITY PLANS

BY PHILIP DODD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—Charging the world security organization planned at the recent Dumbarton Oaks conference in Washington would be a "league of conquerors," Sen. Bridges [R., N. H.] tonight urged an immediate conference of small nations to make changes in the plan.

In a public statement, Bridges, critic of the New Deal's foreign policy, said the Dumbarton Oaks plan prevents the creation of an international body in which all nations would have an equal part in determining actions of the organization.

Bridges was particularly critical of the powers assigned to the security council, to be composed of the "big four" nations [the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and China], France at a later date, and six of the smaller nations. The general assembly of small nations would be under the "domineering restrictions" of the security council, he said.

Power Lies with Few.

"It seems to me," Bridges said, "the granting of wide powers, at the outset, to the security council would turn this world organization into a 'league of conquerors' in whose hands the world's military, diplomatic, economic, and political power would permanently remain.

"I propose that the great powers call a conference of the smaller nations immediately where these tentative proposals can be frankly and democratically discussed, and where remedial alternatives to these present proposed powers of the security council might be formulated."

Bridges cited as examples of the restrictive powers of the security council provisions in the plan which would prevent the general assembly from making recommendations in peace and security proposals being considered by the council, and another provision denying the assembly the right to discipline any of its members.

Principles Disregarded.

Bridges said the principles of sovereign equality stated in the Dumbarton Oaks plan are being disregarded already in "unilateral and unprincipled" peace settlements. He referred to agreements reached between Russia and Romania, and Russia and Finland, in recent months.

"If this trend continues," Bridges said, "it will create a hopeless divergence between these unprincipled peace settlements and the kind of peace which this organization is now being designed to sustain."

"If the Atlantic Charter is repudiated by the 'big four' the world will be subjected to the rule of force in the hands of a few, under which any international court would merely become an instrument of tyranny to impose a three caste system of law. Under this system, the 'big four' would be above the law they were administering, the smaller and less powerful nations within that law, and the conquered countries beneath it.'

The immediate formulation and broadcast to the world of the peace aims of the allied nations would eliminate discrepancies between the Dumbarton Oaks plan and the present trend in international settlements, Bridges declared.

TRUMAN REFUSES TO KISS 300 BABIES; GOT A COLD, HE SAYS

New Orleans, La., Oct. 11 (AP).—The Democratic Vice Presidential candidate turned down an opportunity to kiss 300 babies.

The infants, all born since their fathers went to war, were brought by their mothers to a hotel where Sen. Truman [D., Mo.] was holding a conference.

Truman declined to kiss the children, explaining he had a slight cold. He admired, but refused to hold, a set of twins.

"Only a mother should hold a baby," he said.

After the mothers left, Truman exclaimed:

"I never saw such a sight."

Indicted on 3 Charges of Draft Law Violations

Francis Ingram, 35, of 2300 S. Michigan av. was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday on charges of failure to answer his draft questionnaire, failure to notify his draft board of a change of address, and failing to have in his possession a selective service card. He was arrested by agents of the federal bureau of investigation.

BROOKS WARNS AGAINST ISMS OF OUR ALLIES

A warning that while America is associating herself in war with foreign systems of government she must constantly be on the alert against any invasion of her own form of government by these foreign systems was contained in an address delivered yesterday by Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] before a closing session of the 105th annual meeting of the Illinois grand lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons in the Hotel Sherman.

He also expressed the pride of masonry in being part of, and helping to sustain, a nation made up of men of all races and creeds.

The meeting took action on the recommendation made Tuesday by Grand Master Stuart E. Pierson and appointed committees to work on the project of setting up veterans' assistance officers or agencies in each lodge. This, it was explained, was preparation for the day when increasing numbers of discharged service men would be seeking to reestablish themselves in civilian life.

WHAT OF POLISH BORDER? LYONS' RETORT TO F.D.R.

Asks Whether It Will Be Fixed by Russia.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, yesterday challenged President Roosevelt to say whether or not the United States has agreed to support Russia in demanding territorial changes in the frontiers of Poland.

Lyons' challenge was issued in one of his major addresses of the campaign, delivered before Chicago Polish American leaders in the La Salle hotel on the anniversary of the death of Count Casimir Pulaski in the Revolutionary war. He demanded restoration of Poland as a free nation with a self contained economy.

Roosevelt Comments.

A few hours later in the White House in Washington, D. C., President Roosevelt addressed leaders of the Polish American congress, whose delegates had presented to him a memorial urging that their nation's integrity be preserved. The President told them that Poland must be reconstituted as a great nation; a representative and peace loving nation. He added, however, that he lacks complete information on the Polish situation.

Last night after reading the President's statement, Lyons said: "Mr. Roosevelt has dismissed the vital Polish question with glittering generalities. He did not reassure the Polish people that the provisions of the Atlantic Charter still stand. He did not tell them that the borders of their homeland will be preserved inviolate.

Neglected Two Points.

"He did not tell the Polish people that Russia will not be the dominating power in fixing Poland's boundaries. And he did not tell them that America will stand firmly for justice to Poland, whose leaders were our good friends in our hour of need.

"Mr. Roosevelt's suave small talk is only added proof that the Atlantic Charter has become the Atlantic Barter and that the Roosevelt administration is determined to keep its promises to Communists before it keeps its promises to its natural allies."

After voicing his challenge to the President yesterday noon, Lyons said that if this nation has agreed to side with Russia, the people have the right to know:

"What part of Poland have we agreed shall be taken away from the Polish nation? To which Poles, and to how many, have we decreed the sorry choice of exile from their homeland, or a future of permanent domination by an alien and Communist state?"

Refers to Meeting.

In asking these questions, Lyons referred to the recent meeting of Roosevelt and Churchill in Quebec, where the two chief executives announced they were in agreement on all the matters discussed. Then he quoted Churchill's statement last week to the British parliament that "England will support Russia in demanding territorial changes in the Polish frontier to give Russia the security she is entitled to."

"Too often," Lyons continued, "our people have learned of decisions vitally affecting us, not from our own leaders, but thru statements in London's house of commons. We have a right to know if Churchill spoke for the government of the United States when he made that statement about Polish frontiers."

G. O. P. American Program.

Lyons said election of a Republican President and senate would show that the American people demand the following program:

1. Poland must be restored as a free nation with a self-contained economy and ample agricultural lands to insure the food supplies of its people.
2. Poland must be governed by a government chosen at an election free from all alien interference.
3. The United States will use her overwhelming moral strength to secure the adoption of these proposals.

Lyons said the American government has a responsibility in the Polish crisis because the tanks and weapons that have carried Russian armies into Poland were fashioned in America, in part by American workmen of Polish origin.

"The whole program of Russian lend-lease has been paid for, or will be paid for, out of the savings of Americans, and no section of our people has outdone our Polish-Americans in war bond drives," he said. "Shall we ask these Americans and their sons who are fighting and dying on battlefields to subscribe to the permanent enslavement of their kinsmen in the fatherland?"

WIDOW DIES BESIDE POISON VIAL.

Mrs. Georgia McMillan, 54, was found dead yesterday on the rear steps of her home, 10148 Indiana av., an empty poison bottle near by. Her son, Carlton, said Mrs. McMillan never had resigned herself to the death of her husband seven years ago.

"And you'll never have any dishes to wash, honey. I can get along swell just on hot dogs!"

DIRKSEN ASSAILS ELEANOR ON HER BOSSISM REPLY

Rep. Dirksen [R., Pekin], in a speech prepared for delivery last night over W-G-N, assailed Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for blaming the public for the shady reputations of New Deal political bosses in a question and answer page she conducts in a magazine.

Mrs. Roosevelt was asked: "Do you approve of your party's association with Mayor Kelly, Mayor Hague, Sen. Guffey, James Curley, Tammany, or any other political machine with a shady reputation?" She replied that she did not blame the bosses "half as much" as the average citizen.

"When I read Mrs. Roosevelt's answer," Dirksen said, "I thought how lucky New York City is that Thomas E. Dewey didn't blame the people for the crookedness of the crooks when he was special prosecutor. He blamed the crooks. I thought how fortunate the United States of America is that Gov. Dewey is on the way to the White House—taking with him the kind of honesty that you and I believe in."

Labor Group Celebrates Headquarters Opening

told Mr. Roosevelt that Polish Americans are apprehensive "in the light of recent developments that the principles of the Atlantic charter and the four freedoms are being abandoned or sacrificed in the case of Poland."

Declaring that Poland's "territorial integrity and her very independence are menaced," Rozmarek said:

"We are anxious to know if you, Mr. President, are prepared by all means at your disposal to insist upon and to defend the just principles of Poland's independence and also her territorial integrity without which the Polish nation could not remain self-supporting and could not fail to become dependent on her powerful eastern neighbor."

Ask F. D. R. Assurance.

In view of Russia's attitude toward Poland, Rozmarek continued, the group was asking Mr. Roosevelt's assurance that he would insist against the imposition of an alien or puppet government on Poland and the transfer of any Polish people against their will.

In reply, Mr. Roosevelt said there can be "no question" that Poland "must be reconstituted as a great nation." But, the President added, nobody in this country has accurate information about everything that is going on in Poland. He said that for example, he did not know "all the facts about the recent events in Warsaw."

"As new information comes every day," said the President, "we will get a clearer picture about the whole situation.

Objective Praised.

"The broad objective which we all seek is excellent. I am certain that world opinion is going to back up that objective—not only to reconstitute Poland as a strong nation, but also as a representative and peace-loving nation. I wish to stress the latter. It is very important that the new Poland be one of the bulwarks of the structure upon which we hope to build a permanent peace."

Last Sunday during a Pulaski day parade in New York, Gov. Dewey urged a square deal for Poland and denounced the secrecy of current diplomatic negotiations attempting to determine the future status of a dismembered Poland. This was seen as a thrust at reports that Mr. Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have privately agreed to soviet plans to annex 47 per cent of Poland.

Stress Justice of Cause.

The group of Polish American leaders conferred with the President today at the latter's invitation. The leaders, representing six million Americans of Polish descent, presented to Mr. Roosevelt a memorial adopted by the Polish-American congress at Buffalo, N. Y., last May.

The memorial, personally addressed to Mr. Roosevelt, said Polish-Americans were "confident" he would fully appreciate the "justice of Poland's cause," and declared the occupation and retention of Polish soil by invading Russian armies "would undoubtedly disturb the future of Europe and would be in total disregard of international morality and justice."

The Polish leaders sought to give the memorial to the President after the Buffalo conference in May, but were refused a White House appointment on the ground Mr. Roosevelt was too busy.

Members of the group attending today's conference, besides Rozmarek, were:

Two Other Chicagoans.

Mrs. Honorata Wolowska of Chicago, vice president of the Polish American congress and president of the Polish women's alliance of America.

Dr. Teofil Starzynski of Pittsburgh, vice president of the Polish American congress and president of Polish Falcons of America.

John J. Olejniczak of Chicago, treasurer of the Polish American congress and president of Polish Roman catholic union of America.

Stanislaw A. Gutowski of Newark, N. J., executive secretary of the Polish American congress and executive secretary of the Pulaski foundation.

Walter J. Pytko of Philadelphia, president of Polish Beneficial society and former Pennsylvania state senator.

Judge Thaddeus Adeszko of Chicago.

Dr. B. L. Smykowski of Bridgeport, Conn.

HODES PROTESTS HE WASN'T HINTING, BUT BOOSTING IN SPEECH

It was only to give a speech in praise of the 5th ward, delivered in the best manner of a chamber of commerce booster, that Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, called 100 Hyde Park tavernkeepers into a meeting Monday night, he said yesterday. Hodes, who is Democratic committeeman in the ward, said he wasn't hinting about anything.

"I asked those people to meet so that I could tell them that we have one of the cleanest as well as one of the largest wards in the city and that we are going to keep it that way," Hodes said. "I told them that they owe tribute to no one and that if any whispering campaigns are started we will stand together in combating them."

Similar preelection meetings to raise campaign funds have been held in some wards.

Chicago Poles Mark 165th Anniversary of Pulaski

Commemorating the 165th anniversary of the death of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Polish hero in the Revolutionary war, who was killed Oct. 11, 1779, in the siege of Savannah, Ga., Polish organizations yesterday placed wreaths under his plaque in the United States courthouse. The plaque was erected in his honor by Americans who served in World War I.

MINERS CONTROL DEWEY CHANCES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Victory Is Seen if They Follow Lewis.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Charleston, W. Va., Oct. 11.—Whether President Roosevelt or Gov. Dewey gets West Virginia's eight electoral votes depends on the vote of the coal miners, who hold the political balance of power in this region.

There are upwards of 100,000 coal miners in the state, all members of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, which in its national convention last month adopted, by a vote of 2,700 to 100, a resolution condemning "the record of Roosevelt administration" as one of "studied disruption" of their union and praising Gov. Dewey as "a firm believer in equal justice, fearless and courageous action, and a capable administrator."

With their wives and other members of their families the coal miners account for about 250,000 of the state's normal 1 million voters. The registration shows 160,000 more Democrats than Republicans. The miners are normally about 75 per cent Democratic. Mr. Roosevelt carried the state by 123,000 in 1940.

Will They Follow Lewis?

If the miners should follow the leadership of Lewis in overwhelming numbers there is no question that Dewey would sweep West Virginia. The Republican leaders calculate that Dewey will take the state if he receives 50 per cent of the miners' vote. The Democratic leaders are confident that Lewis cannot deliver the union vote.

Democrats point out that Lewis failed to deliver the miners to Willkie in 1940 as he set out to do. The Republicans explain that this was because Lewis did not declare for Willkie until 10 days before the election, while in the meantime the majority of the local union officials had taken the stump for Roosevelt and could not backtrack.

The campaign for Dewey among the mine workers is being conducted by the union public relations committee, the chairman of which is Thomas C. Townsend, union attorney. As evidence that the miners are overwhelmingly supporting Lewis this time and the convention declaration favoring Dewey there is cited what took place at a meeting of union field workers called last week by Townsend. These field workers are union employes who look after union interests at the pits.

All But One for Dewey.

There were 68 field workers at the meeting, most of them Democrats. Townsend asked the attitude of the field workers on the question of supporting the national convention declaration against Roosevelt and favoring Dewey. He passed out cards to be signed. All but one of the 68 field workers signed up for the declaration.

Dewey addressed an overflow meeting here last Saturday night and received a tremendous ovation. He also made a favorable impression at the conferences with economic groups which preceded the speech. Interest centered in his meeting with a large delegation of mine workers who came primed and asked him searching questions concerning his position on mining and labor.

At the close of Dewey's conference with the miners the candidate was cheered by the workers, the majority of whom were Democrats.

URGES PARENTS CANVASS HOMES TO AID DEMPSEY

Mrs. Frank H. White Jr., head of the Chicago Parents' committee, which protested the recent city-wide ban of school transfer permits, met with parents' school district leaders in room 1007 at 185 N. Wabash av. yesterday afternoon. She urged the election of John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, and said he will be able to bring a measure of control over what was described as the high handed methods of the school administration. Mrs. White recommended a house to house canvass by parents on behalf of Dempsey and gave suggestions as to how campaigning should be organized. She said she will be in room 1007 each Wednesday afternoon to meet parents.

3 DEMOCRATS HANG HOPES ON 'INDISPENSABLE'

Three Democratic office seekers cited President Roosevelt's "indispensability" in support of their own candidacies at a rally last night in Parlynski hall, Lincoln av. and Burr Oak st., Blue Island.

The candidates were Edward J. Kaindl, seeking reëlection as recorder of deeds; Sheldon W. Govier, running for reëlection as clerk of the Appellate court, and John A. Szumnarski, running for a sanitary district trusteeship.

Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national Democratic committeewoman for Illinois, asserted Roosevelt was needed to win the war and the peace. About 150 Democratic faithful attended the meeting.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Anne Young, 643 N. 16th st., Philadelphia, Pa.]

THE QUESTION.

Do you think American women are too beauty conscious?

WHERE ASKED.

Michigan av. and Van Buren st.

THE ANSWERS.

George Feld, park supervisor, 510 E. 102d st.—No. A woman owes it to herself and to society to make herself as beautiful as possible at all times. Out of two girls of equal ability, the more beautiful one has a better chance to succeed. It's looking ability, not cooking ability, the men want.

N. A. Zemke, railroad inspector, Milwaukee, Wis.—They certainly are! My wife has too much of a craving for those chic little hats with feathers and bird's nests on them. If women spent as much time making their personalities beautiful as they do in making up their faces, they'd be more genuinely beautiful.

Herman F. Alme, division supervisor, 5327 Cornell av.—I think they are rightfully beauty conscious. The time it takes to make themselves beautiful is well worth while. However, they should never lose sight of the fact that beauty isn't everything—it also helps to have a pleasing disposition and personality.

John P. Murphy, waiter, 6234 Blackstone av.—They stress cosmetics too much. However, in these times when so many husbands and sweethearts are home on military leave for such a short time they like to show their women off and have them as gorgeous as possible. A pretty face is nice to remember.

Mrs. Morris Perlman, president, Chicago Philanthropic club, 7739 Essex av.—It seems to me men put more stress on beauty than women. When my son was in officer's candidate school he wrote to his wife, who was staying with us, and said, "When you come down to see me bring plenty of money and be beautiful."

Lillian Duvries, florist, 444 Diversey pkwy.—Wholesomeness to me is more attractive than a well made-up face. It takes just 10 minutes for me to dress. The average American girl spends very little time on herself. Usually the ones who overdo beauty care are the ones who end up with the most distressing results.

Joliet Officer Receives Silver Star in New Guinea

Lt. William H. Barry, 405 Sherman st., Joliet, has been awarded the silver star for gallantry in action in New Guinea last June 10. Barry was leading an infantry platoon which met a large force of enemy troops. At once he gave the command, "20 yards, follow me." The men followed him in a series of 20 yard dashes in the face of heavy fire and the platoon wiped out the resistance, the war department citation said.

DOLE ONLY PLAN NEW DEAL HAS, GREEN ASSERTS

America cannot afford to return the New Deal to office, Gov. Green told a Republican massmeeting in the 11th ward last night, because the New Deal, which sought vainly for 10 years to solve the unemployment problem, offers only "a return to doles and leaf raking."

The present Republican state administration, he told a capacity audience in a hall at 1035 W. 31st st., has brought about more legislation favorable to labor than any other state administration in history—a total of 150 laws.

100 Millions in Reserve.

Despite increased aid to the aged and dependent children and increased allowances to educational institutions, he said, the state has accumulated a 100 million dollar reserve to take care of returning service men and women.

With this he contrasted President Roosevelt's statement to an American Legion convention in 1933 that he did not believe a soldier, because he was a soldier, should receive any special benefits.

"The only act of economy the Roosevelt administration ever made," said the governor, "was at the expense of the veterans. And adding insult to injury, Roosevelt vetoed in 1935 a bill which would have restored many of the benefits which had been taken away.

"He has vetoed at least 18 bills during his administrations which would have benefited war veterans. In Illinois, by comparison, a rehabilitation plan has been in operation for more than two years and many thousands of the 100,000 service men and women who have returned from the war have benefited under it.

"Experts on such matters say ours is the best plan of any state in the union, and I pledge to you that these men and women returning from war will come first."

Lyons Sees G. O. P. Sweep.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee for senator, predicted that Illinois will go Republican in November by at least 400,000 votes.

Atty. Gen. Barrett, Republican nominee to succeed himself, prophesied the Republicans will carry Cook county "because the New Deal has a perfect record of nonperformance of promises."

Other candidates introduced included Lt. Gov. Cross, nominee for reëlection; Arnold Benson, for secretary of state; John T. Dempsey, for state's attorney; Leo Carr, for sheriff, and Laddie T. Pelnar, for clerk of the Circuit court. William S. Finucane, 11th ward Republican committeeman, presided.

BUSINESS GROUP NAMES 60 WHO SUPPORT LUCAS

Names of 60 supporters of Sen. Lucas, Democratic nominee for reelection, were announced yesterday by Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the Business Men's League for Lucas. Like Sprague, most of the executive committee members of the league are Democrats. The list included a sprinkling of politicians as well as some others not identified with business enterprises.

The committee included Edward E. Brown, president of the First National bank; Robert F. Carr, president of the Dearborn Chemical company, and Maurice L. Horner, nephew of the late Gov. Horner. All are Democrats.

Other Lucas supporters were Francis X. Busch, former corporation counsel; Frank Bobrytzke, county commissioner; Robert J. Dunham, park board president, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, former commerce commission chairman, and Thomas F. Donovan, former Democratic lieutenant governor.

2,300,000 YANKS ARE EXPECTED TO CAST VOTES

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—More than 4,300,000 men and women in the military forces have applied for absentee ballot and the best estimates of state election officials indicate that more than 2,300,000 of the ballots will be cast in the Nov. 7 election.

In the 18 states which have kept a record, more than 600,000 G. I. ballots already have been marked and returned. The percentage of service men and women who have cast the ballots they requested—or received without asking — ranges from 5 per cent in Wisconsin to nearly 50 per cent in Ohio.

Counted Separately.

The exact number of military ballots cast may never be known, since may states do not count them separately. Thousands of other ballots are reaching local and county officials in each day's mail and state officials have no record of them.

This is the situation in states where exact figures or close estimates are available:

New York, with its 47 electoral votes, has received 166,836 soldier votes from the 589,054 men and women who applied. Republican officials estimate the state's total soldier vote will reach 375,000.

Get Back 118,000.

Ohio, with 236,985 applications, has received approximately 118,000 ballots. A check in Pennsylvania, which mailed 600,000 ballots without waiting for applications, indicates that 120,000 have been returned. A fourth state over the 100,000 mark is New Jersey, which sent 379,920 ballots without applications and has received 101,953.

New Jersey's Republican administration said 300,000 G. I. votes will be cast in that state, while a Pennsylvania election official, also Republican, has estimated 180,000 for the Keystone state.

The picture in other states with complete or nearly complete figures:

	Applications received.	Ballots received.	Estimated tll. G.I. vote.
Delaware	7,599	1,600	*
Kansas	40,000	8,000	*

BROKER FIGHTS INDICTMENT IN WHITE FORGERY

Attorneys for Graeme Smith, insurance broker charged with forging the names of two heirs of the late Michael White, paving contractor, yesterday began a legal fight to quash the four indictments against their client. Smith was indicted by the July grand jury. Atty. Robert Hilliard argued before Criminal Court Judge Frank M. Padden in chambers that the indictments were faulty. Hilliard contended that the jury had failed to indorse the bills with the words "a true bill" as required by statute, and asserted that 12 members of the 23 man jury had not agreed to the finding. The hearing was continued until tomorrow.

2D AIR FORCE CHIEF INJURED IN PLANE CRASH

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 11 (AP).—Maj. Gen. Uzal G. Ent, commanding general of the 2d air force, Peterson field, Colo., was injured seriously yesterday when a B-25 medium bomber he was piloting crashed in a take-off at Fort Worth army air field, field officials disclosed.

Gen. Ent was injured when a propeller cut thru the cockpit.

As head of the 9th bomber command, Gen. Ent led the bombing raid on the Ploesti oil refineries on Aug. 1, 1943.

OFFERS U.S. A 2D DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

University Head Reads It to Capital Audience.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—Dr. Gleason L. Archer, president of Suffolk university at Boston, read what he termed "the second Declaration of Independence" today beneath the towering statue of Thomas Jefferson memorial.

Dr. Gleason L. Archer

The document asserted President Roosevelt has wielded great power too long for the welfare of the people, that he has sought to perpetuate himself in office and that he has endeavored "to place himself in a stratosphere of his own creation as commander in chief."

Grievances Listed.

After listing grievances against Mr. Roosevelt in the manner of those made against the British king in the Declaration of Independence, the document said:

"Holding all these things to be true as a matter of public record thruout the years, we do hereby declare ourselves independent of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the man. Let this be a warning also to future Presidents who seek to perpetuate themselves in power."

Dr. Archer is a Democrat and chairman of the American Democratic national committee, which is opposing the fourth term.

The "second declaration" bore his name and the names of 23 men and women identified by persons in the audience as members of the Dewey-Bricker non-partisan club of McLean, Va., a Washington suburb. The audience was composed of avowed members of the club.

No Permit for Meeting.

Park police of Secretary Ickes' department of the interior said no permit had been granted for the meeting and that a permit was required at the memorial to Jefferson, principal author of the Declaration of Independence. Asked if the police would interfere, a sergeant answered:

"No. This thing's too touchy."

Members of the audience said the document which Dr. Archer read aloud had been drawn up by the club. The document began:

"When, in the course of human events, a free people find tyranny growing apace in their land, it becomes necessary to act immediately to save their freedom. To delay invites disaster. To wait may be too late. For tyranny feeds upon its own power.

Tyranny Compared to 1776.

"We hold that tyranny from within the United States of America in 1944 is just as destructive to the rights of man as tyranny from without was destructive to the rights of our ancestors in 1776."

Among the accusations against Mr. Roosevelt were: Dividing the nation, impairing freedom of speech, punishing the people thru the power of taxation, assuming the law-making powers of congress, seeking to make the courts subservient to his will and attacking free enterprise.

DEWEY-AND-BRICKER BUTTONS AVAILABLE IN LIMITED NUMBER

Dewey-Bricker buttons in limited quantity still will be available this morning in THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices at 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower, Manager John F. Gillespie said yesterday. By nursing his supply and turning down frequent requests for buttons by the handful, Gillespie made his stock last more than a full day. Approximately 5,500 were passed out, two at a time, over the counters yesterday.

The demand meanwhile was heavy from political workers and from voters who sought Dewey buttons here from Republican western and state headquarters where supplies have been inadequate.

CHARGES SENATE TO 'WHITEWASH' STATLER BATTLE

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 11 [Special].—A senate committee of which Sen. Guffey [D., Pa.] is a member is preparing an investigation of the so-called battle of the Statler hotel in Washington, D. C., Sept. 23 in order to whitewash the incident, Fulton Lewis Jr., Mutual Broadcasting system radio commentator, charged here tonight.

Lewis said the committee, reflecting the Democratic fear that the "battle of the Statler," in which two naval officers were beaten, would react unfavorably upon President Roosevelt's campaign for a fourth term, was attempting to "whitewash" the incident, which occurred after President Roosevelt addressed the union.

The committee is prepared to splash upon its record testimony from four witnesses that the two officers, beaten by members of the teamsters union after they had refused to tell the teamsters how they were voting, were intoxicated. Lewis asserted, however, that at least two members of the Statler hotel staff in Washington were prepared to testify the naval officers were sober.

F.D.R. HIMSELF BLOCKED GUAM PLAN—BRICKER

Fortification Banned to Appease Japs, He Says.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. 11 [Special].—Gov. Bricker, Republican Vice Presidential candidate, assailed the record of the Roosevelt administration in two fighting speeches on his Pacific Northwest swing today.

Speaking at the huge Bremerton shipyard this afternoon and over the nation-wide Mutual network from Tacoma tonight, Gov. Dewey's running mate:

1. Blamed President Roosevelt for failure to fortify Guam.

2. Advocated that America maintain a strong system of outlying military bases after the war.

Red Showdown Asked.

3. Assailed President Roosevelt's "soft declaimer" of Communistic support and said "we'll believe it when he fires the last Communist from the government pay roll and publicly repudiates Sidney Hillman [CIO leader] and Earl Browder [Communist leader and ex-convict]."

4. Charged that the New Deal plunged the nation's economic machinery "into chaos and stagnation" and "kept it there until war started its wheels moving again."

Attacking the administration record on failure to fortify Guam in the face of Japanese military activity in the Pacific, Bricker declared:

"Time after time the administration has sought to escape responsibility for the tragedy at Pearl Harbor and Corregidor by blaming the Republicans for its own failure in Pacific preparedness. As late as Aug. 12 the President said at Bremerton on his return from a political tour of the Pacific: 'We were not allowed to fortify Guam, nor did we fortify Wake, or Midway, or Samoa.'

Tries to Blame Congress.

"Whose fault was it? The administration has sought to blame congress, more particularly the Republicans in congress, who voted against an authorization to appropriate 5 million dollars to make certain engineering improvements at Guam."

The Ohio governor declared "neither the navy, the administration, nor the President had asked congress to fortify Guam. It was not the policy of the administration to fortify Guam. It feared that Japan might be offended at such action.

"The administration's Guam proposal was primarily to provide a commercial airport. Such would have only given Japan more to capture."

Bricker declared Adm. Leahy, then chief of naval operations, testified before the committee on naval affairs that: "The necessity for a fully equipped base at Guam seems to depend entirely on the national policy for which the navy has no responsibility."

"From Adm. Leahy's statement, we learn that the President's 'national policy' ruled out the effective fortification or development of Guam as a naval base," declared Bricker. "The responsibility for failure to fortify Guam therefore rests primarily upon President Roosevelt because he did not approve asking congress to provide the necessary authorizations and appropriations and thereby prevented the navy from doing so.

"The Republican and Democratic members of congress who voted against the administration's 5 million dollar airport proposal did so on the ground that the administration was trying to get something by subterfuge which it could not get by coming out in the open. Many of them would have voted for the proposal if the work was to have been done as a regular river and harbor improvement by army engineers.

Feared to Offend Japan.

"Thus, we must conclude that fortifying Guam was not in the President's program. He was afraid of offending Japan. It was the same reason for which he kept providing Japan with oil and scrap iron. He did not ask congress to fortify Guam. Guam was not fortified — Japan struck. The responsibility rests squarely upon the President."

Turning to domestic issues, Bricker declared that the "New Deal dragged this country to the bottom of the list of nations in terms of industrial recovery" after it took office in 1933.

"It is not true, as Mr. Roosevelt implied in his acceptance speech," said Bricker, "that the New Deal 'rescued American business, agriculture, industry, finance, and labor in 1933.' It actually plunged them into economic chaos and stagnation. It put our economic machinery on dead center and kept it there until war started its wheels moving again."

Saying Good-by

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Donald Shifris saying good-by to his father, Sidney, in the county building yesterday.

Sidney Shifris 33, of 1401 Hyde Park blvd., a merchandise buyer, failed in Circuit court yesterday to win custody of his son, Donald, 9, who had lived with him since April, 1943, when Shifris took the child out of a military school.

The boy was placed in the school in September, 1942, by Shifris' former wife, Alice, 27, of 3830 Pine Grove av., who was given custody of her son in November, 1938, when she divorced Shifris. Attorneys Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Shifris, told Judge Michael Feinberg that she had put the boy into the school because she had no home for him, but now has one. They asked the court to cite Shifris for contempt for taking the boy.

Shifris, represented by Atty. Harry X. Cole, countered with a petition for the child's custody, and asserted the mother had surrendered her rights by allowing the boy to live with him. Judge Feinberg talked with the boy in chambers, then ruled that the mother should retain custody. He also ordered Shifris, who has remarried, to continue paying $25 a week support to his former wife.

DEWEY TO MAKE 12 MORE TALKS; NEXT IS MONDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 11.—Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential candidate, is expected to make approximately a dozen more speeches in the midwest and in the east in the 27 days remaining before election. His secretary, Paul Lockwood, today authenticated the date and the place for seven of these addresses and announced the subject for one.

Dewey will talk next Wednesday night before the annual New York Herald Tribune forum in the Waldorf Astoria hotel on "This must be the last war." This will be the Republican candidate's second major address on foreign affairs.

On Monday night Dewey will speak at St. Louis, Mo.

Other confirmed speaking dates are: Oct. 24 at Minneapolis, Oct. 25 at Chicago, Oct. 31 at Buffalo, Nov. 1 at Boston, and Nov. 4 in New York City's Madison Square Garden. Nov. 4 is the Saturday before election day. On the intervening Monday night he is to make his final bid for votes in a radio studio broadcast.

CALL ON JARECKI TO ENFORCE ALL ELECTION LAWS

Leaders of Civic Bodies to Present Requests.

A request that election laws be observed to the letter as the first step toward preventing vote frauds at the Nov. 7 election will be presented to County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki tomorrow by a delegation representing 18 civic organizations.

"Tremendous discrepancies" in registration files will be called to Judge Jarecki's attention, said Mrs. Harriet M. Robertson, chairman of the Women's Civic Council of the Chicago Area, which for years has campaigned to prevent voting by floaters and other illegal practices.

Spokesmen for women's organizations will be prominent in the delegation.

List Their Requests.

"We are going to make these requests of Judge Jarecki who is head of the election machinery in Cook county," Mrs. Robertson said, "and thus is responsible for seeing that the law is obeyed.

"No change of address cards must be accepted by the election commissioners after Oct. 10 midnight, the deadline for registration.

"The election commissioners must provide correct printed precinct registers of voters.

"The laws drawn up by the Women's Civic council, sponsored by the Honest Ballot committee and passed by the 1943 legislature, shall be enforced in this election."

Several Steps Urged.

The delegation will insist upon these steps, its leaders said:

"Posting of precinct registers of voters in every polling place not later than five days before an election.

"Making the election commissioners responsible for correct precinct registers of voters.

"In making an official canvass of registered voters the canvassers shall be affiliated with the two leading political parties.

"Official canvassers must leave personally as well as mail a copy of the suspect notice at the given residence of the person whose registration is questioned.

Members of Delegation.

The members of the delegation and the organizations they represent:

Mrs. George W. White, president, Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Claude I. Palmer, Chicago Woman's club; Dr. Robert E. Pugh, Chicago Church Federation commission on civic relations; Miss Maude Kirk, Woman's University club; Mrs. Burt E. Steenson, Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs' law observance department; Thomas Seay, Illinois division, Small Business Men's association; Mrs. James Warren, Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations; E. A. Arthur, Better Government Association of Cook County; Mrs. Helen Munsert, Women's Bar association.

Miss Myrtle L. Carpenter, American citizenship department, Cook County Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Vera Ulrey Clark, American Women's Voluntary Services; Mrs. Harriett M. Robertson, Women's Civic Council of the Chicago Area; Mrs. William F. Conlon, Daughters of 1812; Mrs. Alfred O'Gara, Citizens' 9th Illinois Congressional District committee; Mrs. John F. Dille, Daughters of American Revolution of Illinois; Mrs. Herbert J. Mass, regent, Chicago chapter, D. A. R.; M. B. Morris, Chicago Kiwanis club, and Ralph Goodman, Honest Ballot committee.

The charge will be made, it was said, that 1943 laws sponsored by the Honest Ballot committee were not enforced at the April 11 primary.

Girl of the Month

MISS HELEN VRBA.

Miss Helen Vrba, 19, of 1922 S. 59th av., Cicero, is receiving hundreds of letters and scores of requests for pin-up pictures as the result of her selection as "girl-of-the-month" of the Western Electric company's Hawthorne works. The title is awarded monthly to a representative Hawthorne girl whose picture and personal letter are sent to the plant's 4,800 men in the services. She has been variously named, "Flame of Fort Sheridan," "Miss Boiler Room of 1944," and other titles by soldiers and sailors.

PLEDGES TOTAL 40 PER CENT OF WAR FUND GOAL

Pledges totaling $5,122,378, or 40 per cent of the $12,890,000 quota metropolitan Chicagoland is being asked to contribute to the Community and War fund, have been received, it was announced yesterday at a luncheon given by the business division of the drive in the Standard club.

The business division, composed of 71 trade and professional groups, has subscribed $4,975,447, or 49 per cent of its $10,230,000 goal, it was disclosed. Other divisions, their quotas and amounts raised by each since the fund drive opened Oct. 2, as announced are: City division, $19,615, quota $1,200,000; suburban division, $29,295, quota $850,000, and women's division, $147,825, quota $600,000.

The audience cheered when it was announced that both the navy and naval air training commands, together with the stocks and grains section of the business division, had oversubscribed their quotas.

Employes of city, state, county, federal, and all other public offices in Chicago will be asked to contribute one day's pay to the fund, it was agreed yesterday at a conference in the city hall. The total contribution is expected to be almost $500,000. Clarence B. Randall, general chairman of the fund, and Mayor Kelly were among the speakers at the meeting.

6TH BATTALION OF SEABEES TO HOLD REUNION

More than 150 members of the navy's 6th construction battalion [Seabees] will hold a reunion in the Bismarck hotel at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night commemorating Oct. 13, 1942, on Guadalcanal. Richard Ryan, 7228 Calumet av., one of those in charge of arrangements, recalled that Jap warships bombarded Henderson field for 3 hours and 45 minutes, before dawn Oct. 13, 1942, while Jap infantry transports stood by to land troops. The United States navy arrived with daylight and in the next three days routed the Jap naval concentration in the battle of Savo Island.

PEACE TO BRING WAVE OF CRIME, JUDGES WARNED

Chief Justice Julius H. Miner of the Circuit court last night warned that the post-war era may bring a crime wave of unprecedented violence "that might rock the very foundation of our government." He spoke before the Chicago Bar association at a dinner for Circuit judges in the bar headquarters, 29 S. La Salle st.

It is vital that our bulwarks against crime be much strengthened in preparation for such a tidal wave of law breaking, Judge Miner said. He asserted:

"Our former President and Supreme court justice, William Howard Taft, said that the administration of criminal law in the United States is a disgrace to civilization.

"This condition has not improved in recent years. It has steadily grown worse. And we know from experience that we may reasonably expect an unprecedented crime wave at the conclusion of this war that might rock the very foundation of our government."

Crime's High Cost Cited.

Judge Miner said that the cost of crime now is more than 10 times the cost of maintaining our school systems. Authorities have estimated that crime puts a burden of $120 a year upon each citizen, he said, in the form of higher insurance premiums, extra taxes for fighting crime, and direct losses to criminals.

Early planning is necessary if the challenge is to be met, Judge Miner said. Lawyers are front line combatants in this battle and must take their places now at the advance posts, while judges also do their part in coördinating activities of civic and governmental agencies to deal with the problem, he said.

A forward-looking view must be taken in appraising the laws so that members of the bar may sponsor and promote a legislative program to "protect and defend our rights, our liberties, and our lives," he said.

Justice "the One Safeguard."

Stephen F. Hurley, president of the association, observed that justice is the one safeguard of our sacred institutions, adding that "without that, a war would not be worth fighting."

Edwin C. Austin, an attorney, when he rose to speak, first referred to Chief Justice Miner as president.

"Well," he said when a ripple of laughter greeted the slip, "I am always getting my presidents and my justices mixed up because it is any one's guess these days whether a judge or a president has a better chance for a life tenure."

Other speakers were Judge Philip J. Finnegan, head of the court's chancery division, and William J. King Jr., attorney.

FREAK STEEL STRIKE IN GARY STILL MYSTERY

Cause of the freak strike of 180 employes in the coke oven division of the Carnegie Illinois Steel corporation's Gary works Monday remained a mystery yesterday.

Company officials met with representatives of the employes in a preliminary grievance session, but no formal grievances were filed. One employe voiced an opinion that the parking space should be closer to the coke ovens. Another, who owns a tavern, said he didn't want to work on Sunday because that was a busy day in his tavern.

Joseph Goin, subdistrict director of the United Steel Workers [CIO], asserted that grievances were pending, but was unable to say what they were. The striking workers returned to work Monday night when foremen from various parts of the plants started up the machinery in two of the coke ovens.

Former Soldier Uninjured in Fall to Elevated Tracks

Robert W. Grosse, 26, of 1251 Sunnyside av., a medically discharged soldier, escaped unhurt yesterday when he fainted and fell to the elevated tracks in front of a train at the Wilson av. station. When the train screeched to an emergency stop Grosse was lying between the edge of the platform and the first rail. Only his knuckles were bruised. Grosse works as a stock clerk in a war plant.

ALLMAN ORDERS QUIZ IN PRIEST'S MYSTERY DEATH

Captain Told to Explain Erroneous Report.

Police Commissioner Allman yesterday ordered a complete investigation of the mysterious death of the Rev. Maurice J. Hyde, 46, assistant pastor of St. Jarlath's Catholic church, 1725 Jackson blvd., who was found robbed and unconscious at 40th and State sts. early on Sept. 29.

He ordered Capt. Raymond Crane of the Wabash Avenue station to submit in writing an explanation of why police records described Father Hyde as a "clerk," and noted that he had been "injured at work."

Father Hyde, whose skull was fractured, died last Friday in Mercy hospital without regaining consciousness. Police identified him to the coroner's office merely as "M. J. Hyde" and gave his address as 10056 S. Damen av., the home of a sister, Mrs. Margaret Lane.

Found Far Off Route.

Testimony at the inquest Oct. 7 revealed that Father Hyde earlier in the evening had visited a friend, Joseph M. Courtney, 3702 W. 60th st. He left there at 8:30 p. m., saying he was returning to St. Jarlath's church.

To do so, he normally would have taken an Ashland av. street car. The spot where he was found unconscious was nearly five miles from the church and half that distance from the nearest point on Ashland av.

Capt. Crane said that Father Hyde's identity as a priest was not immediately apparent to police because a fire department squad had dirobed him to apply first aid. Capt. Crane's first report to Allman had said two detectives arrived before the firemen did.

"We're working on it," said the captain, when asked what investigation was being made. Asked if special detectives had been assigned, he said no. Asked who was working on it, he said "everybody."

Overcoat Also Missing.

At the inquest, Sgt. Jerome McCarthy had said that Father Hyde's pockets were turned inside out and all means of identification were missing. Yesterday, Sgt. McCarthy, who said he had been assigned to the case the next day, insisted he never saw the clothing.

Belief that the priest had been assaulted and robbed was strengthened, however, by the sergeant's assertion that Father Hyde's light overcoat, which he had when he left the Courtney home, was missing.

WAR INCREASES MEALS ON TRAINS MORE THAN 400%

The nation's railroads, interested primarily in transportation, have become one of the largest but least known restaurant chains in the country, dining car superintendents agreed yesterday at their annual convention in the Drake hotel. "When war started," one superintendent said, "we went out of the catering business and into the feeding business."

A minimum of 100 million meals is served annually in dining cars, an increase of more than 400 per cent since the war began, F. R. Borger, secretary of the group, reported. This increase has been absorbed without new equipment, he added. Cars that had been abandoned were put back into service, bringing total diners to 2,000.

To make accommodations, dining hours were lengthened. On some lines, breakfasts continue until 11:30 a. m., lunch is eliminated for lack of time to prepare a noon meal, and dinner is ready at 4 or 4:30 p. m.

RULE FATAL PLUNGE SUICIDE.

Edward A. Hartmann, 49, of 4325 N. McVicker av., a shop superintendent for the Barrett Sales company, 2612 Barry av., committed suicide while insane Tuesday when he leaped from an 11th floor window in the Builders building at 228 N. La Salle st., a coroner's jury found yesterday.

Signs of Winter

Tarzan, the raccoon in Thatcher woods small animal museum, scouts for winter quarters from a tree crotch.

Ground squirrel in Thatcher woods finds long grass a cozy spot for hibernation.

Muskrat houses in Tuma slough, Palos Hills, are taller and roomier this year, sure signs, say the experts, of a long, wet winter.

The muskrats are building their houses high along Tuma slough in the Palos Hills section of the forest preserve and that means, says Joseph Reichert, superintendent, that it probably will be a wet winter. Last year the houses were low — and it was dry. The muskrat activity is only one sign that winter is drawing nearer. At Trailside museum in Thatcher Woods, River Forest, hibernation started for "Papoose," the 4 year old striped ground squirrel — gopher, if you wish. He went sound asleep right on schedule, despite the availability of regular meals and central heating. Papoose is a true hibernator, said Miss Virginia Moe, curator of the museum.

Hibernation, Miss Moe explained, is an active state in which metabolism is greatly lowered, resulting in body temperatures only slightly higher than the creature's surroundings. The woodchuck, however, usually dozes off before things get unpleasantly chilly and while there's plenty of fresh green food. Paradoxically, Trailside's two woodchucks were wide awake, yesterday, clowning on the wheel in their cage. On the other hand, the museum's coon family grows more lackadaisical daily and is expected soon to drop off. What this all adds up to is that it's autumn, or thereabouts.

War Buddies Help Judge Celebrate 49th Birthday

A LEAGUE TO ENFORCE FREEDOM.

The more you examine the official utterances regarding the post-war organization of the world, and the sayings of post-war collaborationist societies, the more apparent it becomes that the planners are all thinking of a system of military alliances to impose harsh terms. That isn't what they talk about, but it's what they have in mind. The defeated, after being put down, are to be kept down by force of arms. The same fate is in store for the nations liberated, as the saying goes, by the Russians. Nothing better seems in store for the peoples we are liberating from the Japanese and returning to Britain, France, Holland, and Portugal for further exploitation.

The Dumbarton Oaks draft invites the assembly to "promote respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms" but the assembly is just a debating society, devoid of power to act. The only showing of real enlightenment in foreign policy comes not from officialdom but from Mr. Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press. He suggests that freedom of the press be written into the peace treaties. Thus they would serve as charters of liberty, at least as far as publishing and news gathering are concerned, for all the peoples concerned.

That looks like a useful idea in itself and, of course, the plan is capable of extension. If the powerful nations are to combine in a military alliance to make the rest of the world behave, why not prescribe in the treaties the norms of decent behavior? Why not, in short, insist that every nation extend to its people the rights and liberties that make for enlightenment and peace? Military alliances are formed for purposes of repression. If we are going to have such an alliance, why not use it to repress tyrannical tendencies before they get out of hand and lead to war?

Our own Constitution provides the precedent. Article IV., section 4, says: "The United States shall guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion and . . . domestic violence." The founding fathers, to the extent that they were setting up a league to enforce peace among sovereign states, had the good sense to see that the republican form was in itself a powerful instrument of pacification. They would jointly accept the responsibility of keeping the peace among the states only in the knowledge that each state would be a republic and, therefore, unlikely to provoke war. Only once, in 1861, was this hope disappointed.

The peace planners could go on to require the nations to accord to their citizens not only Mr. Cooper's freedom of the press but also freedom of speech and assembly and freedom of religious belief and observance. Habeas corpus should likewise be made every man's right and unreasonable searches and seizures should be forbidden. Property should be protected against expropriation, as in our Bill of Rights, and the rights of the citizen charged with a crime to a fair trial should be specified. The principles embodied in the 13th, 14th, and 15th amendments, forbidding discrimination at law on account of race and color and forbidding slavery and peonage, will also help to advance the cause of civilization.

These terms can readily be imposed on the defeated nations and may well be the only terms that will be received by them with joy. Our allies may find some of the provisions hard to take, but can hardly object to giving their own people the same rights that the defeated will automatically come to enjoy. At any rate, here is a set of peace terms to enforce which Americans might be willing to join a world league. Surely the last who can object to such an arrangement are those who have been saying that we are fighting this war to promote human freedom everywhere. If that's what we're fighting for, let's use the military alliance that seems to be in the making for precisely that purpose. Let's agree to use force against governments that deprive their citizens of the elementary freedoms.

ROOSEVELT SLAPS ROOSEVELT.

President Roosevelt has asked James C. Petrillo, boss of the American Federation of Musicians, to call off a strike which the union has been conducting against two of the principal phonograph record companies of the country for two years and Mr. Petrillo, in a diplomatic nine page telegram, has invited his peerless leader to go jump in the Potomac.

Previously he had told the President's war labor board where to get off in blunter terms. The board directed the union to have its members return to work for the recording companies in June and Mr. Petrillo told the members to pay no attention to the order inasmuch, he contended, as they were not engaged in a war industry and, therefore, did not come under the jurisdiction of the war labor board. It will be recalled that Sewell Avery of Montgomery Ward & Co. made exactly the same contention, but Mr. Avery did not get a respite of more than four months, followed by a pleading message from the President of the United States.

The controversy with the recording companies is part of the union's long fight against what it calls "canned" music—the playing of records on the radio and in juke boxes—which it alleges is depriving its members of employment. As a condition of making records for commercial use the union demands that the recording companies pay it a royalty which Mr. Petrillo says will be used to provide for unemployed union members.

For this defiance by one of his political supporters Mr. Roosevelt has only himself, the statutes which he sponsored, and the administrative bodies and courts whom he appointed to thank. Under the Wagner act a labor dispute consists of anything that a union wants to dispute about. By the action of the national labor relations board and other Roosevelt appointed agencies public authority is thrown heavily into the scale on the side of unions in any such dispute.

A union has only to go on strike and Mr. Roosevelt will obligingly seize the property of the employer. In such seizures he has sometimes installed administrators who have granted to the union the conditions that the employer felt himself unable to grant, and have paid those additional benefits out of the funds of the seized business.

In its interpretation of the anti-trust laws Mr. Roosevelt's appointees to the Supreme court and subordinate federal courts have established the precedent that a union can engage with employers and others in almost any sort of conspiracy in restraint of trade without fear of punishment, on the theory that anything that a union wants to write into a collective bargaining contract is beyond the power of the law to alter.

Mr. Petrillo's refusal to comply with the President's plea has to be considered in the light of these circumstances. He wouldn't have made the reply he did if the whole course of conduct of the Roosevelt administration had not been such to convince him that he would get away with it.

WE HAVE KEPT THE FAITH.

On Oct. 1, 1942, the Canadian power controler issued an order reducing by 60 per cent the production of newsprint paper at THE TRIBUNE'S paper mill at Thorold, Ont., and closing down completely the manufacture of newsprint at a small mill near by operated by the Beaver Wood Fiber company. It was explained at the time that electric power available on the Niagara peninsula was needed for the manufacture of munitions.

The output of certain mills in the province of Quebec was also curtailed for similar reasons. The plan announced at the time was to concentrate the manufacture of newsprint paper in mills in remote areas of the dominion unaffected by the shortage of electricity. The restrictions were lifted months ago from the mills operating in the province of Quebec, but were continued until Oct. 1 of this year at THE TRIBUNE'S mill.

The Globe and Mail of Toronto, in an editorial of Sept. 27, stated:

> "Allowed full use of its capacity, available hydro power and the man power with which to cut pulpwood, the Canadian industry, by improved cutting methods and new plant practices developed during the war, can go a long way toward meeting price competition. But it must have the opportunity of doing so as soon as war priorities permit. Yet it was necessary for this newspaper to remind Ottawa that there was power available in Ontario to restore the operations of the Ontario Paper company at Thorold, and to prod the power controler into removing restrictions on its use. Penalties on other nations cannot be expected to compensate for the handicap of official stupidity."

This is a direct admission that the power curtailment at THE TRIBUNE'S mill was prolonged for reasons other than those of war necessity. The editorial further reveals that fear of pulp and paper competition from neutral Sweden as soon as German submarines are cleared from the North sea was an impelling motive for increasing Canadian newsprint production by removing dictatorial restrictions at the Thorold mill.

During these two years of serious curtailment the loss in production at THE TRIBUNE'S mill has amounted to 160,000 tons of paper and that of the Beaver Wood Fiber company to 50,000 tons. This totals almost 7 per cent of the yearly prewar consumption of newsprint in the entire United States.

Thru good management THE TRIBUNE'S mill has never been short of pulpwood even in war times, and it was only the government's edict, with the lack of power as an excuse, which prevented full operation. The mills in remote regions, under poorer management, were caught in the man power shortage and could not produce to full capacity and thereby supply normal requirements of publishers in the United States.

A reduced visible supply of paper resulting from this situation produced in turn an excuse for burocratic distribution in the United States of newsprint paper, the one commodity which is absolutely necessary to the publication of a newspaper.

THE TRIBUNE has fought the communistic New Deal from its very beginning by an intensive campaign to preserve American constitutional government and American private enterprise. This in time of war has been construed by the Canadians as being anti-British and anti-Canadian. A campaign of vilification against THE TRIBUNE has raged in various newspapers thruout the length and breadth of Canada. Threats have been made to confiscate the Canadian properties of THE TRIBUNE, in which it has invested $40,000,000.

The so-called Hyde Park and other agreements and secret understandings between the New Deal and Canadian authorities have brought serious charges from the union men thrown out of work at the Thorold mill. They have declared it to be self-evident that THE TRIBUNE and its subsidiary, the Ontario Paper company, were being penalized and persecuted on account of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial policy.

We make no such charges, but so long as the veil of war secrecy continues, the office of Canadian power control will aways remain under suspicion, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE will always be known as the paper which could not be coerced or purchased with vast sums of money.

Thruout these two years we have kept faith in our editorial policy. We have also complied to the letter with the Canadian regulations which restricted our production and with the American edicts of the war production board which limited our consumption. We have done these things regardless of consequences.

CHARLEMAGNE'S TOWN.

Aachen, the German border city which has become a sore thumb in the war news, has backgrounds whose discussion requires doctor's degrees in medieval history and Old French literature. Its association with Charlemagne opens up the prodigious subject of the Holy Roman [German] empire, which complicated European life for many centuries, and also the massive branch of linguistic studies related to the ancient romances of chivalry called chansons de geste, especially the Song of Roland. Should one trifle with such matters in the space of 300 words?

* * *

Charlemagne was buried in Aachen's cathedral, whose construction he started. About a century after his death the tomb was opened, and his remains were found seated on a marble throne which became the coronation chair of numerous Holy Roman emperors. For more than seven centuries these potentates were crowned and consecrated at Aachen; the facade of the near-by Rathaus is ornamented with their statues to the number of 54.

* * *

Charlemagne, who favored Aachen because of its mineral springs and good hunting, is supposed to have had a Round Table, like King Arthur, composed of 12 first rate fighting men called paladins. Their names vary according to which chanson de geste you try to read, but Roland leads every list. The first string team also includes Oliver, Ivon, Ivory, Oton, Berangier, Samson, Anseis, Gerin, Engelier, and Gerard de Rousillon. The most famous substitute was Ogier the Dane, who has a mythology of his own.

* * *

Roland is said to have been Charlemagne's nephew. He was eight feet tall and the mightiest man in Christendom except his friend and rival, Oliver, who repeated all his exploits. These two world champions finally came together in single combat on an island in the Rhine, and fought for five days to a draw.

WHERE HAVE THEY GONE?

Where have the little sylvan creatures gone
Now that the day is kneeling on the far
Gray hills? Now that the final light is wan?
Now that the hour has placed its faithful star?
Where have they gone? Deep in the shadowed firs,
Into the piney caverns sweet with musk,
Down aisles of oaks and scented junipers
Into the lacy grottos of the dusk.
Listen for velvet wings and padded feet
Where moss, and lichens, and the toadstools crowd;
Listen for round plush throats that will compete
In sudden nocturnes, long, and bright, and loud.
Listen for sleepy sounds like lullabys
Belied by galaxies of curious eyes.

Choppy Challenges Fala.

Republican Choppy says he sees his name mentioned in the Line o' Type column with that of Democrat Fala. He says that made him see red.

Now, Choppy says, he wishes he could see some red points in the offing, as he hasn't had a red steak in so long he has forgotten how it tastes. Choppy says he cannot understand why it is a fellow has to have his red points, nowadays, and the more the better, to get the good things in this country. What has this "land of the free and home of the brave" come to, he wants to know, that we are afraid to demand our rightful heritage—steak and butter?

Is Fala aspiring to be Democratic president of all dogs in the United States, Choppy asks? If so, Choppy hereby announces his candidacy as Republican president of all American dogs, for one term of four years. Choppy announces his platform will be a tree, a back yard, a bone with meat, and a free trip to Hyde Park for all American dogs to see Fala writing his memoirs, and there is no globaloney about it.

Choppy says as he is a wire-haired poodle, this should get him the votes of the wire-haireds, the poodles, and the wire-haired poodles. He says he liked the last line of Davy of the Navy [Oct. 9], where Fala runs for a tree, because next Nov. 7 Fala is going to be up a stump, which makes Choppy positively Dewey-eyed with joy.

Choppy announces that he absolutely will not kiss any puppies.

AUTUMN REQUIEM.

Frail birch bending in wind,
Wild geese far crying,
Dark hills withdrawn in mist,
Gray wind-wraiths sighing,
Rain with a crystal lute,
His low plaint making,
Sound with a silver beat
The year's heart breaking.

Moons of the Winnebagoes.

One need not go as far away as Alaska [Oct. 4] for colorful names for the months. In my tribe, the Winnebago of Wisconsin, the moons are as follows:

January.... First Bear Moon
February... Last Bear Moon
March..... Raccoon Moon
April..... Fish Moon
May..... Earth Drying Moon
June..... Cultivating Moon
July..... Corn Tasseling Moon
August..... Corn Popping Moon
September.. Elk Calling Moon
October..... Deer Digging Moon
November.. Deer Mating Moon
December.. Deer Antler Shedding Moon

The February moon is said to have been torn by the wolves, which makes it a short month. All Indian tribes have interesting names for the months.

L. W. writes: "I was reared by two different families, and when I enter service next month I want to divide my insurance between them. Can I name one beneficiary of my insurance and have him divide the proceeds?

If you consider the "parents" of each of the two families as your "parents" [loco parentis], probably the simplest way would be to take out two policies, one in favor of each of the two sets of parents. We are sending you printed suggestions about the execution of affidavits to leave with your foster parents so they will have no difficulty establishing their foster relationship. Copies of this data are available to any one sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

F. McG. writes: "You stated a married veteran may receive up to $2,500 in compensation for service rendered before his government compensation would be cut. Does this apply to all types of compensation?"

No, only to compensation received from the veterans' administration for nonservice connected disability. Service connected disability compensation may be reduced when and if the disability is alleviated or removed.

WHEN MICROBES ATTACK THE BONES.

DESTRUCTION within a bone [osteomyelitis]—the result of infection—may blossom with but little warning. Parents may well keep this condition in mind inasmuch as playground accidents or areas of skin which have become invaded by pus-producing germs may be responsible. A youngster may waken in the night with intense pain in one of his legs. In fact, distress may be well nigh insupportable.

Careful examination will usually reveal that some previous illness, perhaps two or three weeks earlier, has been smoldering. This gives bacteria—from a severe sore throat, for example—a chance to enter the blood stream and wander into a particularly well prepared site near the end of one of the long bones. In like fashion, organisms may reach the circulation from a slight wound on the cuticle or a crust of impetigo.

But treatment concerns us most. While we realize that "corruption" is forming within rigid tissues [bone], many physicians believe that an attempt should be made to imprison the abscess before surgical drainage is instituted. Thus the extremity is subjected to hot, wet packs while the parts are so fixed that movement cannot occur. Sedatives are used to relieve pain and plenty of fluids are administered to increase elimination.

Of all the newer drugs, sulfathiazole appears to exhibit a most salutary effect. This remedy is always combined with an alkali, and the patient must be watched for signs of poisoning. Under this plan a pus pocket may localize from within five to ten days and not infrequently it can be emptied by merely withdrawing the fluid via a hypodermic needle. Thus it is that disability may be cut short materially. Cases where the knife will be required will be reduced in number.

Recent reports on a sizable number of patients revealed that in 55 per cent the trouble was located in the thigh, 18 per cent in the upper arm, and 12 per cent in the large bone of the lower leg. Now, all of these youngsters, who averaged ten years of age, were treated conservatively. Eighty-five per cent were not subjected to major surgery. Those demanding operation were handled successfully by the Orr method.

The gist of the whole matter lies in helping nature to wall off the infection by means of continuous heat. Further assistance is rendered by treating the sore throat or the lesion on the surface of the body so that more microbes will not add fuel to the flames.

Many a physician has seen victims of osteomyelitis who have gone along for years, with one operation after another. The sufferer, in spite of everything, may be left crippled. This ailment is so much easier to prevent than cure. We can teach our children to go to mother with every abrasion. A thoro cleansing with soap and water, and bandaging with sterile gauze, will stop trouble before it starts.

NO MINERAL?

E. M. L. writes: I would like to go on an animal and vegetable diet. Can you advise me how to go about it?

REPLY.

Easy to do. Patronize vegetable gardeners and meat markets. Make a selection and go to it. You can vary your vegetables as well as your sources of protein—meat, fish, eggs, etc.

STYLES IN INCISIONS.

R. W. writes: My appendix scar runs across the abdomen instead of up and down, like my friends'. Why is this?

REPLY.

Don't fuss about your scar or in what direction it is aimed. The important thing is that your appendix is out. There are numerous fancy incisions, without ryhme or reason.

MAYBE GIDDY.

D. P. writes: Can beer drinking cause the stomach to become nervous?

REPLY.

Yes, if it doesn't like it. Quantity is the chief factor. Overstretching alone will force any self-respecting gastric pouch to rebel.

NOSE RUNS.

E. J. writes: What causes a nasal discharge while eating?

REPLY.

The very act of swallowing creates suction within the upper pharynx. This has a tendency to withdraw secretions from some of the sinus spaces.

Night Symphony of Peleliu.

[Editor's note: Staff Sgt. Ward Walker, a marine corps combat correspondent on military leave from The Tribune, recently wrote an account of his landing at Guam for this department. Now comes his account of a night on Peleliu during the marine landing in the Palaus.]

PELELIU, PALAU ISLANDS [Delayed].—The big guns far behind start rolling their dusk barrage, searching for the opening chord of the nightly symphony.

It is fitting that the big guns start it, for it is a symphony of death, and all thru the dark hours they will carry the theme, expanding it into a thousand variations in as many tempos.

From here on the lines their roar is like a hollow cough. They find the range, and many cough at once. White hot, the shells rush overhead with the pulsing surge of I. C. trains whipping under the viaducts.

For an instant there is silence. Then, sounding from the bloody face of Suicide Ridge will be a short way ahead, they burst in magnificent fury, shaking the very earth again and again and still again until the world is full of sound and there is no room for thought or sight.

The ghastly concert pauses, and the silence is a sweet thing like some fragile tune remembered from childhood. It is dark, and the sky is star bright. Crickets and other insects of the night come in low with their tender, friendly notes.

From some dark hole in the ridge a Jap machine gun shrieks its shrill tune while a Garand beats out a heavy, measured response. The chorus swells. Garands, light and heavy machine guns, grenades, all join into a mighty din.

Again there is quiet, broken only by the singing of the crickets.

A lonesome Jap mortar coughs. It is a dry, hesitant thing, not the full throated paroxysm of the big guns. The wavering "whush whush" of the wobbling shell changes from a low to a loud whisper and then it bursts.

Before the concussion is done our mortars spit, and the echoes of their shells bursting on the ridge rolls down. The big guns join in again. The rhythm has a Wagnerian sweep and might that seems to shake you deep inside.

As the barrage lifts, there is an undertone of jabbering in a minor key—the enemy out ahead. For a while you are tense, wondering if those notes will develop into full throated yells, the prelude to their suicidal charges.

Clouds have drifted across the sky. The big guns thunder the closing bars. Rain falls softly on the trees and undergrowth and on your face. It is a steady, soothing sound. And then you sleep.

Compassion at 19.

And from a 19 year old sergeant in "continental Europe":

"A strange species of humanity trudges down the roads. They call them refugees. If only the American people could realize even remotely the suffering, the misery, and the heartbreak wrapped up and clothed in that single expressionless word, refugee.

"You see them trudging along knee deep in mud in the pounding rain. They plod along steadily, mile after mile, kilometer after kilometer, with no definite goal in mind. Escape, evacuate, that is the paramount thought. Their oaths and vile talk afford them the only means of defense they could find against a savage, pitiless world that could so easily have forgotten them.

"And so they come in this endless stream, moving like human ants. Tired, emaciated, bent with burdens, with no laugh but the painful twist of a child's mouth over a passing dream of home.

"Scattered among them are young women who under any other circumstances would be considered beautiful. Not with the glamorous, svelte loveliness of the Parisian beauty, but rather the wholesome, buxom, voluptuous girl in vogue when Grandpa was on the prowl. . . . if only some one could capture their thoughts and feelings and record them not only for posterity but to widen the viewpoint of those now living!"

MAN THE POLLS FOR DEWEY.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—There is grave danger of Republicans losing this election just because earnest and capable men and women, who would gladly do their part, do not realize the necessity and importance of personally helping to man and supervise the polls.

There is a pressing need for able precinct captains, judges, and clerks of election, watchers and workers for election day. If you are one of those who feel the outcome of this election is extremely vital, I urge you to get in touch with your precinct captain, if you have one, or your ward committeeman. They will be able to tell you how and where you can most effectively serve.

Even if you feel you cannot give much time, appoint yourself a committee of one to do whatever you can on Nov. 7 to see that every Republican vote and every undeclared vote is cast.

Don't overlook the fact that we fight efficient, well entrenched and in some instances, ruthless and unscrupulous organizations. We cannot win such a battle by "letting George do it." Every earnest Republican must be right in there pitching! PRECINCT CAPTAIN.

HOW BROWDER FELT THEN.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8.—"Combat the imperialist policies and acts of the President. . . . Oppose aid to the imperialist war makers in London. . . . Oppose all war loans and credits to the warring imperialist powers. . . . Stop the sale and shipment of munitions and armaments to the belligerents. . . . Resist the militarization and armaments program of the administration and congress. . . . Stop the application of M-day plans. . . . Not a cent, not a gun, not a man for war preparations and the 'imperialist war.'"

This is from the Communist party platform adopted at the 1940 convention. A KENTUCKY DEMOCRAT.

DAN TOBIN'S GOONS.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Hitler started with strong arm boys and look at Germany. Now the teamsters take it on themselves to beat up any one who will not vote for Roosevelt. It wouldn't be so bad if it were even numbers, but they use their usual union racketeering methods of getting a dozen to go after one man. I say three cheers for the navy and to hell with Roosevelt. We don't want any Brown Shirt mobs here. TAXPAYER.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S HYPOCRISY.

Carmel, Ind., Oct. 8.—An old drunkard once made this illogical and contradictory remark, "Damn your whisky, I wish I had a barrel."

Franklin IV., in a late speech, said he does not like Communists yet he surrounds himself with more and more of those of communistic thought and action daily. M. J. KENNEDY.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S FOUR STARS.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—In passing the city hall one sees a large picture of Roosevelt labeled "Commander in Chief," placed there thru the influence of his friend, Kelly. Now a commander in chief should have a uniform, but the great politician, Kelly, hardly dared represent the President in uniform, but he does the next best thing by placing four gold stars on either side, just below the picture. The stars are emblematic of generalship. It would only make the difference of a few feet to place them on the shoulders of the commander in chief. Is this propaganda or not? Let Kelly answer.

20 MILLION FORGOTTEN MEN.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—On my way to work this morning I noticed the sidewalk in front of the Aurora and Elgin depot was littered with pamphlets containing a letter from F. D. R. to the white collar workers.

While I did not stoop to pick one up, it did remind me of a statement made by Vice President Wallace on Sept. 21, 1944, that there were some 20 million forgotten white collar workers in America. Think of it, an administration claiming to have done so much for the country as a whole, frankly admitting that they overlooked some 20 million people. Is it not strange that it took the forgotten Henry to think of them.

EMBARRASSING MEMORIES.

Keokuk, Ia., Oct. 6.—President Roosevelt's recent allusion to a guest who had been cautioned not to use the word "rope" in a home from which a member had been hanged may have been thought out and told with the view that our citizens should refrain from the use of the words "Pearl Harbor" while our commander in chief is attempting to grab another term as President.

The great American tragedy—destruction of more than 3,000 of our soldiers and sailors, and half of our Pacific fleet—is by the records available, chargeable either to the criminal carelessness or the gross incompetence of the commander in chief. BIRDWELL SUTLIVE.

OUT-OF-THE-CITY DIVORCES.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Is it true that the state Supreme court recently ruled divorces granted in cities other than where the people involved reside invalid? I was divorced in Chicago Heights altho I have always lived in Chicago. If I wish to remarry, will I have to bring new proceedings? O. M.

In McFarlin v. McFarlin, 384 Ill. 428, decided Nov. 16, 1943, a city court divorce decree between parties who did not reside in the city was later set aside by the trial court on the precedent of the Werner case, 379 Ill. 559. The Supreme court reversed, but at the same time said [p. 435] that the requirement still stands that the cause of action must arise within the territorial limits of the city. This left still unsettled the validity of many divorces obtained in Chicago Heights, Ill., etc., by Chicago residents.

We understand that the Illinois Supreme court now has under advisement another case testing the validity of these divorces. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHICKEN RAISERS AND GARDENERS COOK UP A STEW

Hen That Flew 2 Fences Divides Neighborhood.

Chicken raisers and war gardeners almost came to blows in Judge Victor A. Kula's Domestic Relations court yesterday over the slaughter Sept. 30 of a chicken belonging to Mrs. Kate Basich, 5711 S. Oak Park avenue.

Mrs. Basich, arrested on the disorderly conduct complaint of Mrs. Rose Janczyk, who lives across the alley at 5706 S. Rutherford av., pleaded not guilty and voiced her own grievances.

Judge Quiets Rival Witnesses.

"Not only did Mrs. Janczyk kill my chicken, judge," Mrs. Basich said, "but she hit me in the shins with a roller skate."

Six or eight witnesses, all chicken raisers, whom Mrs. Basich had brought with her, began to talk excitedly, pointing at Mrs. Janczyk. The war gardening witnesses who had accompanied Mrs. Janczyk joined the tumult. Judge Kula pounded the desk and Mrs. Basich resumed.

"I had 100 chickens, but somebody poisoned 40 with mothballs," she said. "Then one flew over my 12 foot fence into Mrs. Janczyk's garden. She killed it with a clothes pole."

Mrs. Janczyk leaped to her feet.

Mrs. Basich Spreads the News.

"But what did Mrs. Basich do then?" she demanded. "She came running over to my front porch with a rake and started punching holes in my screen. Then she stood at the corner of 57th st. and Rutherford av., waving the dead chicken and screaming that I was a chicken killer."

Judge Kula forestalled another outburst with a wave of his hand. He ordered Mrs. Basich to put a lock on her chicken fence, and Mrs. Janczyk to put a fence around her war garden, and put each under $1,000 peace bond.

Had a Furlough in 1922; Another May Be Due Now

McCook, Neb., Oct. 11 (AP).—At McCook army air field is a grizzled veteran, Pvt. William A. Scharfenberger, who has turned down all offers of a furlough since taking a nine day emergency furlough in May of 1922. Recently he received his first letter in three years. It was from his sister. Bluntly it asked: "Where have you been for the last 10 years?"

SPANKS WIFE, THEN LETS HER KICK HIM TO MAKE UP FOR IT

George J. Marie, 50, of 2349 W. 70th st., once spanked his wife, Isabell Peggy, but he felt so ashamed of himself when he was thru that he let her kick him, he told Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court yesterday.

Mrs. Peggy Marie.

Marie charged in a suit for divorce that Mrs. Marie deserted him Oct. 20, 1942, and in a cross-bill for separate maintenance, she charged him with cruelty.

Marie denied her charge that he kicked her and caused a miscarriage. He said she fell on ice. When she left him, he said, she took $500. Mrs. Marie testified she was forced to leave him after a quarrel. Judge Lindsay took the case under advisement.

JOHN H. WALKER, EX-HEAD OF IFL, INDORSES GREEN

John H. Walker, former president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor for more than 17 years and for 14 years president of the Illinois Mine Workers' union, last night opened a series or radio addresses, citing Gov. Green's favorable record toward organized and unorganized labor during his present term.

Last night he addressed the radio audience from Rockford. Tonight he will speak from Rock Island and tomorrow night he will appear at Peoria. He will speak from a total of 13 Illinois towns and will wind up his addresses Oct. 27 from Springfield.

Walker discussed Gov. Green's labor record by citing the printed reports of the executive board of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, official central body of the American Federation of Labor. This official record of the IFL, he said, is the "best test always" in discussing legislative problems favorable or unfavorable to labor.

Walker said the IFL executive board reports showed that during Gov. Green's term in office 114 favorable labor measures were enacted by the two sessions of the legislature which have been held, while 52 bills unfavorable to labor at the two sessions were defeated.

URGES CAPITAL SEND TEEN-AGE GIRLS BACK HOME

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—A proposal that all teen age government girls be sent back home came today from a social service expert as Washington debated how to safeguard the thousands of young girls who have come here from rural communities to take war time federal jobs.

Ray H. Everett, executive secretary of the Society Hygiene society, a private group campaigning for social hygiene and health, made this suggestion in an interview with the comment, "most girls under 20 are too immature to be running loose in Washington."

The problems imposed by a tremendous war time influx of young women have been discussed by civic leaders for months but the discussion has reached a new peak in press, pulpit, and among government workers themselves since the slaying of Dorothy Berrum.

Dorothy's three month government career ended in death. Just 18, she came here to work for the war department when she was graduated by the high school at Chippewa Falls, Wis., last June. Last week, raped and strangled, her body was found in a Potomac river park. A young marine has been accused of the killing.

While the government hires the girl workers, it does not undertake a close supervision of their off-duty hours. Most of the agencies and departments have personnel advisers to whom a girl can take her problems if she likes. But that is strictly up to her.

Supervision Debated.

A girl coming to Washington to work for the government can take living quarters anywhere she pleases. If she prefers to live in a government constructed dormitory, she will find advisers and a rule requiring that she "sign in" if she is out later than 2 a. m. but she can come and go as she pleases.

Whether the government should exercise closer supervision is a disputed matter.

A government girl, entering the discussion via a Washington newspaper's open forum, suggests that parents say "no" to a daughter wanting to work in Washington "unless they have taught her to take care of herself in all ways—and especially when it comes to men."

Up to Interior Department.

"It isn't uncommon," she added, "to meet a girl who is ignorant in sex matters—who actually wouldn't know if, when, or how she got into trouble."

One newspaper called for more police. "Reports reaching us," it said, "are to the effect that East Potomac park and some of the city's other parks are the scene of many sex crimes every night."

Under the Washington police setup, policing of the parks is the duty of the national parks police service, which is under the interior department, rather than the duty of the metropolitan police force.

THERE IS ANTI-FREEZE FOR ALL!

The War Production Board early this year made certain that there would be enough anti-freeze to meet the real needs of every car, bus, and truck owner. This was done for a double-barrelled reason:

First, automobiles that carry millions of war workers to their jobs must be kept running.

Secondly, Americans can't afford to have a single vehicle damaged by a freeze-up. Automobiles cannot be replaced and such parts as radiators, cylinder heads and engine blocks are scarce.

While you may not always be able to get the type or brand of anti-freeze you prefer, your dealer will have enough anti-freeze of one kind or another to give you full winter protection. But remember, anti-freeze in your dealer's stockroom won't protect your car. Get it into your radiator before there's any danger of a freeze.

HOW TO MAKE ANTI-FREEZE LAST LONGER

Have your cooling system checked over before putting in anti-freeze. Leaking or clogged radiators, faulty hose connections or other cooling system defects waste anti-freeze. Since anti-freeze is made from war-critical materials, you won't want to waste it—and, of course, you should buy only as much as you need. Your motor service man can tell you exactly how much you need for full protection.

And remember, a Du Pont anti-freeze protects your engine not only from freezing, but from rust and corrosion as well.

BETTER THINGS FOR BETTER LIVING . . . THROUGH CHEMISTRY

INSTALL NO ANTI-FREEZE . . . until you've had the cooling system carefully checked

1. Have the radiator cleaned of clogging rust, scale and dirt.
2. Hose connections should be checked for leaks and rotted spots.
3. Water pump should be tight to prevent leakage and air suction.
4. Cylinder bolts must be tight to prevent leakage.
5. Heater hood flaps should drain without high points to trap air.
6. Have fan belt examined. Make sure it isn't slipping.

MARKETS NOW FEATURING FAMOUS WENATCHEE APPLES

Special Handling by Great Northern Assures Freshness

The red and yellow vanguard of a new and big Wenatchee apple crop is in America's markets—and better, in G. I. kitchens and canteens in America and overseas.

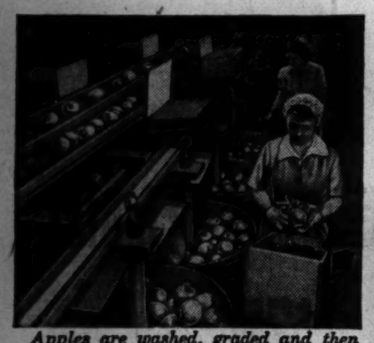
Wenatchee, in Washington's scenic Cascade country, is the "Apple Capital of the World." The amazingly fertile Wenatchee Valley produces one-sixth of the nation's annual apple crop, and a large variety of soft fruits.

Great Northern encouraged and aided founders of the valley's apple industry, and has continued this policy through the years. Because apples require special handling, the railway maintains extensive yard facilities in Wenatchee, and provides fruit shippers a giant fleet of modern refrigerator cars.

Only choice Wenatchees go to market in original form. Other grades are converted into dried apples, juice, sauce, cider, confections, and a base for jams and jellies. Many carloads of apple by-products are transported by Great Northern.

The railway's efficient movement of the Wenatchee Valley's huge apple crops is one of the many things which make Great Northern great.

Wenatchee Delicious apples live up to their name. They're big, juicy, and crisp. Many other varieties are grown in the valley.



Apples are washed, graded and then wrapped individually for packing in boxes for shipment.

Great Northern's big refrigerator cars hold nearly 800 boxes—about 80,000 apples.

Pre-cooling of refrigerator cars before loading is important. This requires thousands of tons of ice each shipping season. Heaters protect apples from midwinter temperatures.

PRESS FREEDOM BECOMES ISSUE OF NEW INTEREST

Administration Annoyed by Critical Papers.

[This is another chapter of the new book, "Liberty and the Press," which records The Chicago Tribune's struggle to preserve a free press for the American people.]

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Freedom of the press, for some obscure reason, has recently become a subject of new interest and examination. The subject springs up in many places, spontaneously, perhaps, as scientific inventions have sprung at the same time out of widely diverse mental magma. On the other hand, this reiterated suggestion from many sources that the basis of press immunities be reexamined in the light of new social concepts and directions, may be in the nature of a campaign.

The first Lincoln campaign suggests an analogy with what may be under way in this country in this connection. It will be recalled that Joseph Medill and other Illinois leaders of the young Republican party in Illinois met in Chicago and planned the campaign that led to Lincoln's nomination in 1860. They decided to soft-pedal his radical anti-slavery views and to concentrate their promotion campaign on Lincoln's chances of carrying key states, presenting him as the most available compromise candidate.

Lincoln Campaign Plans.

It was decided to start the campaign by having paragraphs about Lincoln's candidacy appear in certain obscure downstate papers. THE TRIBUNE and other larger Republican papers were to pick up these items, comment on them, reprint them, and start the ball rolling up to something of speed and size. Then the big Lincoln papers would come out for him.

This analogy does not follow thru in one item, however, for the articles and suggestions concerning the subject of freedom of the press have appeared in newspapers and magazines of prominence and of divergent political views. The most impressive has been made at the University of Chicago, where a commission has launched a two year program of study of this subject.

One argument, expressed in different ways, is that the use of its freedom by the press is destroying that freedom. That seems to be the direction in which the campaign, if it is a campaign, moves, toward a change of some sort in the charter of freedom under which the American press operates its mighty power.

Attacks Center on Tribune.

Attacks on freedom of the press, as it is exercised, often center on THE TRIBUNE, perhaps for the very reason that forms the subject matter of this book, the long fight that THE TRIBUNE has made to uphold this freedom. In some way the two things are confused, THE TRIBUNE and what it has fought for. THE TRIBUNE is one aspect of the result. The Daily Worker is another. It is forgotten that the legal decisions which THE TRIBUNE has fought for are the heritage of all, and form new bulwarks from which THE TRIBUNE itself may be attacked.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has stood against the New Deal administration since the honeymoon days of NRA in 1933. The result has been that it has been subjected to many direct and indirect attacks from this administration and its satellites.

Some See Deep Plot.

Opinions vary among newspaper publishers as to the ultimate intentions of the New Deal officials and sympathizers in regard to press immunities and privileges. Some publishers see a deep plot here to abridge these liberties, directly or indirectly, and to put fear into the hearts of editorial critics. And it has been stated at a meeting of publishers that the present administration has no intention of destroying this or any other fundamental American liberty.

Whatever the ultimate intentions may be, the actions of the present administration have been along the line of suppression of the critical press, particularly THE TRIBUNE. The administration has had reason to be annoyed with THE TRIBUNE, even fearful of it, for many of its projects had been defeated by news exposés, editorial comment, and cartoons.

The New Deal satellites often have become impatient of criticism and frustration and have sought to accelerate th enatural course of events. The most revealing attitude perhaps is that taken by Archibald MacLeish, poet and librarian of congress, who has given it as his theory that the only defensive weapon is attack, thru a more skilful use of the press.

Campaign Begins to Unfold.

What has been planned in the way of a campaign along these lines is a secret among the planners, but a few significant facts may be recorded. Many newspapers have been critical, in varying degree, of the New Deal policies, but it was decided at a meeting of government publicity specialists, which was held in MacLeish's office in February, 1942, to concentrate fire on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the New York Daily News, and the Washington Times-Herald.

According to William Fulton, a New York correspondent of THE TRIBUNE at that time, an elaborate campaign against these newspapers was charted at this meeting. A New York publisher, friendly to the New Dealers, warned them against this action, which was said to have the sanction of the President's closest advisers, but apparently the warning was unheeded, as the campaign began to unfold thru the radio, the lecture platform, magazines, and smear books. Coöperating with this effort were the Communist press, the Marshall Field press, the Time, Life, Fortune axis, and various Communist front organizations.

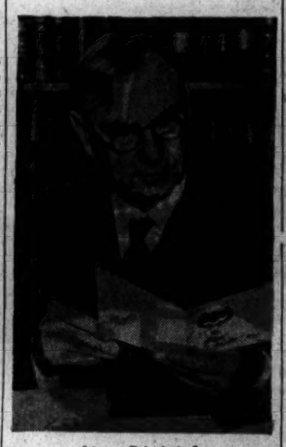
Chief Justice Is 72



[Acme Telephoto.]

Chief Justice Stone reading one of the many birthday greetings sent him yesterday.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, presiding over a tribunal now tackling the first work of a potentially complicated new term, became 72 years old today. His schedule called for spending the day on the bench and in conferences with his Supreme court colleagues. Indications are that he expected to serve indefinitely as head of the tribunal altho he has been eligible to retire, at full pay of $20,500 annually, since Oct. 11, 1942. He returned recently from his Maine vacation sun tanned and appearing to be in good health. Stone was appointed an associate justice by President Coolidge and was named chief justice by President Roosevelt in June, 1941.

LEAVES TO RAISE BABIES ASSAILED BY NANCY ASTOR

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP).—Virginia born Nancy Astor, member of parliament for Plymouth, said today that a good soldier doesn't want to go home until the war is over—even for the purpose of raising babies.

Childless husbands who have served long terms with the British army in the middle east were recently reported to have flooded the compassionate leave committee with applications to return home to start families before their wives became too old to bear children.

"I have never heard of a good soldier wanting to return home to start a family—they realize the war is not over yet," she said. "Such requests would necessitate an involved investigation of wife and husband and much meddling into private affairs."

CUT AND ROBBED IN HALLWAY.

Carl Kuh, a driver for the Quality Laundry at 448 W. 58th st., reported to police yesterday that two Negroes, one of whom cut him superficially in the side with a knife, robbed him of $7 in the hallway at 5958 Calumet av.

DEFENSE PLEADS 9½ HOURS FOR MRS. ANDREWS

Salinas, Cal., Oct. 11 (AP).—The defense completed its arguments in behalf of Mrs. Frances Andrews late today, declaring that conviction of the society woman for the alleged murder of 19 year old Jay Lovett "would be a blot on the judicial record" of Monterey county.

Court adjourned until Friday when the prosecution presents its rebuttal.

Defense Atty. Leo Friedman pleaded nine and one-half hours for the acquittal of Mrs. Andrews, whom he said the state had failed to "even connect" with the shooting of Lovett.

Lovett, farm neighbor of Mrs. Andrews, was found shot to death with her pistol not far from her home the night of last July 15. The prosecution sought to prove the oil heiress killed him thru jealousy because of the youth's asserted attentions toward another Carmel Valley woman.

HEIRESS RENEWS LEGAL FIGHT TO DIVORCE WELLS

The divorce dispute centering around Mrs. Lele Daly Wells of New York, heiress to a 7 million dollar fortune, took a turn in her favor yesterday in a hearing before Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court.

In August, 1943, she obtained a divorce before Judge Lewe from her fourth husband, Roe E. Wells, 56, charging that he struck her in her apartment at 211 E. Delaware pl., In October, 1943, however, Judge Lewe set the decree aside on the ground of fraud, the specific charge being that she did not occupy the Delaware pl. apartment. In May, 1944, the appellate court reversed Judge Lewe's action on a technicality.

Yesterday Joseph P. Burke, an assistant state's attorney, who investigated the case, submitted a deposition made by Mrs. Wells in New York. In it, she reiterated that she had occupied the Delaware pl. apartment, but explained that the alleged cruelty occurred elsewhere in Chicago. Burke said this testimony might confirm the validity of her decree. Judge Lewe will hear the case further tomorrow.

$500 IN CHECKS DISAPPEAR.

Michael Slicht, 6801 Wayne av., manager of the Midwest Athletic club, 6 N. Hamlin av., reported to police yesterday that $500 in checks disappeared from the club desk.

POLICE SHAKE A LEG AND FIND MISSING MONEY

William Callahan, 45, a bartender, had only one leg to stand on when Mrs. Margaret Nielsen, his employer in a tavern at 5422 North av. accused him of taking her purse containing $200 from a shelf behind the bar.

Policeman Ray Brewer, who was called by Mrs. Nielsen, searched Callahan's other leg, his wooden one, and found holes in it. The holes were filled with money, Brewer told Judge John Gutknecht yesterday in Felony court.

Callahan, who lives at 1728 N. Lotus av., was bound over to the grand jury on a larceny charge, but was released when the jury refused to return an indictment.

Bank of Italy Head Loses Plea for Delay in Trial

ROME, Oct. 11 (AP).—The court trying the former governor of the Bank of Italy, Vincenzo Azzolini, for his life rejected today his plea to postpone the case on the grounds that key witnesses in north Italy are unavailable. The session was then adjourned until summations are heard tomorrow. Azzolini is accused of turning over 120 tons of gold reserve to the Nazis.

Dorothy Kilgallen
AND A COLUMN OF COMPLIMENTS FOR October Cosmopolitan!

Edna Ferber's "Great Son" is a novel as majestic as its setting—Seattle. Here's a probable best-seller-to-be that rates with "So Big," "Show Boat" and "Cimarron"!

Felicia Gizycka's "The White Dress" is the young-modern sort of short story so many Cosmopolitan readers buy the magazine for! It's on page 38.

Robot bombs—what's it like to be in their range? Paul Gallico's first piece as Cosmopolitan's European Editor gives you a vivid, eye and "ear-witness" picture.

Voice of BROADWAY
By Dorothy Kilgallen

According to legend, a Broadway columnist pursues the one-line scoop from dusk until dawn through the myriad glitter-cellars of Gotham, never pausing until it is breakfast time at Lindy's and the hot gossip has gone to press. This is (sorry to disillusion you) not always true. Sometimes I flee the velvet embrace of the bistros and allow as many as twelve hours to go by in which I am not seen at the Stork Club. I just go home and curl up with an apple and a good book.

The good book is Cosmopolitan.

The October issue is at hand at this moment; so is a fine glow of enjoyment. What a treasure of pages! What a Flying Carpet of escape! What a lovely way to spend an evening!

There on page 23 is the name of Edna Ferber—a name I can never skip. Ferber is such a spell-binder; she spins her tales in words that are strong and tender, she knows how to shout the lusty panorama of a great city or whisper the small things of the heart. This time she has tackled a giant of a man and a giant of a town in "Great Son", and if there were nothing more than the first part of this novel in the October issue of Cosmopolitan, it would still be double your money's worth.

But there's a lot more, of course—you know Cosmopolitan and those open-handed editors! They have provided Grade A glamour with Felicia Gizycka's "The White Dress" and realism to break your heart in "Probe" by Walt Grove. They have tossed in a short story by Louis Bromfield, "The End of The Road." They have opened the top drawer of the file marked "Fiction" and come up with Sophie Kerr's touching story of bravery and faith, "Ellen And Steve Forever."

• • • •

Cosmopolitan further spoils us with more Paul Gallico—not only the final installment of his exciting "Who Killed My Buddy?", but his first article from the war zones as Cosmopolitan's European Editor, "The Canopy of Fear." This may be going too far with editorial generosity, for if a future issue arrives with only one Gallico piece, we will toss it into the corner and pout.

Harry D. Brundidge, that demon reporter, always astonishes me with the scope and detail of his findings, and I long to interview him on how he got his fascinating facts. This time his subject is "Oil and Our Secret Diplomacy"—a staggering project which Harry makes as readable as a description of a pin-up girl. And there's a highly provocative piece on an erstwhile good neighbor called "Argentina—Springboard for World War III."

• • • •

But let my confessional proceed rapidly, for there is much to tell. I neglected the haunts of the mazda set because I could not resist Frazier Hunt's article on the Japs any more than I could pass up the Cosmopolitan Family Quiz page.

I stayed away from Shubert Alley because I couldn't wait any longer to read the second of Faith Baldwin's "Southwest Symphony" series of novelettes. And I did so want to learn what a woman does when she is empowered to start pushing around furniture in the formidable Executive Mansion at Albany—and Sophie Kerr told me, in her Cosmopolite on Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey.

I played hookey from the Boulevard of Broken Dreams because when Eleanor Mercein titles a story "Blue-flowered Mousseline" she's got a customer—namely, me.

• • • •

And so, friends, we leave our beautiful October copy of Cosmopolitan and wend our way back to the workaday world of Broadway—regretfully, but happy in the knowledge that among the still untouched treasures, held in escrow for another evening at home are Paul MacNamara's "I'll Meet You at —" and a preview of H. Allen Smith's side-splitter, "Lost In The Horse Latitudes". Aloha!

"Argentina—Springboard for World War III," is some of the year's most important reading. We've already lost the first battle!

Faith Baldwin's second novelette in her new and entrancing "Southwest Symphony" series—on page 40—is a real Baldwin-ner! Read "This Obligation" for a real thrill.

"Lost in the Horse Latitudes" is, oddly enough, a memoir of Hollywood and the interesting people who work there. A preview, page 49, of the funniest book yet by that very funnyman, H. Allen Smith.

COAST GUARD BOATS SHOW HOW TO DOUSE A WATERFRONT FIRE

Rear Adm. Park.

United States Coast Guard fireboats on the Chicago river pumped almost 6,000 gallons of water a minute into the air near the Michigan av. bridge yesterday noon in a mock waterfront fire fighting demonstration. The "alarm" was sounded by a 38 foot patrol craft and two fireboats sped to the scene. Crew members wearing asbestos suits and oxygen masks hauled lines to the fire on the south bank of the river.

The demonstration was arranged as a feature of Coast Guard day of National Fire Prevention week. It was witnessed by Rear Adm. Charles A. Park, chief operations officer of the Coast Guard; Comdr. P. G. Pettersen, commanding officer of the Chicago operating base, and Fire Commissioner Corrigan.

Adm. Park later presented the Coast Guard security shield to the Chicago fire department and the Underwriters' Grain association for their assistance in protecting shipping facilities in the port of Chicago. The awards were presented at the city hall to Mayor Kelly and to Charles E. Harbin, who represented the underwriters.

PLANT REOPENS; ONLY SIXTH OF OLD HANDS BACK

Sterling, Ill., Oct. 11 (Special).—The hardware manufacturing factory of Lawrence Brothers, Inc., was open again today after being closed since the CIO Steelworkers union won a plant election last Aug. 29, but less than 50 of the firm's 300 former employes showed up to go to work, company officials said.

A company spokesman said officials will probably not know for several days whether enough of the old force can be reassembled to enable the company to begin manufacturing civilian goods.

About 20 persons appeared at the plant this morning, it was said, and during the day from 20 to 30 more reported they were ready to go to work. Most of these were girls and office employes, however, and only "a very small number" were experienced machinists.

When the plant was closed last August, E. F. Lawrence Jr., president, said the closing had no connection with the union victory in the plant election. He said the company had completed its war contracts and that he was suspending operations until after the war because it was too risky to attempt to do business under burocratic controls. The union filed lockout charges with the national labor relations board.

PETRILLO GOES ON RECORD: 'WLB IS ANTI-LABOR'

James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians [AFL], who has said no to President Roosevelt's request asking him to permit union musicians to make commercial phonograph records, denounced the war labor board yesterday as an "anti-labor" government bureau.

"If labor had been on its toes it would have yanked its members out of the WLB long ago, because the WLB is not doing labor any good," he said. Petrillo spoke as he prepared to return to New York after a two day meeting with his union executive board in Chicago.

Petrillo defied a war labor board decree issued several months ago that attempted to make him lift a ban against the production of phonograph records by union musicians. The production was halted on Aug. 1, 1942.

Asked to Obey Order.

The WLB, which has no enforcement powers, referred Petrillo's defiance to President Roosevelt, who asked the record czar to obey the WLB order "in the interest of orderly government." Petrillo sent his refusal to the President on Tuesday.

RCA-Victor and the Columbia Recording company have refused to sign contracts stipulating payment of royalties to the union, but Petrillo said 105 other manufacturing companies have signed. Petrillo said the union permits all companies to make records for the government, and that the ban on recordings for commercial use does not involve war work.

"The WLB never should have referred this case to the President," he said. "It just put the President on a spot."

He's for the President.

He said he has not made a "deal" to back down to President Roosevelt shortly before the election to give the President a "triumph" over a recalcitrant labor leader. "I haven't seen the President since December, 1942," he said, "but I'm for him."

Petrillo's "anti-labor" charge against the WLB was supported recently in an address by Wayne L. Morse of Portland, Ore., former public member of the board, who now is Republican nominee for senator.

"I dissented in a number of cases during my two years on the board because the majority decisions too often were political and not on merits," Morse said.

Sees Great Damage Done.

"Great and unjustifiable damage was done to railroad labor because of lack of judicial approach to its war time problems," he said. "The railroad unions did not want to strike. They were forced to take the steps they did to force a final determination. In the West Coast Aircraft case the opinion had been written before the board even considered the case. The United Mine Workers coal case is one of the several important ones that was snagged by political involvements traceable to the war labor board.

"Gov. Dewey was right when he said that politics entered into war labor board decisions. He is correct in charging that jurisdictional disputes among the score of federal agencies which have authority over war time labor troubles have been costly to labor."

ROCKETS TOSSED INTO LAKE ERIE TO TEST TUBES

Erie Proving Grounds, O., Oct. 11 (AP).—This war laboratory is tossing rockets into Lake Erie to test launching tubes for use on American rocket planes.

"The war department has announced that rocket projectiles, launchers, and propellents are being produced in scores of war plants thruout the nation, and that these weapons have been putting a dent in the Japs in Burma and other places," said an army statement disclosing that tests have been under way here for several months.

"The army air forces now has five different types of planes equipped with rockets slung under wing racks, which permit fighter, light bomber, or attack planes to hurl greater concentrations of fire than their own cannon and machine guns can deliver," an Erie proving ground spokesman said today.

M'CAHEY VIEWS N. E. A.'S SCHOOL QUIZ AS POLITICS

James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education, declined yesterday to make a formal statement concerning an announcement Tuesday in Washington, D. C., that the National Educational association will investigate "treatment of teachers" in Chicago schools. He said he would not dignify the N. E. A. proposal by an answer, but he let slip a remark that it appeared to be a political maneuver.

The probe was ordered, it was learned, on information gathered on a short visit here last summer by Donald Du Shane, who will conduct the inquiry. Du Shane was said to have obtained promises from several teachers and others that they would testify. Dr. John J. DeBoer, whose summary transfer from Chicago Teachers college to Herzl Junior college last spring brought protests, is one of those likely to testify.

The board of education held a regular meeting yesterday, but there was no mention of the N. E. A. probe or of the recent school transfer ban controversy. Afterward the board, as a committee of the whole, heard testimony on charges that Edward H. Phelan Jr., a former truant officer, falsified reports last year. Phelan denied the charges. The board took the testimony under advisement.

RINGS, GUN, AND $283 STOLEN.

Mrs. Joseph Bulin, 3329 W. 38th pl., reported to police yesterday that $283, two rings valued at $120, and a revolver were stolen from her home.

CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, 22 ★★★★ Thurs., Oct. 12, 1944.

MACFARLANE'S RISE IS CALLED TYPICAL OF U. S.

Leaders Fill the Chapel to Hear Pastor's Eulogy.

W. E. Macfarlane, late business manager of THE TRIBUNE, was eulogized at funeral services yesterday as a man who thru ability, character, and determination rose from the bottom of the ladder to the top rung in the American way.

"Great men—like this man—are the unique products of the free community," said the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness, pastor of the Winnetka Congregational church, in services conducted at the Rosehill cemetery chapel. "We shall have no more men like this man unless we battle for a free community."

Leaders Fill Chapel.

Civic and business leaders of the community filled the chapel to overflowing. Nearly 200 persons were unable to gain admittance.

Mr. Macfarlane, who died Monday of a heart attack, had served THE TRIBUNE for nearly 38 years. He was also vice president of W-G-N, had been the first president of the Mutual Broadcasting system and was chairman of its executive committee at the time of his death. He was a director of the American Newspaper Publishers association.

Out of Town Persons Attend.

Among those who came from a distance to attend the funeral were Linwood I. Noyes, publisher of the Ironwood [Mich.] Globe and president of the American Newspaper Publishers association; Roy C. Holliss, general manager of the New York Daily News, and Mrs. Holliss of New York; Miller McClintock, president, and Alfred J. McCosker, chairman of the board of Mutual, New York; Lewis Allen Weiss, executive vice president of Mutual, of Los Angeles; H. K. Carpenter, director of Mutual, Cleveland, and Arthur A. Schmon, president of the Ontario Paper company, St. Catherine's, Ont.

AWAIT DECISION ON SUIT TESTING WHEELER'S WILL

Circuit Judge Ralph J. Day in Waukegan yesterday took under advisement the evidence presented by the two sons of the late Leslie Wheeler, manufacturer and sportsman, in their friendly suit to test the will of their father which left his $1,450,000 estate in trust to their mother, Mrs. Violet Patton Prentice. Under the will, all the income from the estate is to go to Mrs. Prentice to be held in trust for the sons 21 years.

The two, Lt. Leslie Wheeler, a navy submarine commander, and Henry P. of the marines—both on duty in the Pacific—brought out thru their attorneys in yesterday's hearing that their mother is independently wealthy and has touched none of the income from the estate since her husband's death in 1937. They ask that the mother be allowed to pass on at least a portion of the income to them.

Attorneys Harry S. Ditchburne and John Letsinger represented the sons and Walter B. Wolf appeared for Mrs. Prentice, who is not opposing the son's action. Judge Day gave no indication when he would rule.

Unidentified Woman Dies When Hit by I. C. Train

An unidentified woman about 40 years old was killed yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a south bound Kensington train on the Illinois Central tracks a short distance south of 48th st. J. H. Siglinger, motorman, told police the woman, whom he observed walking beside the track, appeared to jump in front of the train when it was almost upon her. Her purse contained $2, but no means of identification. She was wearing a topcoat over a black and yellow print dress.

IOWA PILOT DIES AS CRASH KILLS 7 ON TRANSPORT

San Rafael, Oct. 11 (AP).—Seven men were killed in the crash of a twin engine army transport yesterday in San Pablo bay, Hamilton Field officials announced. Three bodies have been recovered, but search is continuing for four, including that of Capt. Kendall W. Sheppard, 25, 316 N. Lafayette st., Corydon, Ia., the pilot.

Glider Crash Kills Four.

Malden Field, Mo., Oct. 11 (AP).—Four army officers were killed when two gliders collided last night on a training flight, the public relations office announced. Those killed included 2d Lt. Kenneth C. Kreutner, Story City, Ia.

Two Die in Runway Collision.

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 11 [Special].—Two men were killed today when two planes collided on a runway at the Sioux City army air base.

One of the dead was Corp. Ronald G. Fields; wife, Mrs. Marion Fields, 726 N. Grove av., Elgin, Ill.

FATHER IS CONDUCTOR.

Corp. Ronald G. Fields, 24, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Fields, 726 N. Grove av., Elgin. His father is a conductor on the C. & E. I. railroad. Corp. Fields' wife, Marion, also lives at the Grove av. address. They have no children.

Corp. Fields was employed as a supervisor in the Elgin Watch company plant at Elgin when he entered the army a year ago last March. He was graduated from Elgin High school and had attended the University of Illinois.

WILLKIE 'COMES HOME' FOR LAST TIME TO INDIANA

Rushville, Ind., Oct. 11 (AP).—Wendell L. Willkie came back, in death, today to the city where he had purchased an old red brick residence with the intention of making it his home upon retiring from public life.

The house had been his campaign headquarters when he was the Republican Presidential nominee four years ago.

More than a hundred friends and neighbors—including three tenants of Willkie's Rush county farms—met the body at Dunreith, Ind., where it was removed from the train that brought it from New York after funeral services yesterday.

A hearse brought the body to a mortuary here and later it will be placed in a crypt to await the return of Willkie's son, Lt. [j. g.] Philip Willkie, from duty on the Atlantic. Mrs. Edith Willkie, the widow, remained in New York to wait for her son.

VOTE TO INDICT FIVE ON WILL CHANGE CHARGE

True bills charging perjury and conspiracy to destroy a will by malicious mischief were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against Harold J. Rosenberg, an attorney with offices at 105 W. Madison st., his wife, Sylvia Grusin Rosenberg, and against Pearl Grusin and Jake Grusin.

The jury's action followed its investigation of charges made by Nathan Grusin, son of the late Michael Grusin, investment banker, that a will executed by his father which left him all the stock in the investment company had been destroyed and another document substituted.

The second will, dividing Grusin's $130,000 estate equally among his three children, Sylvia, Pearl, and Nathan, was admitted to probate last Friday by Judge John F. O'Connell. The elder Grusin died July 7.

GROUP NAMED ON DOG GRANTS FOR EXPERIMENT

Appointment of a committee of seven medical authorities, two officers of animal protection organizations, and a minister to advise Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, in the allocation of dogs from the city dog pound for medical experimentation purposes, was announced yesterday by Dr. Bundesen.

The members include Dr. Ole C. Nelson, medical director of the county hospital; the Rev. Preston Bradley, pastor of the People's church; Mrs. Charles Petkus, vice president of the Illinois Citizens' Animal Welfare league, and Dr. Wesley A. Young of the Anti-Cruelty society.

Medical schools are represented by Dr. R. Wendell Harrison, dean of biological sciences at the University of Chicago; Dr. John J. Sheinin, dean of Chicago Medical school; Dr. S. A. Tarulis, head of the Chicago College of Osteopathy; Dr. Raymond B. Allen, dean of the University of Illinois college of medicine; Dr. Italo Volini, dean of Loyola university school of medicine, and Dr. George Gardner, dean of the Northwestern university medical school.

NURSE BRINGS TWINS TOGETHER AFTER 21 YEARS

Tireless efforts of a Red Cross worker were credited yesterday by Pvt. Edward C. Skinner, a ward boy in Gardiner General hospital, with bringing about a reunion between him and his twin sister, Miss Virginia Kumbier, 6959 East End av., after a separation of 21 years. Both were put out for adoption by their mother, Mrs. Bertha Cucksey, then of Bay City, Mich., when they were 1 year old.

Pvt. Skinner first learned that he was adopted when his foster mother, Mrs. Fred Boucher, of Marshall, Mich., died. He entered the army and legally took the name of Skinner. It was not until Miss Gladys Neuwash, a Red Cross worker at Camp Grant, Ill., took the case that Skinner learned he had a sister.

The twins first met on Labor day in Saginaw, Mich., where Virginia lived. Last week she moved to the Chicago address to be near her brother. Both hope some day to locate their mother and their father, Fred Weiser.

TRUCKS COLLIDE ON ROAD; DRIVER DIES IN FLAMES

William Smeck, 26, of Milwaukee, a driver for the Advance Transportation company of that city, perished yesterday, when his truck caught fire after crashing into the rear of another truck on the Skokie highway four miles northwest of Waukegan. John Hill of 1117 Dickens st., driver of the second truck, was not injured.

Mrs. Antoinette Bladen, 82, of route 2, Tinley Park, was fatally injured at Cicero av. and 150th st. when struck by an automobile driven by Ernest L. Larson, 34, of 16707 Lincoln av., Hazelcrest.

CREMATION LAWFUL, CHURCH OF ENGLAND CONVOCATION AGREES

LONDON, Oct. 11 [Reuter].—The lower house of the convocation of Canterbury [great gathering of the clergy of the churches of England] agreed today that the churches' doctrine of the resurrection of the body did not preclude the practice of cremation.

The house decided that cremation was lawful in connection with Christian burial or disposal in consecrated ground.

Canon Guy Rogers said:

"This clear statement of the bishops will bring relief to the minds of many people, particularly at a time like the present when people are so concerned about what is happening to the bodies of their loved ones, possibly after being blown to pieces by shells or bombs."

QUESTION LOVER AFTER WAITRESS IS FOUND DEAD

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11 (AP).—The body of Mrs. Shirley Ross Kilcrease, 40 year old waitress, was found today in an areaway beside her rooming house. Marks on the neck indicated she had been strangled.

Police questioned Frank Kilcrease, 53, a waiter, after finding a pillow slip stained with what appeared to be blood in the room occupied by the couple. He denied any knowledge of the woman's death.

DO WHAT QUINTUPLETS ALWAYS do for CHEST COLDS

To Promptly Relieve Coughing
Make Breathing Easier
Break Up Congestion in Upper Bronchial Tract, Nose, Throat

Ever since they were tiny tots—whenever the Quintuplets catch cold—good old reliable Musterole is immediately rubbed on their chests, throats and backs.

Musterole gives such wonderful prompt relief because it's more than just an ordinary "salve". It's what so many Doctors and Nurses call a modern counter-irritant. Musterole not only relieves coughing, sore throat, tight aching chest muscles due to cold BUT ALSO breaks up congestion in upper bronchial tract, nose and throat. So much easier to apply than a mustard plaster. Just rub it on. "No fuss. No muss with Musterole."

IMMENHAUSEN AND GOVIER IN CLERKSHIP RACE

Democrat Has Held Post for Last 12 Years.

[This is the fifth in a series discussing candidates for local offices in the November election.]

BY GUY GENTRY.

In opposition to Sheldon W. Govier, Democratic nominee, who has held the office 12 years, Republicans nominated Herbert G. Immenhausen, former Municipal court judge, for clerk of the 1st district Appellate court.

While this is a state office, the district boundaries coincide with those of Cook county and the clerkship is generally listed with county offices. The clerk is called upon to handle papers and care for records of cases coming before the Appellate court. It is one of the few fee jobs in the state, the clerk's salary and office expense coming from fees paid the court.

Born in Scotland.

Govier is a wiry Scotsman who still bears traces in his spare figure and spry actions of the years when he worked as a brass moulder in the Pullman shops and played on the All-American soccer team that represented the United States in the 1916 Olympic games in Sweden. He was born in Scotland in 1883 and came with his parents to Chicago's south side in 1891, going to work at an early age after his father's death.

When he was 21 years old he joined the 9th ward Democratic organization, was soon given minor political appointments. In 1918 he was elected alderman, a post he held until 1932, when he was elected to his present position. Govier has been ward committeeman since 1926. His career in the city council was a stormy one, punctuated by verbal and physical clashes with his colleagues and with politicians. The last 12 years have been quieter. He is married, has two stepchildren, and resides at 515 W. 107th st.

Returns After 14 Years.

Immenhausen is returning to the political ring after an absence of 14 years. He was swept out of office as Municipal court judge by 2,160 votes in the 1930 Democratic landslide. He had served on the bench since 1924.

He is a native Chicagoan, born in 1885 in the old 24th ward, where he learned his first political lessons from his father, a member of Mayor Busse's organization. He received his law degree from Kent College of Law, and began practice in 1907.

Immenhausen served in the Chicago sanitary district law department five years until elected to the Municipal bench. He presided for 18 months over the Morals court as a result of requests from civic and church groups. In 1941 he was appointed attorney for the receiver of closed state banks in liquidation. He resides at 3516 Greenview av., and has one son, Herbert Jr., serving in the army.

Judge Rejects Evidence Police Got Thru Transom

Evidence garnered by police who peeked thru a transom while standing on a stepladder was rejected yesterday by Judge Jay Schiller in South State Street court, who dismissed gambling charges against three defendants. They were William H. Joseph, 49; Charles Matenha, 44, and Chester H. Musson, 52. Police from the commissioner's office testified they had peered thru a transom at 549 W. Randolph st. and had seen the men busy at phones and writing on pieces of paper.

HUNDREDS FACE OPA CHECK ON SERIES DRIVING

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11 (AP).—Several hundred out of town baseball fans who drove here for the world series may be called on to explain their use of gasoline, OPA officials said today.

Investigators spent considerable time during the series checking automobiles parked around Sportsman's park with license plates showing they were from other states or distant points in Missouri and Illinois. The information will be forwarded to ration boards in areas where cars are registered.

Here's One Roosevelt Who Scoffs at Politics

Boise, Idaho, Oct. 11 (AP).—Gowen field was primed to get the political low down when 2d Lt. Theodore Roosevelt, Elyria, O., arrived, but, he explained, he was named after the late President, was only a sixth cousin of the present President, and: "I have never been to Washington; I'm too young to vote, and I'm not interested in politics."

ACQUIT MOTHER OF 2 IN MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

Media, Pa., Oct. 11 (AP).—A Delaware county court jury acquitted Mrs. Ann Mary Laughead, 22 year old mother of two, of murder today in the stabbing of her husband, Robbert, 25, in their home Aug. 2.

Altho acquitted of the murder charge, Mrs. Laughead still faces a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Earlier she had testified the killing was accidental, and that Laughead died after he "taunted me."

A statement attributed to Mrs. Laughead, read in court yesterday, said she stabbed her husband in the chest with a commando knife after he struck her in the face.

STUDY HARD, BEULAH—BORDEN COWS HAVE TO BE PERFECT!

© Borden Co.

"After all," says Elsie, "Borden's does everything that can be done to make us perfect.

"The farms and barns where we live are absolutely spic and span. Borden inspectors keep a constant check on them, you see. Even our diets are Borden-specified to keep us hale and healthy. It's all part of Borden's Quality Control. And as for that, ladies . . .

"Quality control is the reason folks buy Borden's Milk with so much confidence. It's Borden's way of making sure you get the purest and finest quality, the smoothest and richest taste, whenever you buy Borden's Milk.

"And watching over Borden Cows—understanding their every need and whim—is only the start of Quality Control. Every drop of this wonderful milk is carefully supervised every step of the way from Borden farms to your kitchen. And it's tested constantly in the world's biggest, finest dairy research laboratories.

"That's what makes Borden's Milk always good and pure and wholesome. That's what folks mean when they say: 'if it's Borden's, it's got to be good!'"

If it's BORDEN'S—it's got to be good!

Parents Often to Blame for Child's Faults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The Jones family [we'll call them] live in one house on the block and the Brown family [we'll call them] live in another. There are four children, two boys and two girls, in each home. But what a difference in the management of those children!

Mrs. Jones always blames her boys and girls for her failure to gain their obedience and coöperation. Friction reigns supreme there, and even the neighborhood is well aware with whom the trouble lies. On the other hand, Mrs. Brown considers herself derelict when her children fail to measure up to expectations, and when it is serious enough she soberly analyzes each situation and attempts to rectify the error if it is hers.

When your children have been especially reprehensible; when they've been chronically disobedient, or impervious to your wishes and directions; when they consistently do things they shouldn't do and don't do things they should, look to yourself first for blame before you come down too hard on them.

If, periodically, you get disgusted with the children's table manners, thinking for a minute will perhaps make you realize that it may be because you've been lax about insisting upon them at every meal. If you get frantic because they dawdle so over getting ready for school, it's probably because you've been jogging them and reminding them constantly, instead of putting them "on their own." If they grumble over chores or helping about the house, it's probably because you haven't put it to them in the right way.

Sometimes it's a little painful to be honest with yourself, but in the last analysis, as does Mrs. Brown, you'd rather think you had slipped up on your job than to think, as does Mrs. Jones, that your children are to blame.

Miss Marilynn Dinegar.

Miss Marilynn Dinegar, whose engagement to Sgt. Jurgen Petersen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Petersen of Evanston, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Dinegar of Washington, D. C. Miss Dinegar attended St. Agnes' school in Albany, N. Y., and George Washington university, and also studied abroad. Her fiance, who attended St. Mary's college in Minnesota and the University of Notre Dame, served in the South Pacific for 28 months.

Medic Explains Limit of Help for Deafened

Medical science has nothing it can offer except from a rehabilitation point of view to the many nerve deafened young people expected to lose their hearing as a result of the war, Dr. M. H. Lurie of Harvard university medical school told members of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology in a scientific paper released for publication by the organization's public relations secretary yesterday. Nerve deafness is loss of hearing caused by damage to the auditory nerve.

The academy is holding its 49th annual meeting in the Palmer House. Sessions of the five day gathering, which concludes today, are being attended by 1,800 eye, ear, nose, and throat specialists from all parts of the United States, Canada, and from Central and South American countries.

Dr. Lurie, who characterized as a "delusion" the use of vitamins as a cure for nerve deafness, said that in his opinion the only treatment for the affliction is to keep the victim's health up to a maximum level, help him with a hearing aid, "reëducate his ears, and stress lip reading for those young enough to take it up."

"We as otologists have nothing we can offer them medically except from a physiological, rehabilitation point of view," he said. He said he knew of no drugs that could cure nerve deafness.

"I present this pessimistic viewpoint on purpose," he added, "because in the next five to 10 years we will have many nerve deafened young people as the result of the war. Criticism of the handling and treatment of these patients will certainly increase as time goes on. There will be enthusiastic advocates for various treatments for the use of special drugs. Many will complain that nothing is being done to help the deaf. The truth is, a great deal will be done for the deaf, but not by the otologist [ear specialist]. The psychologist, the teacher of lip reading, and the physiotherapist, reëducating the hearing of the deaf, will play the greater role in the handling of these cases."

In two years of research on colds among 5,500 employees in the Chicago and New Brunswick, N. J., plants of Johnson & Johnson, manufacturers of surgical supplies, Dr. Joseph M. Kier of the latter city said he found the ailment more common here than in New Jersey, but added that Chicagoans seem to take better care of themselves and hence lose less time from work.

Dr. Frank E. Brawley, an eye specialist of 30 N. Michigan av., was among the eight members given the coveted gold key of the academy's honor society for distinguished work in his field.

Mrs. Roosevelt 60; Her Vitality 'a Gift of God,' She Says

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—On her 60th birthday, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today called her vitality "a gift of God" and outlined a simple prescription for maintaining it.

Mrs. Roosevelt on her 60th birthday.

The woman who earlier this year said she would "adore being 60" said she makes no special effort to keep fit for her demanding routine.

"I take the sort of setting up exercises in the morning that almost every one does. I eat breakfast. I do the things that need doing during the day. And I go to bed at night," she said with a laugh at her news conference. She added that she got little exercise when in town but managed much more in the country—Hyde Park, where she swims, bicycles, and walks considerably. She used to ride horseback.

Looking at Hollywood

—By Hedda Hopper—

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 11.—Sidney Franklin is so excited over Sidney Kingsley's original story, "The Homecoming of Ulysses"—it may be his next production. It's ideal for Clark Gable, and besides a big male star, needs top women; well, Metro's got 'em. . . . Lt. Comdr. Bob Montgomery stars in "They Were Expendable." Lt. Comdr. John Ford undoubtedly will direct it. But he'll be on leave from the navy and not on the inactive list. . . . Wesley Ruggles failed to get Irving Berlin to write eight songs needed for his first picture, "London Town." He's huddling with a couple of California song writers today, and if he can't tie them up he may wait until he returns to London and get a British writer. . . . Fulton Lewis Jr. stopped here only 24 hours, but O, boy! The things he learned!

She Made a False Start.

Harry Sherman's daughter, Teddi, in New York looking for a job as a model, dressed to the teeth in mink coat, diamond bracelets, clips. When an agency man looked her over he asked who had given her all the jewelry. She replied, "My daddy." Interview ended there. He said she didn't need a job. He thought she meant a sugar daddy. Now she tells Daddy Sherman she'll try for the stage. . . . Stop the presses! It's come to light that George Raft's shadow, "Killer" Gray, never—but never—wears ready made shoes. Even during war they have to be made to order. . . . Lucille Ball loses "Yolanda and The Thief" for "Without Love." Keenan Wynn also is in the latter picture. . . . Since Howard Hughes sold the furnishings of his house, the house will be put up for sale. He's certainly getting things shipshape, preparatory to going overseas to make arrangements for commercial aviation.

Keenan Wynn.

Lucille Ball.

Moss Has Done It Again.

Moss Hart put the heart throb in "Winged Victory"—a cavalcade of a flyer's life from G. I. to fadeout. He made you see so clearly how one boy's life affects and touches so many others—the waiting wives, praying mothers, the doctors. As he says, "If this war doesn't bring forth a better world, then all this youth has died in vain." I remember what a flyer said to me the other day after listening to some circus campaign oratory. He quipped: "A plague on both their houses. Unless they bring some sense into the White House this time, when war's over, the returning soldiers will form a party of their own. We've earned the right to assume leadership." . . . Stanley Barbee got his plays slightly mixed. After sitting thru an act of "Goodnight, Ladies" he came out into the lobby and asked a friend, "When do the soldiers come on?" Soldiers?" "Yes," said Stanley, "isn't this 'Winged Victory'?" And that's why he saw only the second half of the latter play.

Why Not? It Sounds Great.

The story that Elsie Janis and Buddy De Sylva were working together on a musical was premature. When Elsie read it, she wrote Buddy this note: "We are said to be huddling. At least, that should have gotten top billing." She hasn't heard from him, but it's a swell idea. . . . Walter Colmes and Marjorie Manners are honeymooning in Palm Springs. Walter, bless him, used to be a leg man for me, then became a producer. Yes, these things happen in Hollywood. . . . Mrs. Leigh Battson, who flew to Honolulu with Marion Bren for naval aid, met up with two grandchildren whom she'd never seen. One is aged three years. Her son, Larry Doheny, in submarine service, was stationed there before Pearl Harbor. She's hoping to get a look at him while she's there. . . . Irene Manning, before going overseas to entertain, was robbed of $1,000 worth of jewelry. The thief threw a shovel thru her hotel bedroom window, came in, and looted the place.

Bits and Pieces.

Julian B. Tuthill of Hartford bought the Brewery Gulch Gazette when he was in Arizona. He'll use only the name for a national weekly. Tuthill wanted a famous old western title. His choice narrowed down to two—the Brewery Gulch Gazette and Tombstone Epitaph. But he thought the latter too gruesome. . . . Ella Raines still is not strong, even tho she's gone back to work. She had to leave the "Winged Victory" set after the first act. . . . John Hodiak's parents have arrived from Detroit. They'll make their home with him. . . . George Hurrell will be making baby pictures in March. His Missus was Phyllis Horay. . . . Now Jean Negulesco, director and amateur chef, plans opening a Sunset strip cafe, with Georges Metaxa greeting guests at the door. . . . Comedian Jack Douglas, who raised pigs, has changed to turkeys. "In my barnstorming days I played in enough of 'em to feel an authority on the subject," says he.

Thru the Looking Glass

Three new "jewels" for fingertips, or three new shades of nail polish if you prefer to be literal, have made their debut in town and we can confirm the fact that each one is a real beauty. The trio consists of "pink sapphire," a dazzling, live pink shade; "oriental sapphire," a lovely, clear red, and "black sapphire," a deceivingly black looking lacquer that turns out to be a rich, blue-red color on the nails.

The pink tint blends beautifully with costume shades of pink and purple and the deep, blue-red tint of the black sapphire will appeal to women who like a dramatic, striking coat of lacquer on their nails.

Our own favorite is the oriental sapphire. It's a full, warm red, extremely wearable and appealing to the busy woman who hasn't time to change nail polish frequently to blend with her outfits. While it is a true red, the color has enough depth to keep it from being offensively blatant. We like it, too, because it's the sort of shade that makes hand skin seem whiter and gives a nice illusion of slender length to the fingers.

As for the quality of the polish, it has proved itself durable, standing up well under the normal wear and tear a woman's hands take, whether she does office work or housework. It boasts a shiny brilliance that lasts as long as the coating without losing its initial luster and gloss. Two coats of polish and a shield of protective lacquer result in the prettiest and longest lasting dress for the nails any woman could want.

To blend with the three sapphire shades of nail enamel, the manufacturers have made lipsticks in harmonizing tints. When you're shopping for the polish, take a look at the lipsticks. We think you'll like the colors, the trick and efficient little cases, and we can vouch for the creamy texture and long lasting quality of the lipsticks themselves.

Chekhov Novel Given Worthy Film Treatment

"SUMMER STORM."

A United Artists picture, directed by Douglas Sirk, starring George Sanders and Linda Darnell, with Anna Lee, Edward Everett Horton, and Hugo Haas, and presented at the Garrick.

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Heralded by lurid and sexy publicity, "Summer Storm" turns out to be a worthy and entirely serious transcription of an early and little known novel, "The Shooting Party," by Anton Chekhov. The book was a pot boiler, written at a time when the author was hard pressed to support his family by his literary efforts and, except for its profound understanding of the Russian character, is quite untypical of the mature master of understatement and the elusive poet of frustration.

In the main the producers have followed Chekhov's outline faithfully, retaining its spirit, at least, even when dramatic necessity, or whatever it is moves the makers of movies to alterations of original plots, demanded revision of details.

The sordid tale concerns Olga, daughter of the forester on the estate of the licentious Count Volsky, who has been forced by her father to marry a middle aged peasant. In the novel Olga becomes not only the mistress of the count but also of his friend, the village magistrate, Fedor Petroff, whom she loves passionately. The picture has toned down this promiscuity to an affair with Petroff alone, and the magistrate has been given another lady love further to complicate matters.

Matters come to a head during a shooting party, when Olga's husband finds her stabbed body in the woods. Olga refuses, before she dies, to reveal that her assailant was the jealous Petroff. Urbennin, the deceived husband, is accused and convicted of the crime, while the magistrate, who assists in the prosecution, remains silent. In the picture Petroff is brought to belated justice. In the novel, a typically Chekhovian ending leaves him the victim of conscience alone.

As indicated, the production is on the credit side. Linda Darnell, suggestive of the young Hedy Lamarr, is beautiful, but still in the apprentice stage of acting. George Sanders, if not quite the sensuous hedonist of the novel, turns in a sound performance, and Hugo Haas is a perfect cuckold husband. The photography is not invariably of the best, and the services of a diction expert could have been used to profit in numerous scenes.

Education of People Essential for Peace, Jewish Women Told

Education of the people, which too often is taken for granted, is one of the most important essentials in a pattern for a sustained peace. This was the assertion yesterday of Mrs. Joseph M. Welt, president of the National Council of Jewish Women, who came from her home in Detroit, Mich., to speak at the opening fall meeting of Chicago section of the council at 185 N. Wabash av. Presidents of leading Jewish and non-Jewish clubs of the city were invited to hear Mrs. Welt.

The Jewish women's council proposes to educate its members intelligently for a lasting peace thru its committees on legislation, international relations and peace, and contemporary Jewish affairs, she explained.

Mrs. Welt paid tribute to Hannah Greenebaum Solomon, founder of the 50 year old council, who died last year. The council membership totals 65,000.

Blind Woman's Radio Stolen; Another Sought

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

It is difficult to imagine how any one could be so heartless as to steal from a blind person, but such a theft, which occurred recently, has increased the helplessness of an elderly woman already seriously handicapped. We are printing the following appeal from a clergyman in the hope our readers can assist in this case:

"I wonder if you could help an elderly blind woman, Mrs. B. Some time ago someone stole a small radio on which she depended for her entertainment, information, and even the time of day. Friends and neighbors have made many efforts to obtain a small radio to replace hers, but in vain. We would appreciate your assistance for this deserving case."

Further information will be provided upon request.

Mrs. G. has returned from the hospital with a baby, two weeks old. There are several other children in the family. Only the front part of the large apartment in which they live is heated. The father is employed, but the family has had numerous expenses, and he cannot afford to buy a necessary stove. If any reader can provide a garbage burner, the family will be very grateful for it. The address is on the north side of the city.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Mrs. Adah H. Aimee, administrator of the eastern office of the United Service Organization's scrapbook service, said yesterday, when visiting the U. S. O. regional office in Chicago, that this city, one of 700 units in the scrapbook service in the area between the Atlantic coast and the Mississippi river, has contributed 20 per cent of the 100,000 books filled by organizations and distributed to army and navy men.

Chicago and the surrounding area comprise the largest unit in the several hundred under Mrs. Aimee's jurisdiction. The Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, thru its war service committee, headed by Mrs. Charles Stigman, has been the most active single agency in the project.

Chicagoans' books go largely to men on smaller navy craft, on submarines, and in hospitals. Thousands of books originating here soon will go overseas to base hospitals, Mrs. Aimee said.

Letters from men stationed in every theater of operations testify to their pleasure in the books. One American service man reported that an enthusiastic peruser of a book was an Arab, who, altho he couldn't read the English print, liked the "pin-up" pictures.

Proper preparation of the books, following directions listed inside the covers, is important, Mrs. Aimee cautioned. She added that the demand for the books is greater than ever before and that U. S. O. expects requests will continue long after the war.

Mrs. Aimee's son is serving with the army air forces. Her husband is doing civilian work for the navy department. A social worker for many years, she has been directing the scrapbook project for more than a year.

Chicago groups wishing to fill the books are invited to call the regional office, Randolph 9580, room 218, 135 S. La Salle st.

Seventy new WAC recruits left Chicago yesterday for basic training at Fort Des Moines, Ia. Included were Mrs. Jeannette Henrietta, 176 N. Clark st., with two brothers listed in service records as "address unknown" and another a prisoner of the Japs, and Betty Mae Simonson, 4750 Woodlawn av., who has two brothers overseas with the marines and another with the navy at the Great Lakes naval training center.

Headquarters of the 6th service command announces that recruitments in the medical and surgical corps of the WAC have warranted the opening Nov. 10 of two more schools for technicians.

Women who enlist now will be able to complete basic training in time to enroll in the 12 and 16 week medical courses at Fitzsimons General hospital, Denver, Colo., and William Beaumont General hospital, El Paso, Tex. Each school has facilities for 200 WAC students. The Wakeman General hospital school in Atterbury, Ind., is continuing its courses of instruction.

The need for WAC medical and surgical technicians is constantly increasing. Women interested in such army jobs are invited to visit the WAC procurement center, room A-333, 166 W. Van Buren st.

Duck Hunters Eagerly Await Start of Season Saturday

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE coming of crisp fall weather means one important thing to a large group of Chicagoans—the opening of the duck hunting season, which is eight days longer this year than last, opening Saturday and lasting until Jan. 1. So as not to miss a day of shooting, many enthusiastic sportsmen will arrive at the Crane Lake club on the Illinois river tomorrow evening to be ready for an early brace of the water fowl, which, it is reported, are more numerous than they have been for many years.

Early arrivals at their Crane Lake cabins will be John W. Embree, Stuart Hodges, Judge Warren H. Orr, David B. Peck, Robert E. Peacock, and Walter C. Peacock, president of the club, who has been hunting canvasback ducks for the last few weeks at his lodge on Lake Winnipeg in Canada. Others who enjoyed the early Canadian duck season were Sewell Avery, Frederick A. Preston, and Stuart Logan, who were guests of James C. Bell near Delta, Manitoba.

Missing from the Crane Lake club this year will be Edward F. Swift of the navy and Lt. Col. Wallace Orr, who has been serving with the army in the South Pacific for more than two years.

Plans of Other Clubs.

About one-fourth of the members of the Grand Island club have duties in the service which will prevent them from participating in the sport this year, but the remaining hunters will spend every spare moment this fall shooting their quota of mallards and pintails. Planning to journey to the club lodge near Bath, Ill., are Henry N. Rowley, James R. Offield, the club's president; William D. Cox, John B. Drake, Henry C. Bartholomay, John Clay, and John G. Curtis. John Curtis Jr., who has been on boot leave during the last week, will miss the season's opening by just a few days, for he must report back to the Great Lakes naval training center. Many of the town's sportsmen will be the guests of Stuart Logan later in the season at Loganberry lodge, just across the lake from Grand Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, the William E. Clows, and Mr. and Mrs. Huntington B. Henry already have had a week of shooting at the Island club, near Lac du Flambeau, Wis.

The walls of the Wild Wing club, which is a neighbor to the Crane Lake club, will echo with the voices of such marksmen as Charles Fernald, Eugene Peck, Theodore W. Robinson, N. Landon Hoyt, and Alfred Cowles. They are some of the club's 17 members who annually spend a few weeks at the southern Illinois club.

Wedding News.

From Princeton, N. J., comes news of the marriage Sept. 29 of Miss Nancy Anne Nash, formerly of Chicago, and Staff Sgt. E. Phelps Cole Jr. of the army air forces. The wedding, which took place in the Princeton University chapel, culminated a romance which began in India, where the bride spent a year as a staff assistant with the American Red Cross Overseas service.

Young Mrs. Cole, who was graduated from the Girls' Latin school and Smith college, is a daughter of James B. Nash of Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., and the late Mrs. Nash. Following the wedding a small reception was held in the Princeton home of Mr. and Mrs. Webb Harrison [Betty Nash], who lived in Chicago for several years. Another sister of the bride, Mrs. Oliver M. Knode Jr., and Mr. Knode of Longmeadow, Mass., were present at the wedding, at which James Nash Jr. served as best man and 6 year old Carter Harrison as flower girl.

Sgt. Cole is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cole of Lake Charles, La. He attended Southwestern university in Lafayette, La. Mrs. Cole has resigned from the Red Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Channer and members of their family will be in Cedar Rapids, Ia., today for the marriage at 7 o'clock this evening of Mrs. Georganne Dunshee Ristedt to the Channers' son, Lt. Frederick Wyndham Channer. The wedding will take place in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Dunshee. Lt. Channer, who is stationed at Stout field, Indianapolis, with the army air forces, is a graduate of the University of Chicago, and his bride attended the University of Wisconsin.

Yank Names Given to New Paris Fashions

BY ANNE BRUYERE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Clever, lavishly trimmed red, white, and blue gowns as well as sports ensembles bearing such names as Jeeps, Sammy, blackout, and Liberty, are featured among the models of the fall fashion shows now being held in Paris.

Nina Ricci, Jeanne Lanvin, and Maggy Rouff were among the first to open. Each sent out 500 invitations and had record crowds of 2,000 to 3,000 persons. Nina Ricci received so many she had to show her collection three times on the same day. "For the last four years," she said, "our salons have been nearly empty. Parisians just did not feel like dressing up. Thanks to our liberation, every one is buying again."

The most unusual idea in the Ricci collection is the stitching of lace brassieres onto the busts of tight waisted, circular skirted crepe de chine afternoon dresses, which are worn with short boleros of black beaver or gray caracul.

A creation called Gloria which won much applause is a sleeveless, backless dress made of yards and yards of black tulle. It is accompanied by a feathered hat with red, white, and blue plumes hanging to the waist in the back and a muff to match, with the plumes reaching to the knees.

Also in the Ricci collection is a wedding gown of white embroidered satin. It has long, mutton leg sleeves, an empire skirt, and a train. The headdress is of white ostrich plumes, and the veiling is of the same embroidered satin as the gown.

Jeanne Lanvin shows more sports ensembles. She has a brown, beaver trimmed corduroy suit called the jeep. It is belted, smartly tailored, and trimmed with big brass buttons in front. Most of the jackets shown are tunic length. The skirts have a box or kick pleats and reach just below the knees, two inches longer than last year's models.

There are many three piece suits. All the coats are lined with rabbit or beaver for warmth. Beaver also is used to make the bolero of the model called Sammy, a plaid dress worn with a huge muff. Blackout is a black velvet dress suit trimmed with black caracul fur on the big military pockets and cuffs.

For evening wear Mme. Lanvin shows two short velvet capes trimmed with rhinestones. One is worn over a golden lamé gown with a long, full, knife-pleated skirt, and the other is shown with a pink dress made of tulle flounces.

La Marseillaise, a beautifully tailored pair of pajamas, is one of Mme. Lanvin's favorite numbers. The pants are of bright red silk, the knee length coat of blue lamé, and the wide belt of silver spangles.

Furs play an important role in Maggy Rouff's collection. Full length red fox coats are shown with strictly tailored tweed suits. A lynx collar adorns a full, woolen coat with raglan sleeves. Huge Persian lamb or silver fox muffs are shown with dressy gowns. A skunk scarf and muff trim a velvet coat with military shoulders and big pockets. Balls of Persian lamb are clustered on the shoulders and pockets of a black woolen suit.

Shoulders are emphasized by wide, stiffened capes, mutton leg sleeves, and ruffles or epaulettes made of spangles and rhinestones.

Classical velvet princess gowns are also being shown by Maggy Rouff. In addition, there is a black, closely fitting satin evening dress with fine hand made detail work on the wide strap sleeves and long belt.

Engagement Told

Miss Gloria Jean Cook.

Miss Gloria Jean Cook's engagement to Pvt. Joseph Paul Garcea of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Garcea of N. Geneva terr., has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Cook of Chicago. Pvt. Garcea, who is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss., attended the Illinois Institute of Technology. Miss Cook attended St. Scholastica's academy.

Models Drill for St. Luke's Fashion Show

BY HARRIETT PRIBBLE.

Parading about the ballroom of the Casino club yesterday afternoon in the first rehearsal for the St. Luke's Fashion show next Wednesday in the Stevens hotel were a number of experienced amateur mannequins, as well as several who will be making their first appearances on the St. Luke's runway.

Among those receiving their first instructions from Edward Beck in his efforts to put zip and dash into the mannequins' walk and the way in which they show off clothes was Mrs. I. Newton Perry Jr., who arrived Monday from California. Now that Lt. Perry of the army air forces has received his overseas orders, his young wife has come to Chicago for a visit with her mother-in-law, Mrs. Perry Sr., one of St. Luke's ardent supporters.

The young women circling the ballroom floor were delighted by the compliment Mr. Beck paid to them—"You are wonderful"—especially since he is more apt to criticize. His praise undoubtedly is due to the fact that so many of the models have had previous experience in St. Luke's and other fashion shows, and it holds promise to perfect runway manners Wednesday.

At present the St. Luke's committee is combing the field for six young women 5 feet 8 inches tall who wear size 12 dresses to appear in a special feature of the show.

Among the mannequins at the rehearsal were young Mrs. Perry's sister-in-law, Mrs. Edward A. Limberg; Miss Ellen Ryerson, the third of the Joseph T. Ryersons' daughters to appear as a St. Luke's mannequin; Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr., Mrs. William Borland, Miss Alys Faurot, Mrs. Robert G. Walker, Mrs. Joseph Sampsell, Mrs. Bradley Eben, Mrs. Paul Oliver, Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, Mrs. William H. Mitchell Jr., and Miss Jeanette Hurley.

A Hat Designer's Creations Are Full of Style and Guile

BY REA SEEGER.

When a hatmaker refuses to take his pet winter creations more seriously than give them such names as "windbag" or call a new color "promiscuous pink," a tease preview of his collection is bound to cause excitement. For there isn't a hat in it that will not flatter, that will not cause susceptible gentlemen to gaze in wonder and to appreciate that these are hats as hats should be, not nonsensical fluffs of whimsy.

Even the colors are special, this outrageously high pink, delectable pastels and combinations that come out of fragile water colors, or lush hues from colored illustrations of the Edwardian period, when every woman owned and wore a choker of pearls tied with black velvet ribbon, when clinging vine women added frills, ruffles, lace, flowers, bows, and trailing whiffs of veiling and chiffon to their eternal allure.

Walter Florell, designer of these very feminine new hats, captures this manner of guile and charm with a 1944 know-how. Resist his newest creations and you're just not human. See his extraordinary beauties of pristine white ermine, tiny toques trimmed high, with bunches of frail lilies of the valley.

Or see the shallow, wide plateau of mauve tinted felt trimmed with huge winter violets and colored ribbon, or the breath taking Grenadier hats, high and mighty, the altitude achieved with fur marabou or feathers of ostrich. The climax is the fallen muffin hat of pink covered with curls of ostrich which is teamed with a large, flat muff, also of ostrich, each flaunting a huge pink rose in a deft way.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Fame.

Famed for efficiency in fulfilling unusual orders, the white collar girls of Field's personal shopping service are stumped for the moment. They have a request for a Chinese servant to be delivered post haste to a distraught lady in a small New York town.

The Summons.

Perhaps you've heard about the green young long distance operator in Canton, O., who, according to Telephony, found her mind went blank at a crucial moment. Instructed to say to any one talking overtime, "Your five minutes are up—please signal when thru," she became rattled, forgot the phrase, and, to the astonishment of the subscriber, made a stab at it in this manner, "Your time has come."

Opposites.

Probably the Real Word Expert can tell us why we admonish our fidgety and slumping youngsters to: "Sit down and sit up!"

ERSTWHILE W. C. G.

Page Girl.

At times, alone, I speak your name;
I've spoken it aloud,
Yet no one stops to listen
Amid a noon hour crowd.

At times it rises to my lips
As some soft-muted song,
Yet no one stops to harken
Amid a rush hour throng.

Let others call you "Darling,"
Or "Love" or "Dearest Dear,"
My heart is paging you by name—
O, tell me, do you hear?

SALLY.

99½ Per Cent.

So, the junior executive wanted the new girl to take care of his work during his absence? Why? The old timer is just as eager and willing during a chief's absence. But, too often she resists her impulses to go all-out because she has learned from sad experience that what calls for a pat on the back as good effort when she is new, is met with increasing tendency to criticize as she grows more familiar with the work. After the 10th or 12th time the executive is absent he no longer commends her gallant try but magnifies each small mistake. He does not remember that he cannot always go thru a week [or two, or seven, as the case may be] without making a few errors of omission, commission, or judgment.

Yet, when the executive has employed a secretary for a few years he expects her to function 100 per cent—and 100 per cent of the time. When she feels she has done about 99½ per cent, and rates criticism because of the other one-half of 1 per cent, it isn't inspiring. D.

Big City Sight.

At Oak st. and Lake Shore dr. a beautiful black bantam hen with eight little chicks was scratching for food in the parkway, oblivious to pedestrians, automobiles, and the relaxed, nostalgic look of the people who stood watching. Three men carefully picked them up and put them inside a fence.

'The Key'

By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

SYNOPSIS: Michael Harsch, refugee, perfects a dangerous experiment and telephones to Sir George Randal, offering his formula to the war office. Late that night Harsch is found, shot thru the head, in the locked church where he often went to play the organ. Madoc, a fellow scientist with whom Harsch lived, is his sole executor and sole legatee. Madoc is a pacifist. Sir George Randal asks Maj. Garth Albany to investigate. Garth arrives, ostensibly to visit his Aunt Sophy, whose new companion is Medora Brown. He learns that Janice Meade is Madoc's secretary; the new rector has Miss Jones' house; the Misses Doncaster are still at Pennycott, but Mary Anne is now an invalid; Mrs. Mottram, a pretty widow with a daughter, b. is at the Haven; Mr. Everton, who admires the widow, is in Meadowcroft; also that Harsch was in the habit of dropping in to see Medora Brown, a fine musician; and Frederick Bush, verger, was approached by German agents before the war. Awakened about midnight, Garth sees Medora leave the house and return shortly. Next morning on the stairs he finds a sliver of glass. Harsch's body was found by Janice and Bush. When Madoc testifies at the inquest Garth sees glass lodged in his shoe. The four church keys are held by Bush, Mr. Harsch, the rector, and Aunt Sophy, whose key is used by Medora Brown, the organist. At a quarter to 10 Sophy heard the shot. Miss Brown used her key Tuesday morning. Garth knows her key was not in its drawer on Thursday evening. Madoc went out Tuesday evening before 9 and returned at 10 minutes after 10. Mr. Madoc's telephone is a party line, and Mary Anne Doncaster listens in all the time. Bush was at Pennycott Tuesday evening. Young Cyril Bond saw Madoc take a key from Medora Tuesday night. Scotland Yard takes over. Inspector Lamb and Sgt. Abbott interview Miss Brown. Medora refutes Cyril Bond's statement. When Miss Madoc was brushing her brother's suit on Wednesday the key fell out. Madoc admits he was in the Church Cut Tuesday evening and that he got the key from Medora, but he did not go near the church. He returned the key to Medora Thursday night.

INSTALMENT XXII.

ARRESTED.

At 4 o'clock that afternoon Janice came hurrying down the track from Prior's End. She was conscious of the need she had to find Garth.

As she crossed the road she almost ran into Mrs. Mottram, who immediately clutched her and said,

"Darling, how dreadful! Don't tell me it's true! The baker said so, but I can't believe it. Have they really arrested Mr. Madoc?"

"Yes, it's true."

"Darling, how devastating! Of course you mustn't stay there a single moment. You must come to me."

"It's very kind of you, but I couldn't leave Miss Madoc."

"Darling, you must!"

Janice shook her head.

"I can't leave her, Ida. You couldn't yourself, so it's no use asking me. And for goodness sake, don't go about saying Mr. Madoc was peculiar, because he didn't do it."

"Don't you think so?"

"I know he didn't!" Why should he? Mr. Harsch was the one person in this world he never quarreled with. He thought a lot of him—he really cared for him. When you live in the house with people you can't make a mistake about that sort of thing."

Ida Mottram had the happy faculty of always believing what she was told. It made her very popular with men.

"I suppose you do. But, my dear, how devastating if he's innocent—and how dreadful for Miss Madoc! But if he didn't do it, who did? And how are you going to find out? Because of course the police wouldn't have arrested him unless they were quite, quite sure he'd done it, and it would be too, too dreadful if they were to hang him when he was innocent. What can we do to prevent Mr. Madoc being hanged? You're quite, quite sure that he didn't do it? Because, of course, I quite loved Mr. Harsch. He had that sad, noble kind of look like some one in a film." She broke off suddenly and clutched at Janice with the other hand. "Darling, I know—Miss Silver!"

Janice said: "You're pinching me!" And then: "Who is Miss Silver?"

"Darling! She's too marvelous! I can't tell you what she did for me. I daresay you'll think it was only a tiny little thing, but Robin's mother is SO supicious. She never liked his marrying me, you know, and she would never have believed that I hadn't sold it. But I can't tell you about it, because I simply swore to Robin that I would never tell any one—in case of his mother getting to know, you know. Anyhow Miss Silver put it all right in the most marvelous way. And you may say it was only a little thing—only of course not for me—but how I heard about Miss Silver was from a girl who was in a perfectly dreadful murder case, and Miss Silver put it all right and found out who had really done it. So don't you see, you must have her down at once and get poor Mr. Madoc out of prison. I'm so glad I thought about it, and I shall love to see her again. She's just like a governess, you know, only rather an angel. Darling, I really must rush. I'm going to tea with Mr. Everton, and I shall get into dreadful trouble if I'm late. You won't forget, will you—Miss Maud Silver, 15 Montague Mansions. . . . O, yes, London, of course, but I never can remember whether it's S. E. or S. W. But they'll look it up for you at the postoffice—they always do for me."

Janice had rung the bell, when it came over her that it was no good thinking, "I must go to Garth—I must see Garth," because she would simply have to ask for Miss Sophy. And then the door began to move, and there was Garth opening it. She forgot all about everything except how frightfully glad she was to see him, and almost before he had finished saying, "I saw you out of the window," she had her hand on his arm with a quick——

"O, Garth, they've arrested him!"

He took her into the study and shut the door.

"Aunt Sophy has gone to see Miss Mary Anne, but Miss Brown is somewhere about. I don't think we want her in on this."

"O, Garth, he didn't do it—I know he didn't—but they've arrested him."

"I don't see what else they could do. He had Miss Brown's key."

"O, Garth!"

"I'm afraid he did. Look here, this is just for you. There's been something going on between them. The evacuee boy next door saw them meet in the cut. Madoc made a scene about her going to the church to see Harsch, and he took her key and went away with it not more than a quarter of an hour before Aunt Sophy heard the shot. That's why it wasn't in the drawer on Thursday evening. And that's what she was doing in the middle of Thursday night—meeting him again and getting the key back. I don't see what else they could do except arrest him."

"But he didn't do it," said Janice, her eyes wide with horror.

"Didn't he?"

"No."

"Stubborn little thing—aren't you? You always were. Now perhaps you'll tell me why you've got this touching belief in Madoc."

"I've lived in the house with them. He loved Mr. Harsch."

"He loved Medora, and he was jealous of Harsch. I think he shot him. Having that key would make it so awfully easy."

"Not if he hadn't planned it beforehand. Don't you see, if it was murder it must have been planned beforehand. You don't carry pistols about with you all ready and loaded. And that's what I can't believe about Mr. Madoc—he's got a simply frightful temper, and he goes off like a bomb and says the most outrageous things, but he wouldn't plot and plan, and load a pistol, and go out to find some one he was fond of and murder him."

"All right, counsel for the defense, next time I do a crime I'll brief you."

"You're laughing at me! I can imagine him throwing a chair or a flower pot at some one—he did fling a vegetable dish full of burnt porridge out of the window not very long ago—but I just can't see him creeping up behind some one with a pistol."

Garth's brows drew together, whilst his lips still smiled.

And with that the door was pushed open and Miss Brown stood there looking in. Garth swung round, leaning on his hand. She did not speak for a moment, but stood there, those dark eyes of her staring from a colorless face. Then she came in and shut the door behind her.

Garth and Janice got up. It was Miss Brown who spoke.

"What has happened? Tell me!"

"They have arrested Mr. Madoc."

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Bill W., Cedar Rapids, Ia.—Once or twice every winter I give leather upholstery a dressing of 1 part vinegar and 2 parts raw linseed oil. This is good insurance against the effect of indoor heat which can dry out leather.

Mrs. Milton H., Springfield, Ill.—When I want to darken paste wax a little, I work a little burnt umber into it.

Mrs. Harold M., Chicago—If you are closing a summer house until spring and want to make sure chipmunks and squirrels won't gnaw their way into it, scatter moth balls plentifully on all floors, beds, etc.

Mrs. Sam B., Keokuk, Ind.—When I find a screw or a nail which I can't remove from a piece of wood, I drop a little hot paraffin on the nail or screw and it comes out.

Our most interesting letter this week came V-mail from a lieutenant stationed in China.

"We just received a torn and battered newspaper over here in China that has your "Easy way to prepare a war time dish: creamy eggs." [Picture recipe, TRIBUNE, May 3.]

Tired of army food, he writes, the men turned to "creamy eggs," and "we find it so delicious that we serve this dish at least once a day. Not only has it become popular with us Americans, but also the Chinese, our friendly allies, have learned to make this dish and find it delicious. I might add that it has found a permanent place on the menu of the Chinese army. This dish has helped to raise the morale of Americans and Chinese."

Another letter wasn't quite so flattering. It came from an irate woman who thought she should have had a prize for a recipe she sent in. It concluded with "I suppose you have a lot of friends and relatives who get first consideration."

Readers who plan to submit Christmas recipes to the daily prize contest should be sending them soon, so that the contest editor will have plenty of time to select and test the best ones. It might be well to keep in mind the current sugar and butter shortages when sending in recipes of any kind.

If you've had trouble finding some of that nonrationed utility beef in your market, the reason is that the Texas and Oklahoma cattle supply has been exhausted and the beef from the Dakotas, Nevada, and Montana, which usually is on the market by now has been held to get the benefit of freshened grass feed, made possible by late rains.

If you store onions at home you not only assure yourself of an adequate supply for the next few months, but help to relieve commercial storage difficulties. Select good, fully dried onions and keep them in a dry place, as moisture may cause them to sprout. Keep at temperatures as near freezing as possible, from 32 to 55 degrees. And provide for free circulation of air. Spread them out in the storage container.

½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup chopped nutmeats

Melt shortening and chocolate in milk, add sugar and molasses. Add egg and beat well. Sift dry ingredients together and add. Fold in nutmeats and spread in greased, waxed paper lined, 10 inch square pan. Bake about 20 minutes in a moderately slow [325 degrees] oven. Cut in 20 1-inch strips.

Today's Events.

Three hundred workers will be on hand today to staff the 23 different departments at the 27th annual rummage sale of Christ church, Winnetka, to be held from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. in the parish house at 470 Maple av., Winnetka. Mrs. Harve G. Badgerow and Mrs. Guy C. Kiddoo are in charge of the French room, which will offer a number of choice articles, including a mink scarf. Furniture will be sold under Mrs. Austin Jenner and woolens under Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard. Mrs. Donald B. Lourie and Mrs. Russell T. Stern will supervise the sale of treasures. Mrs. Chester W. Cleveland, who served as general chairman of last year's record-breaking sale, which netted $7,500, is president of the woman's guild of the church. Serving with her on the executive committee of the sale are Mrs. D. Bligh Grassett, Mrs. Noble Macfarlane, and Mrs. Erskine Wilder.

The Chicago Committee of the Arden Shore association will meet for luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in the Regency room of the Drake hotel to make final plans for its annual ball Oct. 28 in the Drake.

The South Shore Country club will resume its Thursday lecture series at 8:45 o'clock tonight, when Edward Camenisch, one of the club's members, will show his travel picture, "Bluegrass and Bluebloods of Kentucky," following dinner. Programs also have been planned for Oct. 19 and Oct. 26, and Florence Bourke Ellis again is giving her pre-luncheon Friday book reviews at the club.

Autumn Frock

Buttons on the contrasting shoulders, and more of the contrast color on the hipline pockets set this frock apart from the usual tailored, simple thing. Woolen, velveteen, and crepe, singly or in combination, are autumn fabrics especially smart for this design. Style No. 2533 is designed for sizes 10 to 20. Size 16 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric with ¼ yard contrasting.

Burning Leaves a Hazard of Fire Prevention Week

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

One of the worst fire hazards to be considered by homemakers this Fire Prevention week is that which comes with the leaf-burning season.

The National Safety council warns that when leaves are to be burned a clear space free from grass and underbrush, and at least 50 feet away from all buildings, should be used. A bonfire or grass fire should never be started on a windy day, clothes should be worn which will not ignite easily, children should be kept away from the fire, and water and shovels should be handy in case of an emergency.

New chemicals for fire fighting are promised for after the war, to make post-war homes safer, but in the meantime here are a few hazards to check on in every home right now:

How about the ash can? Ashes should never be put in wooden baskets or barrels, but in covered metal cans. Nor should rubbish piles be allowed to accumulate in cellar or attic.

Matches should be kept in metal containers away from small children, faulty furnace pipes and flues should be repaired at once, worn electric cords and defective appliances should be discarded or repaired, and cigarets should be disposed of carefully. If every one were even a little more careful there wouldn't be a fire every two minutes in this country!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead, seven of clubs.

I think I know how that prophet felt who was without honor in his own country. Not long ago, I meandered into the bridge club where I have spent many of my idle hours for a number of years. I sat quietly by, kibitzing a rubber of contract, with the secret desire to pick up some material for my script.

It didn't take long. Shortly the above hand was dealt. South opened quite properly with one no trump and North a member of the theatrical profession, who was in town for a few days, responded with two hearts. South having more than the minimum requirements for a no trump bid went on to two no trump and the visiting delegate could find no more bids. Even with the favorable club opening, declarer was not able to make more than seven tricks and was down one.

One of the players at the table asked me what I would have done with the North hand, and I said, "pass." North couldn't believe that I was serious and queried, "What, opposite a strong no trump?" when I nodded in the affirmative he ejaculated with a venom I shall long remember, "Nowadays, everybody seems to be an expert."

It was no time for me to explain that while a no trump opening indicated a good hand, nevertheless it is a more or less precise bid that shows in the vicinity of four honor tricks. Sometimes a little less and sometimes just a shade more. But only a shade. If a hand contains more than four and one-half honor tricks it is too big to be opened with one no trump and not quite big enough to open with two no trump. A suit bid of one is therefore indicated, with the intention of making a strong rebid should partner respond.

When the responder has only one trick, a game is hopeless and he should pass unless he has a long suit or a freakish hand. Some hands, you know, just won't reach for game. And if you are not going any place, what better contract could there be than one no trump?

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

You are declarer at a contract of six hearts. West leads the jack of trumps and shows out on the second round. You draw the last trump. West has discarded two clubs. You then play the ace and king of diamonds and on the second round West discards a spade. Can you make the hand?

WILSON'S WEEKLY Bulletin
By George Rector
Food and Nutrition Consultant to Wilson & Co.

THIS BREAKFAST RINGS THE BELL

Your trusty alarm clock wakes you up in the morning; or does it? If you frequently experience a mid-morning slump—a feeling of fatigue and sleepiness that slows up your activities—chances are you're a breakfast "chiseler." Start the day with a good protein breakfast, such as this, and you'll really wake up and be ready for the day ahead.

Sausages—Good Sense and Scents for Breakfast

Place Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links in a cold skillet, add 4 tbsp. cold water, cover and steam over moderate heat about 5 min. Remove cover and continue cooking until meat is browned, draining off excess fat as it accumulates. (To avoid pricking sausages, turn them with a spoon. This will retain all the delicious flavor and juices of the meat.)

Clip Directions Here

FULL STEAM AHEAD!

What better early morning aroma to get even the laggard out of bed than that of Wilson's Certified Pure Pork Sausage Links a-sizzling in the pan? Serve them with sliced oranges, steaming wheat cakes and luscious blueberry preserves and you serve a nutrition-wise breakfast. One that packs the proteins in so that you begin the day's tasks with an "up and at 'em" spirit! He who has sufficient proteins at breakfast skips that mid-morning slump so common to the "I-don't-eat-much-breakfast" crowd. So be protein-wise at breakfast.

Know Your Proteins

If we were all as protein-conscious as we are vitamin-conscious, that would be a fine thing. Proteins, the "repair parts" of the body, are as necessary for good health as vitamins are. They constantly repair body tissues, help ward off infection, and in general contribute to our sense of well-being and vigor.

So plan to serve your family plenty of high quality protein every morning. Other choices? What could be better than Tender Made Ham and Clear Brook Eggs?—both excellent protein foods. Or crispy Certified Bacon with an omelet or scrambled eggs?

Certified Dried Beef, creamed and served on toast, is tops for breakfast, also. Make it easier to eat by clipping the edges of the toast every inch or so with those handy kitchen scissors.

French toast supplies a considerable amount of good protein, too, as both the milk and egg contain complete proteins. However, it is well to serve extra proteins with it. Pan-fried Mor is a quick answer—and a mighty good one it is, too. Always ready at a turn of the wrist, Mor contains high quality proteins as well as the minerals and B-vitamins of pork.

No, there's no shortage on variety of good protein foods you can serve for breakfast. Vary them from day to day, prepare them in an appetizing manner, allow plenty of time for the family to eat breakfast and you won't be bothered with the no-breakfast health hazard in your family.

Nutritionally yours,
George Rector

WISCONSIN SEEKS UPSET OVER OHIO STATE

ILLINOIS LOSES 5TH CENTER OF 1944 SEASON

Prokopis or Heiss May Face Iowa.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 11 [Special].—Stanley Sprague, Belleville, Ill., V-12 sophomore, was forced to quit the Illinois football team today because of a skin infection.

He is the fifth center Illinois has lost since practice opened. Others were Emil Tomanek, John McCormack, Pete Blom, and Otho Bartholow, who are still out of action, and George Bujan, who returned last week to play against Purdue. Bujan is suffering from weak ankles and has not practiced for two days, so that his presence this week is debatable.

The only physically able center left is Alex Prokopis, Gary, Ind., who has played in the position only two weeks, or since his conversion from full back. To alleviate the situation, Coach Ray Eliot is drilling Bill Heiss, Aurora sophomore full back, at center. If Heiss starts at the pivot against Iowa Saturday, the full back post will be returned to Jerry Cies.

IOWA LOSES THIRD GUARD.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 11 [Special].—The third major letter guard in less than a week was lost to Iowa today when Bob Ireland said he had quit football. Other recent losses were Bob Liddy, transferred to Great Lakes, and Stan Mohrbacher, out with a knee injury suffered against Ohio State.

Coach Edward [Slip] Madigan plans to shift Bill Benskin, right tackle, to left guard in place of Ireland and also to use Bob Miller at the same post. He also contemplates shifting Forrest Masterson from center to right tackle. It is problematical, however, whether they can learn the new assignments in time for the Illinois game Saturday.

The first team held an offensive scrimmage today and worked against Illini plays. Madigan was pleased with the shifty running of Bob Brown, freshman half back, who has developed rapidly of late.

INDIANA WORKS ON PASSES.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 11 [Special].—Indiana's Hoosiers worked on their passing attack today in preparation for the Nebraska game Saturday. Bob Hoernschemeyer and Ben Raimondi did the throwing under the watchful eye of Coach Bo McMillin.

McMillin also sent his first string eleven thru a review of the Hoosier defense worked out for the Cornhuskers and gave attention to pass defense against a possible Nebraska aerial attack. Full back Harry Jagade still is on the side lines with a back injury.

BOSTON'S YANKS ASK WAIVERS ON 2; SIGN MARTIN

Boston, Mass., Oct. 11 (AP).—The Boston Yanks of the National Football league announced tonight that waivers have been asked on Half Back Bob McRoberts, recently acquired from the Green Bay Packers, and End Freeman Rexer, purchased from the Chicago Cardinals last month.

Coach Herb Kopf also announced that Gordon Wilson, a guard, had been turned over to the Brooklyn Tigers to complete a deal, and that Full Back Dave Smuckler had been released definitely. Half Back Johnny Martin also joined the Yanks' club after he had been released by the Pittsburgh Steelers-Chicago Cardinals team.

AMERICANS WIN WAY TO MEXICAN NET SEMI-FINALS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 11 (AP).—Four United States women tennis players reached the singles semi-finals in the fourth day of the third Pan-American tournament today. Summaries:

Mary Arnold, Los Angeles, beat Gloria Thompson, St. Louis, 6-3, 6-1; Margaret Osborne, San Francisco beat Gretl Dupont, Mexico, 6-0, 6-3; Pauline Betz, Los Angeles, beat Peggy Welsh, Lima, Pa., 6-2, 6-2; Louise Brough, Beverly Hills, Cal., beat Teresa Mundet, Mexico, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Betz will meet Miss Brough and Miss Osborne will play Miss Arnold in the semi-finals. Results in the men's singles quarter-finals included:

Pancho Segura, Ecuador, beat Eduardo Buse, Peru, 6-1, 7-5, 6-2; William Talbert, Indianapolis, beat Daniel Hernandez, Mexico, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

SAVOLD TO FIGHT LANE NOV. 9 ON COLISEUM CARD

Nov. 9 has been set as the date of a 10 round bout between Lee Savold, Paterson, N. J., heavyweight, and Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in the Coliseum, Matchmaker Jack Kearns said yesterday. Winner will meet Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., in the second show of 1944-'45 indoor season in the Wabash av. arena.

Willie Gilzenberg, Lane's manager, has notified Kearns that the grand jury in session at Irvington, N. J., voted no indictment against Lane in connection with his fight with Lem Franklin in Newark on July 24. Franklin died after being knocked out in the ninth round.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

ONE night in St. Louis two of the nation's most widely known sports writers tried to get their minds off the Browns and Cardinals with a discussion about football greats. . . . They narrowed the nominations for end to Don Hutson of Green Bay and Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan. . . . The New York author was for Hutson and the Detroit scribe for Oosterbaan. . . . A few days later we were on a train bound for Minneapolis and sitting next to us was Bob Zuppke. . . . We put the question to the man who for the last 35 years has seen most of the game's outstanding performers when they were at their competitive peak. . . . He answered like this: "If you were the coach of a team who would worry you more as an opposing player—Hutson or Oosterbaan? That's the way I always rate greatness in talent. I think I'd be much more concerned about Hutson than I would about Oosterbaan." . . . Zuppke added that for team spirit football has produced few players more valuable than Michigan's great wingman. . . . The Little Dutchman rates Chuck Carney of Illinois as the greatest end he ever has seen. . . . "And that's not because he played for me," he hurriedly explained. . . . We then tossed this one at Zup: "Who in your opinion is the greatest passer—Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, or Glenn Dobbs?" . . . He picked Luckman as of today, but he said that in another year Dobbs probably would excel the other two. . . . "As soon as he learns how to throw a wet ball he will be tops," Zup predicted.

Lt. Frank Leahy, rehabilitation officer for the Pacific submarine fleet, recently lost a horseshoe match to Adm. Nimitz. . . . The famous Notre Dame football coach doesn't like to lose, but he didn't mind that one. . . . "Never have I met a finer gentleman than Adm. Nimitz," he recently wrote this department. . . . "The admiral is democratic, natural, and genuine." . . . Joe Tinker of the west side Cubs has a daughter who is a lieutenant in the army nurses' corps serving overseas. . . . Horses which finish fifth in races at the Sportsman's Park meeting opening next Wednesday will share in the purse distribution for the first time. . . . "Owners of horses which finish that close to the front are entitled to get back jockey and feed money, at least," opines President John L. Keeshin. . . . Lt. Comdr. Jim McMillen, who has spent nearly all his life in athletics as a contestant or administrator, has nothing to do with sport in New Caledonia. . . . He is running the shore patrol. . . . Bill Southworth, manager of the world champion Cardinals, will face a serious overemployment problem when the war ends. . . . Twenty-seven of his players are in service, including Pitchers Johnny Beazley, Alpha Brazle, Howard Krist, George Munger, Ernie White, Murry Dickson, and Howard Pollet.

WANT THE PINS TO DROP? SEE NED DAY TODAY

Champion to Open Tribune School.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The school day phase of the fourth annual All-Star bowling tournament sponsored by the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America and Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will open this afternoon with Champion Ned Day giving instructions in THE TRIBUNE'S free tenpin school at the Bryn Mawr Recreation, 2015 E. 71st street.

The titleholder in the big show to be held in the Auditorium Service Men's center from Dec. 2 thru Dec. 10 will continue teaching in the south side plant operated by Bill Wightman and Al Engelman tomorrow, and will then move the school to a number of other bowling establishments thruout the city.

In addition to the afternoon sessions, Day will appear during the evening's league bowling periods, after which he will take on opponents selected by the host proprietor in special matches.

Four Stars Bowl Tonight.

Tonight he will begin a two-day argument involving the members of the brilliant Meister Brau squad. In the first battle he will team with Bud Wright against Paul Krumske, 1943 runner-up for the All-Star title, and Joe Sinke. Tomorrow Ned and Wright will roll against the other members of the Meister Brau quintet, Bill Hargadon and Harry Lippe.

The complete list of plants where Day will give his instructions follow:

Today, tomorrow, and Saturday—Bryn Mawr Recreation, 2015 E. 71st st.

Oct. 15—Benzinger's, 39 W. Randolph st.

Oct. 16—Goldammer's Twentieth Century, 3253 N. Cicero av.

Oct. 17—Bowlium, Sheridan rd. and Montrose av.

Oct. 18, 25—Bowling Lanes, 5221 Broadway.

Oct. 19, 20, 22—Stevenson's Recreation, 757 E. 79th st.

Oct. 21—Hyde Park Recreation, 5122 S. Lake Park av.

Oct. 24, 26, 28—Park Manor Bowling center, 100 E. 75th st.

Nov. 1—Milo Wiesner Recreation, 823 W. 35th st.

It may be that Day will go into the All-Star tournament without his title, for the slender Krumske, as runner-up to him last December exercised his right to challenge the champ. They have arranged a 60 game, home and home match for the championship. One 30 game set will be rolled on Chicago lanes as yet not chosen on Nov. 18 and 19, and the final games are scheduled for Day's West Allis, Wis., center on Nov. 25 and 26.

Trials Are Continuing.

The Nov. 18 and 19 dates also will mark the conclusion of the Chicago preliminary trials, sites and dates of which were named by the All-Star tournament committee Tuesday. These are currently in progress in five outstanding plants thruout the city. These five, together with the names of their operators, follow:

BOWLING LANES—5221 Broadway, Ralph Olsen and Jack Samuelson.

CASCADE BOWLING CENTER—3825 W. Madison st., Lloyd Wevang.

GARDEN RECREATION — 4274 Milwaukee av., Mike Hechinger and Lyman Bolger.

PARK MANOR BOWLING CENTER—100 E. 75th st., Dominic De Vito.

ROSE BOWL—11517 S. Michigan av., Paul Young.

Any Chicago bowler is welcome to take part in the city trials. From now until 11:55 p. m. Nov. 16, he may roll as many three game, total pin series as he wishes, paying a fee of $2 and bowling for each set.

After Nov. 16 the eight high men in each of the five centers will go into round robin competition. This will consist of seven four-game blocks, based on the Petersen point system, wherein each bowler will meet all of his rivals on the Nov. 18 and 19 dates. The leaders will qualify for the Auditorium tournament proper. Twenty-four bowlers from every section of the country have been seeded into the All-Star event, off their 1943 performances.

Irish Work on Defense; Head East Today

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 11 [Special].—The Notre Dame football squad finished work for the Dartmouth game in Boston Saturday with a passing and kicking drill this afternoon. The varsity remained on defense against Dartmouth plays during most of the workout, while the punters and passers received individual instructions.

This was the last complete workout for the Irish, who will leave tomorrow afternoon for Boston. Coach Ed McKeever said he plans no lineup changes and expects to start the following men on Saturday:

Tom Guthrie and Bill O'Connor, ends; George Sullivan and John Adams, tackles; John Mastrangelo and Fred Roval, guards; John Ray, center; Frank Dancewicz, quarter back; Bob Kelly and Chick Margioli, half backs, and Elmer Angsman, full back.

DARTMOUTH BACK IS ILL.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 11 [Special].—Eddie Gingrich, one of Dartmouth's best backs, definitely is out of Saturday's game with Notre Dame in Boston. Coach Earl Brown was building his attack around Gingrich, but the freshman star was stricken with pneumonia just before the Holy Cross game, and still is in the college infirmary.

The squad went thru another scrimmage today, with the first team spending most of the time on defense. Herb Fritts, 18, a V-12 student from Richmond Hill, N. Y., did the best running of the afternoon. Joe Hayes, understudy for Charlie Holt at quarter back, performed well as a passer.

In the line, Bob Harvey, giant marine trainee, and Wid Washburn, first string left tackle, broke up play after play, and Roy Morter, battling for the left end berth, did some excellent blocking.

Orioles Beat Colonels, 5-3; Take Series

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 11 (AP).—Coming from behind with a three run rally in the seventh inning, the Baltimore Orioles of the International league won the little world series tonight by defeating the Louisville Colonels of the American association, 5 to 3, before a crowd of 23,536.

Louisville scored two runs in the third inning. The Colonels held a 3 to 2 lead going into the seventh, when the Orioles, who have been doing Frank Merriwell finishes all season, shoved across the runs that brought Baltimore its first junior series title since 1925, when it defeated Louisville. Tonight's victory made it four games to two for Baltimore in the series.

But it was a battle down to the finish, and the crowd held its breath when with two away in the ninth, Earl Browne walked, and Nick Polly's drive into the left field stands was foul by inches. It would have been a tying homer had the ball been fair. With the count 3 and 2, Polly then sent Stan Benjamin against the left field wall for the final out.

REVIVE CHICAGO CHRISTMAS PREP BASKET TOURNEY

The Chicago public high school interscholastic basketball tournament at the University of Chicago, which was discontinued in 1942 after 24 consecutive years when the navy took over the university's field house, will be revived this year during the Christmas vacation period, it was announced yesterday by J. Kyle Anderson, acting director of athletics.

BUFFALO ENTRY IN ALL-AMERICA GETS GOVERNALI

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 11 [Special].—Lt. Paul Governali, Columbia university's spectacular forward passer, today signed a contract to play with the Buffalo eleven of the newly organized All-America conference. The announcement was made by Sam Cordovano, whose associates are James Breuill and Will Bennett.

Paul Governali.

Governali, a marine lieutenant, is the second outstanding football player to choose the All-America conference for professional gridiron play when war time duties are over.

Stars in East-West Game.

Lt. Glenn Dobbs of the army air forces has signed with the New York organization headed by Ray Ryan and Mrs. Lou Gehrig. In the 1942 National Football league draft, Governali was selected by Brooklyn. Terms of Governali's contract were not announced.

The Columbia star, now 23, ended his college career in 1942, when he completed 87 of 165 passes for 1,442 yards. Nine of his passes were good for touchdowns. His passing was largely instrumental in the East's victory over the West in the 1943 Shrine benefit game in San Francisco. Governali was a member of the College All-Star squad in 1943, but did not play because of an injury.

Receives Maxwell Trophy.

After completing his third season at Columbia, Governali, a native of the Bronx, was awarded the Maxwell memorial trophy for football excellence in Philadelphia. The Columbia star, who weighs 185 pounds and is 5 feet 11, also is noted for his punting and running. He enlisted in the marine corps in January of 1943.

MADISON A. C. BOXERS BEATEN BY FT. SHERIDAN

Fort Sheridan boxers beat Madison Athletic club representatives, three bouts to two, in a show conducted under the direction of Maj. George Kreider, camp special services officer, in the post gymnasium last night. Johnny Francisco, Catholic Youth organization 152 pounder, made his debut as a member of the Fort Sheridan team by beating Harold Kemp. Results:

Vince Pellegrini, Fort Sheridan, beat Wendell Waite, Madison A. C. [3], 140.

John Francisco, Fort Sheridan, beat Harold Kemp, Madison A. C. [3], 152.

Joe Jobelius, Madison A. C., stopped Gene Gail, Fort Sheridan [3], 162.

WIDDOES PICKS SQUAD TO MAKE MADISON TRIP

Badgers' Casualty List Increases.

On Air Tonight

ARCH WARD'S Sports Preview will be aired over station WENR from 9:15 to 9:30 o'clock tonight. The program will include sidelights on the world series as well as forecasts on the outcome of this week's college football games.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Three Western conference football games are on Saturday's slate and of them only the Ohio State-Wisconsin contest is likely to produce an upset. It is quite probable that Northwestern will fall to Michigan's superior attack, and Illinois' speed should whip Iowa.

Ohio State is the favorite over the Badgers because of experience and power in the line and sufficient back field speed to match Wisconsin's ball carriers. Wisconsin does have a chance for an upset, the same opportunity any fast, forward passing eleven has.

Five Lettermen on Line.

Five lettermen, four of them seniors, started in Ohio State's line last Saturday against the University of Iowa. Three more lettermen were used as line substitutes. Les Horvath, who earned varsity letters in 1941 and 1942, Ohio State's regular right half back, and Matt Brown, sophomore letterman and a substitute back, complete the list of Buckeye veterans who appeared against the Hawkeyes in Ohio's 34 to 0 victory.

Ohio State has not been extended in two games, as the Buckeyes defeated Missouri, 54 to 0, in their opener. Moreover, Ohio State probably has pointed, perhaps unwillingly as far as team direction is concerned, to next week's engagement with Great Lakes. Certainly, Columbus citizens are most anxious to greet their football coach in absentia, Lt. [j. g.] Paul Brown, who now leads the Bluejackets. Brown brought Ohio State a Western conference title in 1942 but that has not lessened a desire to see Great Lakes beaten by the state university.

First Test for Buckeyes.

The imminence of this game in Columbus may have an adverse effect on the Buckeye players who appear away from home this week. The winner at Madison will be tied with Purdue for the Big Nine leadership. Two easy triumphs, however, have not furnished a thoro test of Ohio State and it is entirely possible, of course, that the Buckeyes are not as proficient as they appear from their individual records.

Ohio State had possession of the ball for 70 per cent of all rushing plays against Iowa. These gained 326 yards. Ohio State completed two forward passes in 11 attempts for a gain of 22 yards. More important, Ohio State only fumbled once, while Iowa committed eight errors, and lost the ball on five of them.

Willis Headlines Defense.

Coach Carroll Widdoes, who is coach pro-tem of the Buckeyes, started a line last week composed of four seniors, one junior, one sophomore, and one freshman. The line averaged 193 pounds. Headliner on defense is Bill Willis, the Negro left tackle, who was voted the most aggressive tackle on the 1944 All-Star football squad which met the Chicago Bears. Personnel of the Buckeye line follows:

Left end, Jack Dugger, senior, 210 pounds; left tackle, Bill Willis, senior, 205 pounds; left guard, Tom Snyder, freshman, 188 pounds, age 17; center, Gordon Appleby, senior, 182 pounds; right guard, Bill Hackett, junior, 190 pounds; right tackle, Warren Amling, sophomore, 194 pounds; right end, Cecil Souders, senior, 185 pounds.

Three lettermen, who substituted in this line, were George Neff, guard, sophomore, 198 pounds; Paul Maltinsky, guard, junior, 186 pounds, and Russell Thomas right tackle, sophomore, 220 pounds. Thus Ohio State can have an entire line composed of lettermen.

Flannagan Is Dangerous.

Three freshmen, two of them 17 years of age, completed the Ohio State back field with Horvath last week. They are Tom Keane, 178 pounds, quarter back; Dick Flanagan, 192 pounds, left half, and Ollie Cline, 194 pounds, full back.

Flanagan, high scorer for Ohio state high schools a year ago, is the Buckeye triple threat. His runs are supported by the hard driving reverses by Horvath. One of Flanagan's passes scored against the Hawkeyes.

OHIO MAY SHIFT LINE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 11 [Special].—Possibility of a change in Ohio State's starting lineup for the Wisconsin game Saturday was seen today when Guard Russ Thomas, regular last year, replaced Warren Amling, his last year's substitute and starter so far this year.

The players who will make the

IF AGE IS EDGE, BEARS HAVE ONE OVER CARD-PITT

Ronzani, 35, to Direct T Against Novice Sunday.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

They used to make wisecracks that a T formation quarter back could continue to play until he was 50 for all the running he did with the ball. This conjured up an awful spectre for the Bears' National league rivals, who saw Sid Luckman still calling plays and pitching passes in 1965.

Well, Luckman is gone and his successor isn't 50, but he was getting that middle age bulge until a summons brought him back last August before the All-Star game. Gene Ronzani, who will start at quarter back Sunday in Wrigley field against the Card-Pitts, is 35 and making a big league comeback after being in the minors for five seasons.

Formation New to McCarthy.

The Card-Pitts T formation quarter back goes to the other extreme. Until last Sunday in Green Bay, John Patrick McCarthy never had played the position in that style of attack. The Chicago-Pittsburgh combine lost its regular quarter back, Coley McDonough, to the army, which gave McCarthy, a black haired, 152 pounder from New Jersey, his big chance. The Packers won, 34 to 7, but McCarthy kept them busy defending against his throws.

Patrick completed seven of 25 tosses for 98 yards against the Packers, but many of the incompletions are blamed to poor receiving. Ronzani threw the wet ball 16 times against the Rams and clicked on five, including his 66 yard touchdown throw to Abe Croft. Two of his pitches were intercepted.

Each Has Lost to Same Teams.

The Cards' line is superior to that of the Bears, which means McCarthy will get more protection than will Ronzani. Offsetting this, the Bears are more skilful with the T than their cross town rivals, who are 1944 converts. Each has lost to the same teams. The Packers beat the Bears, with Luckman, 42 to 28, and the Card-Pitts, 34 to 7. The Rams rallied late to win from the Card-Pitts, 30 to 28, and whipped the Bears, 19 to 7.

Those fans who stayed away from Wrigley field in the Bears' lush years knowing the opposition had little chance have no such excuse this year. There will be no runaway scores unless what is left of the defending champions improves.

National league statistics show that the unbeaten Packers have gained 1,293 yards in their four victories, averaging 4.5 yards per rush and 14 yards on 44 completed passes. The Packers' attack shows a fine balance with 664 yards on the ground and 625 in the air.

In their two league losses, the Bears have gained 555 yards, but only 156 of them by running.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Marion Brink's Foreign Agent, one of the best juveniles developed during the Chicago racing season, is expected to go postward a 2 to 1 favorite today in the $5,000 Columbus Day handicap at Hawthorne. Ten 2 year olds are on the list to start in the six and one-half furlong affair, sixth race on a nine race program arranged for charity.

Chief contention is expected to come from the Woolford farm's Expediter, which will carry top weight of 118 pounds, one more than assigned to Foreign Agent.

Proceeds to Charity.

The net proceeds of the day will be divided equally among the Community War Fund of Metropolitan Chicago, the Illinois Veterans' services, and the Chicago Service Men's center.

A $222.20 daily double pepped up yesterday's crowd of 10,000. Marion Brink's Bingo Mama, an 8½ to 1 shot, took the first half under Tony Skoronski's guidance and returned $19. The second race went to A. L. Jackson's Rose Canyon, ridden by Jerry Zubrinic. Rose Canyon, which beat Stage Door by a nose, paid $23.80.

Dead Heat in Feature Race.

The Happy Hour farm's Martian, ridden by Skoronski, and H. A. Herm's Hasty Message, with Charley Calvin up, finished in a dead heat for first in the featured sixth race, the $1,800 Dixiana farm purse. Hasty Message came up from third place in the last sixteenth to deadlock the issue as Mrs. John Mafsch's Chance Game took the show.

Skoronski took care of the next race all by himself, bringing the Happy Hour farm's Damos up from last place to win a mile and 70 yard claiming event and raise his day's score to three and his meeting total to 34, four more than the mark of Billy Nichols, his closest competitor. The day's mutuel handle was $819,278.

Thompsons' 3,211 Ties for 2d in Classic

Led by the 3,211 series shot by the Thompson Restaurants, which total is highest of the season in the nation on the basis of latest A. B. C. reports, Classic league bowlers shook their slump with some heavy pin smashing in Northtown Recreation last night.

The Thompsons, paced by Jake Lenzen's 700, swept three from the Monarch Beers, bowling without Bill Flesch, and gained a share of second place with the Prima Beers and Du Bouchett Liquors, two games behind the Chapin & Gore quintet. The C. & G.'s dropped three to the hustling Du Bouchetts, who turned in a fine 3,052 count. The Primas, who could have gained a tie for the lead, lost two to the Washington Shirts.

SEAHAWK LINEUP IS CHANGED FOR PURDUE BATTLE

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 11 [Special].—John Smith's loss by injury in the 2d Air Force game probably will bring about two changes in the Iowa Seahawk lineup which will open at Purdue Saturday, Lt. Comdr. Jack Meagher indicated today.

Bob Smith, regular right half back, also has mastered the left half assignment. As a result, Bob Sullivan, former Holy Cross star, will open at left half with Don Samuels, late of Oregon State, starting at the other half. This will allow Smith to serve as replacement at both positions.

While Joe Quinn, ex-Hobart college guard who made his debut against the Superbombers, is expected to bolster the line, the other newcomer, Tackle Bob Derieth of Michigan, is in the hospital with a fever and probably will not be able to play Saturday.

PURDUE WORKS ON DEFENSE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 11 [Special].—Building up a defense for the versatile Seahawk attack occupied the main attention of Purdue's coaching staff this afternoon in preparation for Saturday's Dad's day battle with the conquerors of the previously unbeaten 2d Air Force Superbombers which are led by Lt. Glenn Dobbs.

Coach Cecil Isbell stood pat on the same lineups that bore the main burden against Illinois last Saturday, with Jim McMillen, holdover major letter man, and Ed Chrobot, promising sophomore, both products of South Bend High schools, alternating at left guard.

GOPHERS GET NEW PLAYS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11 (AP).—Minnesota's Gophers worked on new plays today as they went into high gear in preparations for Saturday's game with Missouri.

Bill Aldworth, who replaced Rube Juster at tackle Tuesday, held down the berth for the second time when Juster failed to report for practice for the second straight day because of late classes. Aldworth's elevation made room for Jerry Kafka of St. Paul, who previously had been far down the list, to move onto the second team.

Badgers Peril Title Hopes of Buckeyes

trip to Madison were announced today as:

ENDS—Jack Dugger, Cecil Souders, Traian Dendiu, Mardo Hamilton, Dick Jackson, and Bobby Wallace.

TACKLES—Bill Willis, Russ Thomas, Warren Amling, Ernie Cottrell, Bob McGinnis, and Norman McElheny.

GUARDS—Bill Hacket, Tom Snyder, Ray Didjurgis, Paul Maliskey, George Neff, Jack Redd, and George Toneff.

CENTERS—Capt. Gordon Appleby, Charlie Renner, Kendall Herron.

QUARTER BACKS—Tom Keane, Bob Dove, and George Gordon.

HALF BACKS—Les Horvath, Dick Flanagan, Bob Brugge, Gene Janecko, Joe Mascio, Tony Stranges, and Dick Wandke.

FULL BACKS—Olie Cline, Ken Boxwell, Matt Brown, and John Ehrsam.

BADGER CASUALTIES MOUNT.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 11 [Special].—The University of Wisconsin coaching staff encountered more trouble today when Don Cusack, regular center, reported with his arm in a sling, the result of a badly swollen elbow. There is little hope he will be able to start against Ohio State on Saturday and Jack Haese and Bob Fick are being considered for the starting assignment. Nick Collins, guard, and Allen Shafer, quarter back, are both improving but there is a great doubt that either will see action.

WLB DUMPS PAY RAISE PROBLEM IN F.D.R.'S LAP

All Labor Members Dissent Bitterly.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—The war labor board voted 8 to 4 today to turn over to President Roosevelt without recommendation the question of changing the government's wage ceiling policy based on the Little Steel formula.

Whether the President has authority to make a change if he decides one is advisable is an open question. The board decided not to advise the President as to his statutory authority.

The dissent of the four labor members reached new heights of bitterness. They labeled as "timidity, contradictions, double talk . . . and an inexcusable dereliction of duty" the public and industry members' majority decision to submit a factual report on wages in relation to living costs, leaving to the President to decide whether breaching the present pay formula would contribute to inflation.

Dilatory Tactics Charged.

R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, said the report would not reach the President until "some time next year" at the rate the public members have been proceeding. He expected "our own recommendations" to reach the White House first. George Meany, AFL secretary and treasurer, said "labor can only hope the President will act with common sense and justice" without consulting WLB.

William H. Davis, chairman, said public members consistently sought to maintain peace-time standards for working men. He said wages and prices both must be considered, and the problem is "not can you raise wages, but can you bring wages closer to prices?"

The labor members' statement said the only conclusion they got from the board action "is that it deems that no change in the Little Steel formula should be recommended. It is apparent to us that the board simply adopted this subterfuge to postpone and delay what it considers an unpalatable decision. There is no excuse for such delay.

"Dodging Responsibility."

"By dodging this responsibility [a specific recommendation] with a promise of another fact finding report, the board has demonstrated a timidity unworthy of men charged with so important a phase of our war activities."

The resolution was adopted after the board voted down, 8 to 4, the AFL proposal requesting the President "to realistically adjust the Little Steel formula."

The language of the resolution left it uncertain when the report actually would reach President Roosevelt. Several weeks may be required to prepare it, and then it will go to Stabilization Director Vinson. Thus it was considered highly possible that the election may be passed before the report actually reaches the President.

In the meantime, the board will have before it many issues regarded as highly important, yet nevertheless secondary to the Little Steel formula. These include such demands as a guaranteed annual wage, discharge or severance pay, a higher level of rates for elimination of substandard conditions, and a fund for returning service men.

Limits Living Cost Adjustment.

The Little Steel formula limits wage increases to 15 per cent from the Jan. 1, 1941, level to compensate for increased living costs. Both official and labor indices have placed the increases in living costs in excess of 15 per cent.

The resolution the WLB adopted said:

"The board will submit to the President thru the economic stabilization director a report setting forth pertinent data regarding the relationship of wages to the cost of living, and an appraisal of the nature and extent of alleged inequities created by the changes which have occurred.

"The board is not sufficiently informed as to the possible effects of a modification of the Little Steel formula on the price structure, and on the national economy generally, to warrant assurance that any modification could be made 'consistent with the stabilization needs of the country and with the provisions of the act of Oct. 2, 1942'.

Considers Wage Iniquities.

"The board will proceed to a consideration of: [a] Any particular inequities in the wage stabilization policy, including the so-called bracket system and substandard wages and [b] the nature of the most pressing wage problems with respect to reconversion.

"The board will include in its report to the President an appraisal of these aspects of the wage stabilization policy, together with any suggestions for broadening or clarifying the board's authority.

"The board will complete its report to the President as expeditiously as possible, and will immediately thereafter act upon the pending cases under the present wage stabilization policy, with appropriate provisions for reopening in case any change in the policy should be made.

"If circumstances permit, without delaying the preparation of the report to the President, the board may act upon some of the issues in the pending cases prior to the completion of said report."

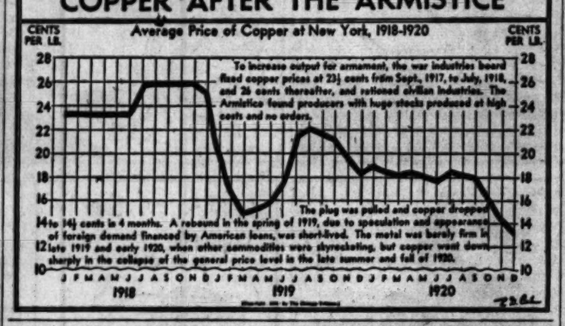
COPPER AFTER THE ARMISTICE



Average Price of Copper at New York, 1918-1920
CENTS PER LB.
To increase output for armament, the war industries board fixed copper prices at 23½ cents from Sept., 1917, to July, 1918, and 26 cents thereafter, and rationed civilian industries. The Armistice found producers with huge stocks produced at high costs and no orders.
The plug was pulled and copper dropped 14 to 14½ cents in 4 months. A rebound in the spring of 1919, due to speculation and appearance of foreign demand financed by American loans, was short-lived. The metal was barely firm in late 1919 and early 1920, when other commodities were skyrocketing, but copper went down sharply in the collapse of the general price level in the late summer and fall of 1920.

Predict Quick Peace Output for Furniture

Furniture manufacturers' representatives in the Merchandise Mart report their companies can produce new merchandise 60 days after Germany is defeated if given the "go ahead" by the government, John C. Goodall, mart general manager, said yesterday.

John C. Goodall.

"If releases of restrictions on lumber, labor, and fabrics come thru, the industry should be in adequate production for civilian use within six to 12 months," Goodall said. New models are expected to be exhibited at the winter home furnishings market opening Jan. 8 in the mart, he asserted.

Asks End of Bottlenecks.

Goodall said the survey indicated that present bottlenecks must be relieved uniformly if production is to be substantially increased.

Even if all lumber restrictions should be canceled, this alone would not cut down trees nor put more men in furniture factories, one manufacturer cautioned. Similarly, the maker of upholstered furniture would be blocked until fabrics were released.

Little Hope for Increases.

Most manufacturers hold little hope for increased supplies of fabrics, at least in the next year, he said. Military requirements for duck continue heavy, with the latest revisions to war production board limitation order L-99 requiring further conversion of looms to making duck and tent twills. Contemplated lend-lease exports of fabrics and textile machinery are other considerations dimming the outlook, said Goodall.

Additional releases of lumber have been made, but the big problem is in the replacement of lumber ready for use, manufacturers said. Seasoning and drying of lumber takes time, a factor which should be considered in relation to amounts released, they asserted.

COURT DISMISSES SIX WARD SUITS SEEKING TO HALT WLB ORDERS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—Justice Matthew F. McGuire of District of Columbia Federal court today dismissed six suits in which Montgomery Ward & Co. sought injunctions to prevent enforcement of war labor board directives involving union maintenance of membership and other matters such as wages and arbitration.

The dismissals were asked by the government last Thursday in line with recent court of appeals decisions that WLB directives are not subject to court review. The Supreme court on Monday refused to review a court of appeals decision of this kind, involving a group of motor carriers.

The dismissed suits involve, among others, Ward stores in Chicago and the Hummer Manufacturing company at Springfield, Ill., a subsidiary seized and operated by the government.

Pending in the Supreme court is Ward's petition for a review of a similar ruling.

Report U. S. in Economic Blow to Spain

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11 (AP).—The United States, in the process of liquidating economic warfare activities against Germany, has pulled one of the financial props from under the Franco regime in Spain, it was reported tonight.

The political effect was incidental, one diplomatic official said, but it was learned that as a result of diminishing economic warfare and other dislocations the Franco government was confronted with increasing difficulties in maintaining its position.

The latest development was that the United States closed its "commercial corporation" for both Spain and Portugal. That put a complete stop to "preclusive" buying of goods to keep them out of the enemy's hands.

Portugal in Good Position.

Portugal was said to have accumulated a large enough dollar balance to be able to make satisfactory adjustments to the loss of income from preclusive buying.

The situation, as it applied to Spain, was described thus:

The United States began to stop preclusive buying last April by cutting off wolfram [tungsten] purchases, but continued excess purchases of hides, textiles, olive oil, and strontium sulfate [used for tipping tracer bullets] up to last week.

Now, Julian Harrington, director of the United States Commercial corporation in Spain, has been assigned to Brussels as embassy counselor and the once busy establishment has been reduced to a clerical staff which is closing the books.

The British are continuing to buy 42 per cent of their total iron ore imports in Spain, and are getting other badly needed supplies.

Prices High; Spent 100 Million.

The foreign economic administration said the United States spent more than 100 million dollars in Spain in its preclusive buying. Prices paid were so high that some officials said this country actually got about 10 millions worth of material. However, the objective was to prevent the Germans from acquiring the materials acquired.

About 60 millions more were spent by other allies during the 30 months that preclusive buying was carried on in Spain.

Meanwhile, as a result of the Nazi loss of France, the Spaniards also lost their trade with Germany.

More or less normal trade relations between the United States and Spain are continuing, but these are not in Spain's favor. The dollar volume of ordinary exports of brandies, wines, olives, olive oil, and cork is much smaller than from the preclusive buying.

GRAINS ADVANCE IN FACE OF PEAK HARVEST REPORT

The department of agriculture report that a record total grain harvest was probable had little effect as a price making influence yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. First sales were fractionally lower, but a rush of commission house buying quickly wiped out the loss and prices rose moderately.

Corn futures closed ¾ cent to 1½ cents a bushel higher, led by December. Wheat gained ¼ to ⅝ cent and oats ⅝ to ⅞ cent. Rye was active, closing ¼ to 1⅝ cents higher, the latter on December.

Buying of corn futures was headed by brokers who frequently act for cash interests. This led to reports that large sale of cash corn were made to eastern buyers some time ago, with the sellers unable to buy enough in the country to fill their contracts. They were said to have been buying futures as a hedge against the cash grain sales.

SPICER MANUFACTURING.

Is an estimate available as to the earnings of Spicer Manufacturing corporation for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31? How do war time profits compare with the pre-war record?—N. P.

In the nine months ended last May, Spicer reported net income equal to $5.37 a common share after provision for renegotiation of contracts, compared with $5.59 a year earlier. On that basis it is estimated unofficially that the profit should approximate the $7.17 a share earned in the 1943 fiscal period. Year-end adjustments or other factors may change the result. The annual report is expected by early December.

War work has included manufacture of special transmissions for army trucks and other vehicles. Normally Spicer produces universal joints, propeller shafts, and other parts for the automotive industry.

Net sales in the 1943 fiscal year totaled $80,308,000, and $75,028,000 in 1942, compared with $10,240,000 in 1938 and $15,059,000 in 1937. The war time peak in net income was reached in 1942 at $10.57 a share on the 300,000 common shares, after deducting reserves which exceeded a subsequent renegotiation refund. Profit was $9.42 in 1941 and $6.36 in 1940. In the three calendar years ended with 1938 the profit averaged $2.72 a share. The common dividend rate in recent years has been $3 a share a year.

As of Aug. 31, 1943, current assets totaled $33,891,918, current liabilities $29,895,351, and long term debt $1,300,000. Outstanding are 70,000 cumulative $3 preference shares.

Ending Farm Machine Rule Termed Fraud

BY LAWRENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—The administration's recent abandonment of farm machinery rationing was assailed today by Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] as "an election fraud attempt to win farmers' votes by false pretense."

"This ration revocation," said Shafer in a statement issued here, "is a childishly obvious attempt by the New Deal to win back some of the farm vote it has lost thru its efforts to set up state control of all agriculture.

"The rub is that, altho farm equipment rationing has been stopped, the burocrats have refused to permit any additional machinery to be made. Regulations stifling machinery output by manufacturers and preventing them from obtaining enough new machinery to supply farmers are still in effect.

"Another New Deal Fraud."

"The net result is another New Deal fraud, because many farmers will be frozen out of a chance to buy any new equipment at all. A large equipment manufacturer in my district has informed me that he has almost no new equipment to sell because of the restrictions on output."

Shafer said limitation orders on farm equipment manufacture restrict output to about 80 per cent of the 1940 level. But, he declared, this is an over-all figure and the output is restricted to much less in many equipment lines.

"Besides that," he continued, "farmers have never recovered from the early days of the war when Joe Weiner [former head of WPB's farm equipment division] cut machinery output to 20 per cent of normal at a time when the New Deal was asking farmers to produce more food than ever before. The farmers have a big backlog of machinery needs and the answer to it is to lift the restrictions and let them get it."

Lend-Lease Equipment.

While American farmers still are being deprived of needed machines to produce food, Shafer said, thousands of tons of equipment are being lend-leased to our allies and earmarked for allied occupied nations by the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

"If we can send all this machinery abroad," Shafer said, "certainly we could spare enough to meet the needs of our own farmers. But the New Deal would rather give it away, and then try to deceive our farmers by ending rationing but giving them no more than before."

SUPPLY OF HOGS IS BELOW NEEDS; PRICES STEADY

Altho the 14,000 hogs received at the stock yards yesterday, including direct shipments to packers, made the third largest total on a Wednesday in two months, they were far below trade requirements. Most stock sold quickly at the price ceilings, and many large buying orders were only partly filled.

After a steady opening the cattle market went into a decline that carried some classes 25 cents lower before the close of trading. However, a large part of the supply of best steers and heifers changed hands before the weakness appeared. Sheep and lamb prices were unchanged.

ILLINOIS BOARD DECIDES TO HEAR ELEVATOR CASE

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday took jurisdiction of all phases of a petition asking the commission to take over regulation of 11 grain elevator companies, which are alleged to have coöperated with the Chicago Board of Trade in irregular practices. Nine of the companies operate under federal license.

Hearing on the petition was set for Oct. 24, assigned to Examiners William E. Helander and Leslie Salter.

ASKS INDUSTRY TO SPEED PLAN ON PEACE SHIFT

Welfare at Stake, Says Henderson.

Planning for the reconversion of industry to civilian operations must be quickened or the maintenance of a high level of production and employment will run into difficulties, Leon Henderson, former price administrator, said yesterday. He said he was pessimistic on the outlook because the country may get its "eyes clouded by exuberance" on the end of the war with Germany.

One of the big stumbling blocks to a speedy solution of the reconversion problem is lack of a well knit national economic policy, he told the Coöperative league yesterday at a luncheon in the Morrison hotel. Large European countries do not lack such a policy, he added, but their policies involve a general acceptance of a certain measure of state control.

In this respect, Henderson said the decisions so far on reconversion are conservative to a remarkably consistent degree.

"May Be a Good Thing."

"The whole tendency to conservatism may buttress reliance on private enterprise," he asserted. "This may be a good thing."

"So far the country has made no plans for meeting the unemployment problem. There is still no real possibility of accomplishing the magnitude of the turn-around and accomplishing it fast. There is a rising tide of almost complete reliance on the business system to maintain high employment. I cannot see any post-war legislation on planning for the human side of the problem for many months."

Henderson said he could not guess what congress and the President may do toward solution of reconversion problems.

Among actions suggested to ease the impact of reconversion were unemployment compensation, moving of stranded workers, quick planning of public works, and a change in the tax system.

Tax Changes Suggested.

He urged elimination of taxes on corporations, higher exemptions in computing individual income taxes, and retention of excise taxes on liquor, tobacco, and gasoline.

"I would like to see something done about foreign trade," Henderson said. "It is the only available outlet for the large production of goods needed to help get thru the reconversion period. The devastated countries' needs are in the products of industries that will be hit by cutbacks. If we do not take advantage of this we will be missing a big bet."

Asserting that this ties in with the policy on making foreign loans, he said it would be a long time before a decision is made on a large volume of such loans.

Arnold Rips Monopoly.

Thurman Arnold told the dinner meeting that monopolistic practices of certain corporations caused many shortages of vital materials at the start of the war. A judge in the United States Court of Appeals in Washington, D. C., and former assistant attorney general, Arnold said these same monopolistic controls were the root of technological unemployment.

He said monopoly prevents new enterprise from entering the field of the monopoly, restricts production and raises prices, stops the introduction of new methods to maintain obsolete ways of production in which it has a vested interest, destroys existing individual enterprise, and enters politics to become a state within a state.

People and Events

William T. White, general sales manager of the six Wieboldt stores, will discuss, post-war merchandising today at a Chicago Federated Advertising club meeting in the Hotel Sherman.

Appointment of Otto K. Eitel, vice president and managing director of the Bismarck hotel, as a member of the hotel industry advisory committee, was announced in Washington, D. C.

Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance corporation announced that William E. Wallace had become associated with the company. Wallace resigned recently as attorney for the Illinois division of the Bendix Aviation corporation.

American Express company announced that J. T. Walsh was appointed an assistant vice president. Walsh will remain district financial manager in Chicago.

Rainfair, Inc., Racine, Wis., announced that Paul Dowd had been appointed manager of the Chicago office.

Vast Increase in World Trade Held Basis of Workable Peace

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, told the national foreign trade convention tonight that "We don't want the old pie of world trade divided into smaller pieces. We must have a bigger pie." Johnston received the Capt. Robert Dollar memorial award for 1944 at a world trade dinner, for "distinguished contribution to the advancement of American foreign trade."

Johnston offered what he termed three fundamentals for the "task of building up a workable peace from the world's shattered ruins."

They were:

1. "The absolute necessity for a vastly expanded post-war trade among nations."

Trade Arteries "Hardening."

2. "If there is going to be a larger volume of foreign trade, we must have more prosperous people. You can't sell goods to the penniless or the bankrupt."

3. "A strong, a prosperous, a free America."

"For three decades we have been having a gradual hardening of the arteries of trade," Johnston said. "This commercial arterio-sclerosis has increased the economic tensions in every land. Unless intelligent application of known curatives can be applied, our post-war world will suffer a paralyzing stroke."

Johnston said an immediate post-war increase in American foreign trade would be necessary to maintain a national income of 140 billion dollars mentioned as a goal by some economists, until expenditures for capital goods reach an estimated 25 billion dollars annually.

Favors Long Terms Credits.

He proposed long term credits for the industrial development of war ravaged areas, to create the prosperity needed for foreign trade markets.

"We will not make the foolish loans that we did after the last war," he said. "Then Americans threw millions away. Some of this money went for parks and swimming pools and even stuck to the hands of politicians. That was a mistake.

"In extending credit this time, we should make sure that it will be used to produce jobs and new wealth, and thereby provide a higher standard of living and means for repayment."

New Research Unit Planned for Evanston

The Victor Adding Machine company's tentative plans for construction of a 2½ story research building near downtown Evanston were described yesterday by Vernon R. Loucks, attorney for the company.

The company has asked revision of a zoning regulation to permit erection of the building. The change is opposed by a group of property owners.

If approved by the city, the company will raze the residence now occupying the property and construct a building of Georgian architecture and landscape the grounds, Loucks said. He estimated the total cost would be about $300,000.

Near Northwestern University.

The site contemplated, about 195 feet by 160 feet, is on the northeast corner of Hinman av. and Davis st., and is desired because of its proximity to Northwestern university, Loucks explained.

The building would house about 60 persons, including scientists, draftsmen, engineers, and others, who would carry on research projects in physics, metallurgy, chemistry, and other lines for all types of businesses at a specified fee. Loucks explained that a "consultative relationship" would be maintained with the Northwestern Technological institute.

Commenting on the proposal, Dean O. W. Esbach of the Northwestern school of engineering said:

"We welcome the proximity of any research laboratory because of the mutual benefits to be derived from such an association. All scientists have something in common and the interchange of ideas benefits both."

Meat Research at U. of C.

Esbach and other Chicago educators predicted research by industry and the universities would be emphasized after the war, and that the two groups would collaborate more closely than ever.

Neil H. Jacoby, secretary of the University of Chicago, said the American Meat institute had leased laboratory space on the campus and had recruited a staff of 17 persons to do research work on meat. He also said the university plans a food research institute which would study all types of food for the benefit of all industries in that line.

COURT APPROVES PAYMENTS ON FIDELITY CLAIMS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 11 (AP).—Payments totaling $4,178,724 to nearly 7,000 Illinois holders of contracts with the Fidelity Assurance association, Wheeling, W. Va., were authorized today by the Sangamon county Circuit court.

The order, signed by Judge L. E. Stone, approved an agreement between the Illinois liquidator and the West Virginia receivers of the association. The payments will be made after Oct. 16 from the association's liquidated assets held by the secretary of state and will range from $10 to $22,000 each.

The United States Supreme court last year denied the company's proposal to reorganize under the federal bankruptcy act. Liquidation of the company's Illinois deposits netted $4,568,855. Judge Stone's order said that after allowed claims are paid sufficient assets will remain to pay those who are entitled to payments but who did not file claims.

ROMANIA'S PAYMENTS TO REDS MAY BE LEVY ON U. S. INVESTMENTS

New York, Oct. 11 [Special].—American investors, as well as British and French interests, may be forced to make payments to Russia as a result of the Romanian armistice terms, Robert F. Loree, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company, said today.

Loree said that under the armistice terms Romania must make payments amounting to 30 to 50 per cent of her exports in the form of oil and other products to Russia in the next six years. That would throw Romania's economy desperately out of balance, he asserted.

Because much of Romania's oil is produced by American, British, and French companies, its inability to meet reparation payments "must really cause American, British, and French to contribute to the payments," he said.

STOCKS REGAIN LOST GROUND IN SLOW ADVANCE

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—The stock market moved ahead at a leisurely pace today to regain the ground lost Monday and lift the averages to within a point of the July peak.

Activity in a wide assortment of specialties at times overshadowed the leaders altho stocks of the type of Chrysler and United States Steel helped to give the market a firm tone at the close.

Buying confidence in the face of tomorrow's holiday suggested speculative followers were impressed by last week's rise which, according to Wall street opinion, was based partly on "a better feeling" on the election.

RAIL BONDS CLIMB.

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—Broadened demand for various types of rails and fairly active inquiry from investment sources for higher priced issues lifted the bond market today. Trading expanded to $7,024,000 from $6,714,500 yesterday and the Associated Press average of 20 rails went to a new high since 1937

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices rose on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, but trading dipped to 25,000 shares.

CALL OFF PLAN FOR WALKOUT IN 64 WAR PLANTS

Cleveland, O., Oct. 11 (AP).—Mathew L. Smith, national secretary of the Mechanics Educational Society of America, late today called off a threatened strike of 68,000 MESA members tomorrow in 64 key midwest war plants "pending the outcome of negotiations with the Cleveland Graphite Bronze company, ordered by the war department."

In a telegram to Lt. Col. George D. Lynn, officer in charge at the army operated Graphite Bronze plants, Smith said the MESA would submit the dispute to conciliation under a regional war labor board plan. The dispute began with discharge of one employe.

EARNINGS CURB HARMFUL, SAYS A. T. & T. CHIEF

Hampers Service, Asserts Gifford.

Government regulations which unreasonably limit the earnings of telephone companies discourage prospective investors and are harmful to telephone users and the public, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, said yesterday.

Walter S. Gifford.

Prices for telephone service are properly regulated, but they must be adequate to pay all the costs involved in giving good service, Gifford told the United States Independent Telephone association meeting in the Stevens hotel.

"To furnish telephone service requires a lot of physical equipment which must be paid for," he said. "Thus the capital requirements are heavy, and every added telephone means still more capital investment. The telephone business must earn year in and year out enough so that those with capital to invest will want to put it in this industry.

Tells of Need for Funds.

"Operating costs include, besides wages, salaries, taxes, depreciation, and other expenses, the return on investment. We in the industry must convince regulatory bodies that it is against the public interest, and against the interest of telephone users in particular, to be so niggardly on this question of return that the financial soundness of the industry and its ability to obtain the necessary funds for investment are weakened.

"Certainly we can't succeed unless our earnings are comparable to those of other industries. This applies not only to the larger telephone companies but also to those companies where the manager and owner is one and the same. The telephone industry belongs to Main Street. It depends for its equity capital on people of moderate income looking for a sound investment."

Many Small Stockholders.

Gifford said there are more than 660,000 stockholders in A. T. & T., with none owning as much as 0.5 per cent of the total stock. Besides these, there are thousands of other shareholders in other telephone companies, he said.

"This widespread public ownership, including as it does many tens of thousands of employe stockholders and owners, seems to me an added reason why a niggardly attitude by regulatory commissions on rate of return would be against the public interest," he said.

Gifford said it appeared likely the cost of providing telephone service to farmers after the war could be reduced substantially and invited suggestions from the entire telephone industry.

More Telephones in Use.

Reviewing the industry's war activities, Gifford said approximately 26½ million telephones are now in use, about 5 million more than in 1940. These include an unspecified number of instruments in 3,300 camps, bases, arsenals, shipyards, and government-financed war plants. Thousands of miles of private line telephone and teletypewriter networks were constructed to serve military establishments, he said.

He disclosed that long distance service more than tripled in three years of war, and that the shortage of local facilities for civilian use was largely a result of the necessity of manufacturing electronic and communication equipment for the army and navy.

SHARE EXCHANGE PLAN PROPOSED BY GENERAL TIME

General Time Instruments corporation, New York, submitted to its stockholders yesterday a proposal to retire all of its 38,539 outstanding shares of 6 per cent preferred stock and replace them with a new issue of 4¼ per cent shares. Stockholders will vote on the proposition at a meeting in New York on Oct. 31. The new stock will be offered on a share for share basis, plus $7 cash.

DAY by DAY on the FARM & GAIL COMPTON

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 11 [Special].—Here in Shelby county is one of the most unusual examples of the possibility of combining the rehabilitation of man and the reclamation of land. At the 5,000 acre county penal farm both humans and the land are treated to make the best out of the raw material at hand.

Begun in 1928 with 2,000 acres of land and a million dollar bond issue, the penal farm has been developed into one of the finest and highest producing farms in the midsouth. Complete in equipment now and so scientifically managed it draws visitors from everywhere, the farm is an excellent example of what can be done to southern farm land which for so long has been robbed and mined by generations of cotton and tobacco.

Clears $100,000 in Year.

Inmates of prison do all of the work under supervision and last year the farm had a net profit of $100,000 to show its taxpayers. It boasts one of the best herds of jersey dairy cattle in the nation, a magnificent herd of Hampshire and Duroc swine, and fine breeding herds of Aberdeen-Angus and Hereford beef cattle.

In the beginning most of the farm land was badly eroded and cut everywhere by gullies. It was typical of much of this state's soil, which has been abused seriously. Now, under the management of O. B. Ellis, a county commissioner, oat land produces 75 bushels per acre, all crop fields go into the winter with a cover of legumes, pastures, and other sloping fields are terraced to stop erosion, and the soil is fertilized and limed.

The institution produces 93 per cent of the food it consumes, it boasts its own canning plant, modern buildings, the biggest silo in the world, a rendering plant, huge machine and blacksmith shops, and everything else needed to make it an asset rather than a liability to the community.

High Quality Herds.

There are 5,000 nogs on the farm, and a herd of 200 Jersey cattle which is expected to furnish stock for Jersey isle off England, where the original breed has been badly decimated under German rule. A herd of 450 purebred Angus and 600 Herefords furnishes meat for the prison and breeding stock for farmers of the surrounding countryside.

Crops include corn, oats, soybeans, sorghum, clover, barley, wheat, alfalfa, and every variety of vegetable. Ellis boasts that not one stalk of cotton grows on the farm. The cost of feeding an inmate has been cut from well over one dollar a day to less than 40 cents.

Farm managers, representatives of agricultural colleges, and farmers from the south and elsewhere may be found every day touring the farm studying its methods and returning home to put into effect the modern idea they have found. As a result of the work and opportunities offered by the farm the inmates are thoroly trained as progressive farmers and, most of them leave to become credits to the community.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

COMPLETE or partial plowing or spading of garden plots this fall will create a better seedbed for next spring's planting and permit earlier planting of hardy vegetables.

Fall plowing or spading can be done any time this fall until the ground freezes, but usually it is best to wait until after a frost has stopped the growth of tomatoes, peppers, cucumbers, and other tender crops. After a frost this vegetation can be disposed of and the root crops can be dug and stored, clearing the plot. If there are parsnips, cabbages, and other hardy vegetables in the plot they naturally must be used or stored in outdoor trenches. Gardeners who planned well have these vegetables on one side of the garden so the rest of the plot can be plowed without disturbing these late crops.

Further information on fall plowing will be printed tomorrow in this space.

Jewelry Store Burglary Loss Is Set at $10,000

Burglars who broke open a safe in a jewelry store at 1047 Argyle st. the night of Oct. 5 obtained $10,000 in jewelry, old gold, cash, and war bonds, Harry Davis, the owner, told police yesterday. The burglary was reported to police the following day, but the inventory of the loss was not completed until yesterday.

DICK TRACY

TWO NEW POLIO CASES APPEAR; TO PROBE DEATH

Two new infantile paralysis patients, one a girl 3 years old and the other a 27 year old woman, were reported in Chicago in the 24 hour period ended at 8 a. m. yesterday. There have been 139 cases and six deaths from the disease in the city this year, compared with 878 cases and 80 deaths at this time a year ago. The county health department has received reports of 73 cases and four deaths, compared with 246 cases and 19 deaths last year.

Alice Caraher, 7, of 11426 Yale av., who was injured June 18 by a train, died yesterday in Contagious Disease hospital where she had been under observation for suspected infantile paralysis. An inquest will be conducted today to determine whether the disease or the injury caused her death.

TRACK LABORER FOUND DEAD.

Jesse Manis, 50, of 1155 Roosevelt rd., a track laborer, was found dead yesterday on the Illinois Central viaduct at 51st st. He apparently had been struck by a train.

THANKSGIVING ON NOV. 23 OR 30? U. S. SPLIT AGAIN

New York, Oct. 11 (AP).—The nation is split again on when to celebrate Thanksgiving day.

Five states, Florida, Idaho, Nebraska, Texas, and Virginia, plan to observe Nov. 30 thru local choice.

Forty-one states and the District of Columbia have fixed Nov. 23 for the holiday, following federal statute.

In two states, Arkansas and Georgia, there is a chance both dates will be recognized because local laws fixing Nov. 23 as the holiday interfere with football games and other traditional events scheduled for the later date.

The differences started in 1939 when President Roosevelt, to provide a longer period between Thanksgiving and Christmas, moved the date ahead one week. At that time, many governors ignored the change and fixed the traditional date, the last Thursday in November, set originally by President Lincoln in 1864.

Don't You Believe It? We're Selling 'Em and Cheap, Too! Save $100 to $1,000

"As GOOD AS GOLD"
We'll go out of "Our Way" to give YOU an honest square deal.
BECAUSE: [1] We're out of the high rent district.
BECAUSE: [2] We don't need fancy trimmings or high pressure salesmen.
BECAUSE: [3] You don't pay for silk curtains, marble floors.
